NEW SINGLE VARIETIES.

The (*) before the name indicates good commercial varieties.

ELIZABETH FIRESTONE. (A. N. Pierson, Inc.) This bright ink seedling has appealed to the commercial grower and to the tore-man as a valuable and much-needed acquisition. The stems re strong and carry the flowers well. This characteristic must not e overlooked in growing flowers for market. It comes into flower rom November 15th to 20th, which is after Mrs. W. E. Buckingham nd just before Mrs. E. D. Godfrey is ready to cut.
Rooted Cuttings, $1.00 per doz.; $5.00 per 100; $45.00 per 1,000
2¼-inch pots, 1.25 per doz.; 8.00 per 100

MRS. E. M. HORNE. (Horne-A. N. Pierson, Inc.) Light, bronze-ellow shaded old-gold. The flowers which are flat in form are pro-uced in good-sized graceful sprays which bunch well. Growth vig-rous and erect. Matures Nov. 5th to 10th.
2¼-inch pots, $1.50 per doz.; $10.00 per 100

MOLLY WHITMORE. (A. N. Pierson, Inc.) Deep, golden-bronze, ffectively suffused with terra-cotta; distinct, deep yellow center. he well-formed flower carries three rays of petals, which incurve ightly. This is a desirable trait where they are subject to ship-ing conditions or considerable handling. The growth being erect character, this variety may be planted closer than the more ranching kinds.
2¼-inch pots, $1.50 per doz.; $10.00 per 100

PEGGY BULKELEY. (A. N. Pierson, Inc.) We consider this new ariety one of the prettiest in our entire collection. The color is a ft, yet luminous, pink, changing as the flower matures to a delicate auve-pink. The blooms are large, averaging four rays of petals, hich recurve gracefully from a golden-yellow center. The growth vigorous and erect, producing large sprays, which show the indi-idual flowers to the best possible advantage. An ideal cut-flower pot-plant variety. Matures Nov. 10th to 15th.
2¼-inch pots, $1.50 per doz.; $10.00 per 100

GENERAL COLLECTION OF SINGLES.

Rooted Cuttings, 60c per doz.; $3.00 per 100; $25.00 per 1,000

EARLY-FLOWERING CHRYSANTHEMUMS FOR OUTDOOR GROWING.

The question of hardiness in the Chrysanthemum family is such that to call these hardy, as we have formerly done, is unfair, because so much depends upon the character of the soil and the drainage. Too much covering in winter has ruined more plants than a cover of any kind has saved. Some firms class these as Decorative varieties. Several in the list do well indoors, as among the Pompons and Singles there are those which do well outdoors. The varieties listed have larger blooms than the larger-flowered Pompons, unless otherwise described.

a ship containing the returning boys at New York January 5. Mr. Comley was on the boat of the mayor of New York, as his guest. Corporal Comley wishes to extend greetings to all his friends in the trade through The Review.

S. J. Goddard says he never had his carnations in finer shape than this season. Laddie is doing well; so is Doris and Seedling 119 is better than ever.

The Houghton-Gorney Co. has some finely flowered Acacia Baileyana and splendid hybrid amaryllis. This concern is featuring old-fashioned bouquets, in common with several other firms.

J. J. Casey, proprietor of the Rosary, on Boyleston street, has the sympathy of many friends in the trade in the loss of his wife and niece last week from influenza.

The New England Nurserymen's Association has decided to hold its convention January 27 and 28 at the American House, in lieu of the Hotel Bellevue, in order to accommodate the large number anxious to hear the lectures and discussions. Lecturers will include J. Horace McFarland, of Harrisburg, Pa.; W. W. Rockwell, of New York; W. H. Judd, of the Arnold Arboretum, and Peter Koster, of Holland, who will speak on conditions in Holland and Belgium and the threatened embargo on nursery imports from abroad.

Charles Evans, of Watertown, and William Jurgens, of Newport, were the first to send in French trumpet narcissi to the markets.

Remember the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club the evening of January 21. It is installation and ladies' night and the committee in charge promises everyone a most enjoyable evening.

William Cleary, a well known old-time florist of Newton, died January 5 after a short illness. He had been a familiar figure in Boston for many years.

The Market.

During the week there has been a decided decline in market activity. However, not enough to create a severe drop in prices. All stock demands a fair price. Roses, having been extremely scarce for some time, can now be had in limited quantities. Killarneys are excellent. Most of them have clean foliage, vigorous stems and large flowers. At this time they are leading all others. Sunburst is showing an improvement. Carnations are again plentiful, which is a great relief. In order to move a portion of them, it has been necessary to offer them as low as $3 per hundred.

Various Notes.

The Quality Flower Shop, Fillmore avenue, operated by Miss Olszewski, a former employee at W. C. Stroh's store on Main street, has closed up.

The new store of S. A. Anderson on Elmwood avenue is undergoing a general cleaning in preparation for opening. It is a new building connected with the greenhouses. F. P. A.

PITTSBURGH.

Various Notes.

Secretary Adolph Kruhm has returned from a several days' trip through central Ohio in the interest of Beckert's Seed Store, of the north side. Beginning this week, Mr. Kruhm has inaugurated a unique weekly series of educational window displays, the current exhibition including a collection of seven distinct classes of brassicas, to which are attached by ribbons photographs reproducing the respective finished products. Supplementing the display is a framed printed notice directing the attention of the spectators to the similarity in appearance of seeds ranging anywhere from 5 cents to $25 per pound, and emphasizing the importance of prospective purchasers selecting a seed house of unimpeachable reliability.

After eight months in the service, Jasper Estle has been honorably discharged and has returned to the service of Samuel Cape, the Lawrenceville florist, for whom he has been a chauffeur for the last eight years. Owing to a fall which incapacitated him for some time, Jasper spent practically the entire time at Camp Upton, sailing for France just before "the Kaiser signed the pledge." As a matter of fact, the vessel was in mid-ocean when this important stage of the game was reached; so, instead of proceeding toward the front, her course was turned homeward, with no notification, however, to that effect to the warrior passengers. Jasper was practically as unfamiliar with the appearance of Manhattan as with that of Paris and for some time after landing thought he was in the French capital instead of New York city. In his inimitable way he makes a most effective story of his illusion and disillusionment. Jasper much prefers the trade to military life, and "Mistah Sam" to Uncle Sam.

Walter James, the superintendent of William M. Turner's greenhouses on the Laketon road, Wilkinsburg, has returned to work following a severe attack of influenza.

Fred Burki, William A. Clarke and Theodore P. Langhans, together with a number of others, expect to make a congenial party in attendance at the annual convention of the Carnation Society. Mr. Langhans requests that any western Pennsylvanians contemplating the trip will notify him to that effect in care of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., 116 Sandusky street, Pittsburgh.

Friends and acquaintances in the trade will be glad to hear that the genial Thomas A. Joyce, familiarly known as "Teddy," is expected home sometime during next month from nearly a year's service in France. Mr. Joyce, who is an enlisted man, had five months' preliminary training at the Presidio in San Francisco, Cal. Meanwhile his business has been in charge of his assistant and brother, Michael Joyce. The Market.

Business during the first days of the new year has been decidedly active, although trade conditions are not entirely satisfactory, due to the continued shortage in cut flowers, although the supply is better than it had been for some weeks preceding the holidays. Prices have dropped but little from the holiday level.

Flowers for social affairs have been in fine demand, especially for table decorations and corsages. Many of the hotels have opened their dancing halls and cabarets since the first of the year. Wedding decorations also have become more numerous and lavish.

Reports as to the supply, however, are not so optimistic. Arrivals of roses do not begin to satisfy the call, and many local growers are cutting only fifty per cent of their usual supply for this season. Carnations are more plentiful, although the price has dropped from $12 to $6 per hundred. Some exceptionally fine cattleyas are being offered.

Various Notes.

Miss C. B. Flick, of the Patten Flower Shop, Toledo, O., spent last week here visiting relatives, on her way to Los Angeles, Cal., where she will spend the remainder of the winter, returning to Toledo in time for Easter.

The Freese Floral Co. has been having a fine sale of blooming plants for the hospitals. Henry Freese is confined to his bed, suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Miss Catherine Vesey, who has been at Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky., nursing soldiers suffering from influenza, has returned to her home. Miss Vesey also assisted her sister, Miss Margaret Vesey, with her duties at the Hostess house at the camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blossom, of the Flick Floral Co., announce the arrival of a son, born December 14.

Miss Marguerite Flick is in Detroit, Mich., spending several weeks with friends on a trip combining business and pleasure. R. F. B.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

HARD COAL RESTRICTIONS OFF.

On account of an increased supply and accumulation, all restrictions as to shipment of anthracite coal of egg and pea sizes have been removed, it is announced by the Fuel Administration. Notices to this effect have been mailed by the administration to all anthracite shippers and distributors.

All shipments of egg and pea coal to territories formerly embargoed or states formerly zoned out to anthracite coal are now without restrictions, and it will be permissible to ship egg and pea coal to such markets as may be found for it. This permission applies only to egg and pea coal and the restrictions on other sizes continue.

As the result of the action here related, the situation is that egg and pea coal, steam coal, buckwheat, No. 1 and smaller sizes, can be shipped to any point where they may be marketed. The restrictions on anthracite shipments now apply only to the sizes stove and chestnut.

TOO HOT AND DRY.

I am writing for advice in regard to a greenhouse of which I have charge. The house is situated on the top of a 4-story factory building and is 18x50, with a partition across the center. One room is used for vegetables and the other for flowers. The heat is furnished by a low-pressure boiler. The main feed pipe travels one block before arriving at the greenhouse. This pipe is 2½-inch, but is reduced to 1½-inch inside the greenhouse. There it feeds the coils, of which there are two in each section, each coil containing eight 1½-inch pipes. The coils are located under the side benches.

I have had a hard time trying to keep the heat down. The temperature runs up to 80 degrees, with the heat turned off on one side. What would you advise me to do? The air in the house is extremely dry; there seems to be absolutely no moisture. On top of the pipes I have placed eight pans, which hold over a pail of water, and when I enter the house in the morning these pans are dry. J. S.—Ill.

The letter does not state the amount of glass, if any, in the side walls of the greenhouse, nor the temperature that must be maintained in the greenhouse in the coldest weather. If we consider a house without glass in the walls and where a night temperature of 60 degrees is desired, we would use only eight 1½-inch pipes for each section of the house. This would be just one-half the present number, as we understand it. Four pipes could be placed in a coil on each wall, or under the side benches, and to keep down the heat in mild weather we would use shut-off valves at Neither in the East or West, nor the North or South has any other make of boiler ever equaled the performance of the Kroeschell—installed for 3,974,605 square feet of glass in 1916-1917. Every customer immensely satisfied. The high efficiency and low cost of operation makes the Kroeschell the best of all boilers for Florists' use.

KROESCHELL BOILERS have satisfactorily and permanently solved the effective burning of screenings. They will burn the worst grades of coal, even the dirtiest culm or sawdust and wood refuse.

Greenhouse owners like the KROESCHELL because of its extreme simplicity and freedom from trouble. As a fuel saver, it pays its own way. The KROESCHELL will increase your heating plant efficiency 20 to 40%.

The KROESCHELL has proven its worth in many of the large establishments in this country. It has frequently been selected by the most careful buyers in competition with all other types of boilers. Its efficiency and capacity are completely beyond any other boiler.

each end of two of these pipes. Provided only 50 degrees is needed at night, three pipes in each coil are all that would be required and there should be shut-off valves in two of these.

Judging from the letter, it will be possible to cut off any one of the coils entirely. When this is done, it will be easy to take out a portion of the pipes and insert valves as suggested. In the same way the needed changes may be made in the other coils in turn. Provided there is glass in the side walls, it

Save Coal on Greenhouse Boilers

May we send you on a month's trial, prepaid, a Coggeshall Air Tube Cleaner to clean your boiler tubes? It creates its own air pressure with the use of low pressure steam.

Specially Adapted for Greenhouse Boilers

It cleans your boiler perfectly in four minutes, while running. It does away with the hand method. It saves its cost before the trial is ended. It can be returned, express collect, if you do not find it to your interest to purchase the cleaner. It lasts a lifetime. There are thousands in use. The price is $12.00.

may be necessary to have a little more radiation in severe weather than has been suggested, but one additional pipe will suffice for three or four additional feet of glass.

If, after the changes suggested have been made, the air in the greenhouse is still too dry, we would syringe the plants and wet down the walks in the middle of the afternoon, and again wet down the walks when leaving the house at night. Judgment should be used about syringing the plants, especially if cold water only is available, but it can generally be done with safety to most plants, on sunshiny days.

The Market.

We are having the finest weather, with bright days and frosty nights. Business continues steady and satisfactory. There are enough flowers to go around. Greens are plentiful. There is an abundance of carnations of good quality at $1.50 to $2 per dozen. Roses are in shorter supply. Sweet peas are coming in more freely, while calendulas, Paper Whites, Roman hyacinths, etc., are in fair supply. There are a few mums still to be seen and some pompons.

Various Notes.

Theodore Kuebler is cutting fine carnations. He also is cutting mums, chiefly Mistletoe. He says he will have mums up to April.

The Lockyear Floral Co. is enjoying a brisk business.

C. L. Niednagel has a fine stock of coleus, including Brilliancy.

Sergeant Walter Blackman has obtained his release from the army and returned to his duties at the store of the William Blackman Floral Co. George Blackman says he will let Walter manage his business also, as his health is not so good and he will take a needed rest.

Mr. Miller, who has been here recently selling Ironite, is certainly a persuasive talker and a good salesman. He appears to be well informed on horticultural matters, also. He brought letters from western growers and supply houses claiming great things for Ironite. His plan is to ship a few bags to the town he is going to, go out and sell them, deliver them at once by taxi and then go on to the next place. At least that is the method used here. He sold to several growers here who seemed skeptical even after they had invested in the preparation. E. L. F.

DETROIT, MICH.

The Market.

During the last week, due to milder weather, flowers have become more plentiful. Roses are of good quality, especially Ophelia and Columbia, which easily find a market. Beauties move slowly, not being of the best quality. Russell is better and sells well. Short-stemmed Ophelia, Ward and Columbia are not coming in as plentiful supply as business demands. Good bulbous stock, such as narcissi, hyacinths and freesia, are arriving and give the shops a spring-like appearance.

Various Notes.

The Detroit Florists' Club met January 8, with J. F. Sullivan in the chair. Mr. Walker, a well known business man of this city, gave an interesting talk to the club on "Efficiency." Philip Breitmeyer gave an account of Christmas business in the trade, which was listened to with close attention.

E. A. Fetters had the decorations for the New Year celebration of the Ford Motor Car Co., which was held in the ballroom of the Statler hotel. This was the most elaborate affair of its kind occurring in this city for some time, there being 200 tables which were effectively decorated with calendulas. M. Bloy, a former florist of Detroit, was seen at work on this contract and it may be said that he knows how to deliver the goods. H. E. T.

ALBANY, N. Y.

Club Banquet.

The annual banquet of the Albany Florists' Club took place at Keeler's restaurant January 2, with forty members in attendance. Fred A. Danker acted as toastmaster. The out-of-town guests were James Kairns and Stephen Greene, both of Philadelphia; Maurice Cohen, New York; Joseph Traudt, Canajoharie; John Sambrook, Troy; James G. Barrett, Troy; Samuel R. Hansen, Troy; William Newport, president of the club, Newtonville; Frederick Henkes, Newtonville, and James Snyder, Rhinebeck.

Edward P. Tracey, proprietor of the Rosery Flower Shop, spoke on the organization of a retailer's association.

An orchestra was in attendance and Dennis McCarthy rendered several solos, one of which was composed by Mr. Kairns. Messrs. McCarthy and Tracey both made great hits.

The table decorations consisted of American Beauty roses and orchids and beautiful foliage plants. T. F. T.

Gladiolus: Mrs. Watt has been grown from Massachusetts to California, and has made good with every florist who has given it a trial. Resembling the American Beauty rose in color, but more brilliant, it will occupy the same place among gladioli as does the American Beauty among roses. Unexcelled for forcing, and because of its distinctive beautiful shade and strong upright growth, it meets the need of every florist.

MESEMBRYANTHEMUMS

Mesembryanthemums, the large and true flowering variety. As the mesembryanthemums are related to the cactus family, you must bear in mind that they should be treated somewhat similar to the cactus. Keep them a little on the dry side and also a sunny situation for best results, by this you can get them to bloom much better. Extra strong 2½-in., ready for 4-in., for specimen plants, or put 2 or 3 of these in a hanging basket. I have them drooping from 2 to 3 feet, come and see them. Price on the extra large ones, $5.00 per 100; 2-in. strong and branchy, $3.50 per 100; R. C. very choice, $2.00 per 100, $18.00 per 1000. I will guarantee my stock to be extra choice. Louis P. Faulk, R. F. D. 3, Box 63, Bellevue, Pa.

WOOD LABELS

LABELS FOR NURSERYMEN AND FLORISTS
Benjamin Chase Co., Derry Village, N. H

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

Business continues to be good, with stock in normal supply. The snow of last week is still on the ground, but the days are bright, though the nights continue to be cold. Carnations were never better, but roses are off crop. Labor conditions are improving and it is hoped that prices will come down in the near future.

Various Notes.

A. H. Dailey is getting his bedding plants in shape for the spring trade.

A. J. McNutt continues to dispose of all the stock he grows and has to buy additional supplies from the wholesale market to meet the demand.

Mrs. Rosa Hall Ryno is getting ready for her spring bedding plant trade.

B. Maynard has a fine stock of ferns.

Mrs. C. S. Custer has fine stock in bedding plants coming on.

Chester Tipton has returned from England and been mustered out. He is again in charge of the greenhouses and is making room for bedding stock.

Robert E. Mapes, formerly with Baum's, was here on a furlough last week from Camp Gordon.

Miss Lydia Mapes has been called to Oklahoma on account of the serious illness of her sister. K. P. B.

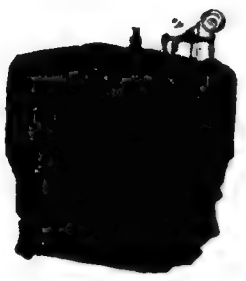
FORCING DEUTZIA GRACILIS.

Please give particulars for forcing Deutzia gracilis for Easter. When should it be started and what temperature is needed? H. H. C.—O.



April 20 being the date of Easter in 1919, your deutzias should be started in a temperature of 50 degrees eight weeks before that date. Once the plants are fairly started into growth, you can give them 8 to 10 degrees more heat. Syringe them freely until the flower buds show, then discontinue. As the flowers start to expand they will have more substance if placed in a house a few degrees cooler. Deutzias are easily forced and make a most satisfactory Easter plant. While D. gracilis is a good variety, D. Lemoinei is much better, and I would advise you to try the latter another season. These plants are easily propagated from soft-wood cuttings and nice plants for forcing can be had in a couple of years if young stock is planted out in good soil early in May. C. W.

Victoria, Tex.—L. F. Sitterle, 405 South Williams street, is going into the greenhouse business and expects to be ready to sell by Easter. He is a young man, without experience.

Prices Down 25%

Just think of it! Boilers are down 25% — back to the good old "before the war" prices. And not "just boilers" but McKEES—

You know the McKee— the boiler that——is the most reliable — you know it is always on the job day and night —compared with a steel boiler, gives far more heat for a like amount of coal and the same degree of heat for much less coal —is so constructed that it causes rapid circulation of water —grows with your requirements — you simply add sections

—radiates heat more rapidly than any steel boiler —has both rocking and dumping grates
—is made in 48 sizes — one for you —is tested to 60 pounds pressure
—has a three time fire travel —is the most economical
—fits a small boiler pit
—has no flues to leak
—will not blow up
—lasts a lifetime

Remember! 48 sizes!

—which is yours?

The Most For Your Money

Give the above cut a little more than a passing glance.

Notice how evenly balanced the supporting on the inside is.

Benches and walks come out nicely so that additional houses may be added without disturbing the first one.

Actual figures arrived at by calculating every item from glass to nails show that in this width house you get the most ground space covered for the money expended.

It is a strong, yet light and airy house. You can grow prize-winning stock with a minimum of care.

Now is the time to have us estimate the cost of such a house for you. Just drop us a line and we will send an estimate.

WHEN FORTY AGREE—

Is must be a fact and it is a fact that PERMANITE is the ONE PERFECT CEMENT for GREENHOUSES!

The W. A. Rowe Floral Company together with thirty-nine other florists in Kirkwood, Mo., have been using Permanite for glazing their Greenhouses, to repair their roofs and to reline the gutters for a period of almost five years. During these five years, these forty florists have been putting Permanite through the most severe tests and Permanite alway did their work well, did it better than anything they had ever used before.

PERMANITE is ALWAYS THE SAME, it never failed them and all Permanite users think alike!

ASBESTOS—the chief ingredient of PERMANITE—combined with everlasting elastic gums makes Permanite practically indestructible. No matter how severe the climate may be, Permanite is there to stay. Because of its rubber-like nature, Permanite is unaffected by expansion and contraction; when you put on PERMANITE it is PUT ON TO STAY ON!

Read Mr. Rowe's letter—76,000 feet of glass permanently permanited with Permanite—and follow his lead; he knows exactly what Permanite can do for YOU because he has used the material for years. You can experience the same satisfactory service if....., well, write our Service Department. They will be glad to tell you more about PERMANITE and explain to you how it SAVES YOU MONEY.

Drop us a line—NOW—it's for your benefit. Remember—Permanite is put on to stay on—it never hardens.

Gentlemen:-

I have used Permanite for five years, and no doubt will always use it. I find it the best I have ever used for putty, and is all that you claim for it. There are perhaps forty florists in our neighborhood using it, and I think they are all well pleased.

Respectfully yours,

W. A. Rowe.

HAVE YOU REALIZED

THAT IT IS AS DIFFICULT TO BUY GOOD STOCK AS IT IS TO SELL SAME?

Are you one of these "Bargain Hunters" who only look at low prices? Remember that

"The Sweetness of Low Prices Never Equals the Bitterness of Poor Quality."

Our prices on Gladiolus Bulbs are reasonable, considering the quality of goods we send out, and prices for our "none better" stock cannot be compared with inferior Gladioli.

We are still selling Gladiolus Bulbs according to standard sizes. Our first size runs 1½-inch and up, and our second size, being 1¼-inch, differs very little from first size offered by other dealers. If interested in 1⅜ and 1⅛-inch size, write for prices.

Our Terms: 30 days, or 2% cash. Unknown correspondents please send cash with order.

Delivery: F. O. B. Benton Harbor, Mich. Packing will be charged at cost. 100 of a kind at one-tenth of 1000 price.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

NARCISSI FIRST SPEAK OF SPRING

Early displays of narcissi and other spring flowers have a special power to lure dollars from customers' pockets. Spring usually is the most welcome of all the seasons. Hence, flowers that symbolize and promise spring are peculiarly acceptable, like a letter announcing the coming of a longed-for friend.

THOUGH the majority of florists may disagree positively with much of Mohammed's teaching; though they may refuse to swallow his religion whole or even in large chunks, they will unanimously approve his sentiment about bread and narcissi, as recorded in the square at the right of this column. Mohammed evidently was a stanch believer in the necessity of flowers and his opinion carries weight. But a greater and earlier authority than Mohammed declared that "man shall not live by bread alone"—bread in the sense of material food of any kind. The same truth has been taught also by experience, particularly by experience during the world's greatest war, when flowers were most literally in demand—absolutely demanded by multitudes of sorrowing or rejoicing people.

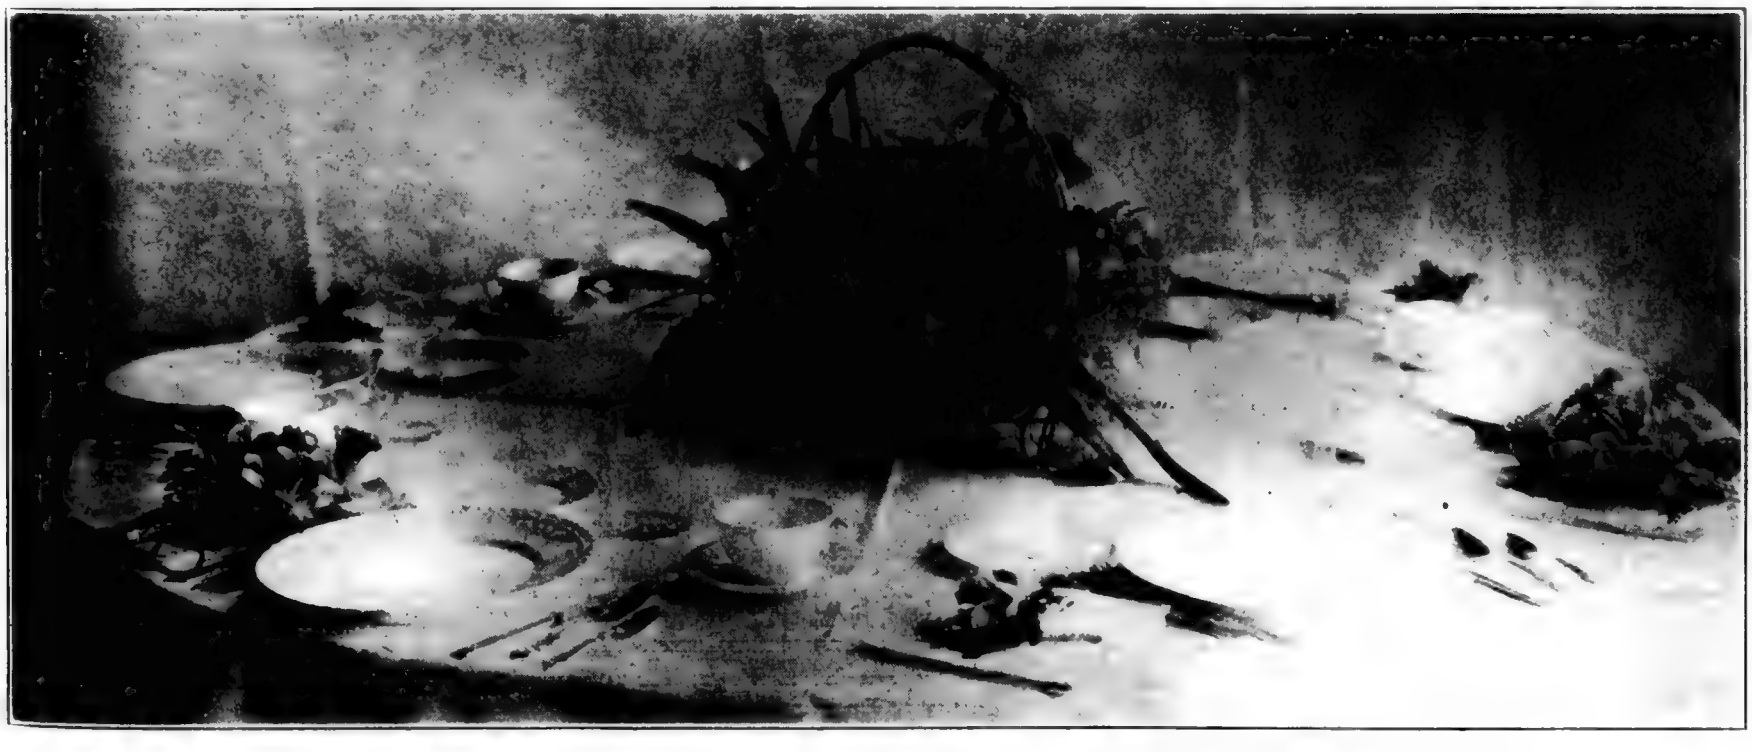
Rushing the Season.

We florists, then, have the best of reasons for being proud of our calling. Therefore let us push the business "in season and out of season," and especially let us prepare for each season before its arrival. More especially still, let us prepare for spring, the season to which most people look forward so longingly that they are glad to see—and purchase—any tokens of it, particularly the floral tokens. Spring still may be far in the future; there may not be the faintest hint of it in the air.

Whoever has two loaves of bread, let him trade one for a narcissus; for bread is nourishment for the body, but the narcissus is nourishment for the soul. —Mohammed.

Let the florist use this in his ads offering narcissi and other spring flowers.

But florists are adepts at rushing the seasons; it is by such rushing that they overtake and capture the greatest number of those elusive, winged, slippery things called dollars.



Have you any doubt about the persuasive power of the early spring flowers—flowers that herald the approach of spring while winter still reigns? When a person is disgruntled and peevish on account of the continued inclemency of the weather; when he is muttering anathemas about "a winter that lasts more than half the year"; when he even goes so far as to call the north temperate zone a God-forsaken region, and when he sighs for a home nearer the tropics or the warm ocean currents—when he is in so sullen a mood, then it is that an early display of spring flowers, in a florist's store, may bring him to his senses. The pretty blooms, skillfully arranged, seem to say to him: "Cheer up and brace up. You can get more good things, including flowers, on this strip of the globe than anywhere else, if you are willing to pay for them. And here, in this invigorating climate, is where people have energy enough to earn plenty of money with which to purchase the best of the world's joys and comforts. Be a gentleman and a sport; buy some spring flowers and take them home as a message of gladness for your family."

Thus the spring flowers, appearing early in a florist's window or even in his printed advertisements, catch the public fancy because they are a distinct, unmistakable promise of spring while spring itself is still a distant prospect.

A Stimulus When Most Needed.

Meanwhile the sale of the reliable, indispensable, all-year stand-bys, like roses and carnations, is interfered with only temporarily, if at all, and in the end is increased. The actual stay of spring flowers is comparatively brief—two or three months at the most—but their stimulus is enduring. Their stimulus is available, too, at a time when it is most needed, in the dull period between the winter holidays and Easter.

The many kinds of spring flowers, bulbous and otherwise, are all familiar to the average florist and scarcely need to be enumerated here. The purpose now is to direct particular attention to narcissi, since they may be considered a good type or example of spring flowers in general. Besides, a display that consists principally of one sort of flowers, such as narcissi, is much more distinctive, attractive and convincing than is a miscellaneous lot of flowers. The miscellaneous lot has no theme, no motif, no clear meaning. The passer-by becomes hopelessly lost as he looks at it—if, indeed, he stops to look. There is so much to see that he sees nothing. A narcissus window, therefore, is much more effective than is a window that can be described only as a flower window.

Enlightening and Alluring.

One of the artistic uses that can be made of narcissi is shown in the illustration on the preceding page. The illustration may either be helpful in the actual arrangement of a table decoration or may serve as a suggestion for a window display.

Florists' windows should enlighten, as well as allure, the observer. Many people have only the haziest ideas of the uses of flowers. They scarcely know what flowers are for and are sadly in need of the right kind of object lessons on the subject.

A florist, therefore, has not taken the greatest possible advantage of the season's opportunities if he has merely filled some storage jars with spring flowers and has set the loaded receptacles primly in a row, as evidence, unobtrusive and mere matter-of-fact evidence, that the stock is on hand if anybody is searching for it. If a florist is so situated—perhaps he is—that he can get plenty of patronage with no further effort than that, he is fortunate. But if he is always on the outlook for more business, as most florists are, he will try to give some clear indication of the unique possibilities of spring flowers, as used in bouquets, corsages, decorations, etc.

Harmony Without Monotony.

The colors, though harmonious, should have a certain degree of distinctness. The adept—only the adept, who knows exactly how to do the trick without running too much risk—may create a striking and fine effect by putting in a touch or two of bright color that almost clashes, just as the accomplished musician frequently introduces a near-discord, a dissonance or "harmonic discord," which is the most brilliant and delightful of harmonies.

Some of the flowers may be displayed, of course, in suitably colored baskets, tastefully bedecked with the proper spring accessories, including butterflies or humming birds, or other realistic symbols of spring life and activity. An artistic basket, skillfully used, adds much more than its own cost to the selling price of the flowers. In such displays it is advisable to use low baskets, with low handles and tin containers, so that all the stems may be in water. Perhaps it is scarcely necessary to say that the ribbon should be attached in such a way as to appear to serve a practical purpose in fastening some parts of the combination together. The ribbon is in danger of seeming out of place, a mere intruder or "hanger-on," unless it conveys the illusion of being useful as well as ornamental.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

SNAPDRAGONS.

The cut of flowers from snapdragons is now at its lowest ebb. There are one or two winter-blooming varieties that are fairly dependable, but we are yet seeking a true midwinter-blooming race which will bloom as do carnations and violets. Such antirrhinums are sure to come before long, however, and even as it is we can get fairly good returns from the various popular indoor varieties now on the market. You cannot force snaps, as the markets commonly term them. A winter minimum of 45 degrees is better than 50 degrees. Let the plants in beds or benches dry out well between waterings and damp the foliage as little as possible. Rust and stem-rot are liable to become troublesome now, especially where the plants were grown from cuttings instead of seed. A fairly dry atmosphere, plenty of fresh air and the removal of diseased plants as soon as detected, are advised. For plants benched in August, which have now filled the benches with roots, a top-dressing of fine, well decayed manure will now prove beneficial. This is preferable to liquid manure. Sow a batch of seed now, if you want an indoor crop for Memorial day and through the month of June. The intermediate types are best and some fine sorts are to be had which have been raised in America and have proved their value for greenhouse culture.

IVY-LEAVED GERANIUMS.

All the ivy-leaved geraniums make grand plants for baskets and there can be no better time than the present for filling these. Especially fine varieties for baskets are Souv. de Charles Turner, Achievement, Ryecroft's Surprise and Colonel Baden Powell. A temperature of 50 degrees at night and full sun will suit these ivy-leaved geraniums in baskets. While fuchsias prefer some shade during their blooming period, the geraniums succeed better in brighter locations.

AZALEA MOLLIS.

There will be few plants of Azalea indica for Easter, 1919, but Azalea mollis from home-grown stock is available and makes a most desirable pot plant. It sells well much earlier than Easter and, started now, can be had in bloom within fifty or sixty days. It can be forced fairly hard, but as the flowers open a somewhat lower temperature is desirable, to give them substance. In Azalea mollis there are some beautiful colors that are not found in A. indica, such as golden yellow, orange and reddish orange, and any of these deciduous shrubs appeal much to buyers when winter has been with us for some time.

LEMON VERBENAS.

Of course everyone who handles bedding plants needs some plants of Aloysia citriodora, as the ever popular lemon-scented verbena is termed botanically. If you lifted some old plants from the field and heeled them in where they are free from frost, you can soon increase your stock. Pot up the stock plants, prune back somewhat, place in a warm house and spray freely, but water sparingly until the growths start. An overplus of water often causes stock plants to rot away entirely. Take the cuttings while they are short and stocky and can be rubbed off with a heel. You will find that cuttings of this type are fairly certain to root well, while those from more mature wood prove somewhat unsatisfactory.

POTTING FOLIAGE PLANTS.

During the dark days of winter, while the sun is at its lowest ebb and various greenhouse duties outside of firing are somewhat less onerous, is a good time to overhaul any palms and other foliage plants, such as crotons, dracænas, pandanus, ficus, etc., and to do any necessary repotting. In some cases the removal of some of the surface soil and the application of a top-dressing may suffice. Use clean pots, drain sufficiently and use a compost of fibrous loam, with some well decayed and dry cow manure and sharp sand added. From three-fourths to four-fifths of the whole should be loam. Ram the compost firmly and be sure to leave an ample space for water. For some time after potting, the watering must be done carefully, so that the balls may not become soggy. All work of this kind should be done now, or it is liable to be overlooked entirely as the busy season advances.

POTTING BEGONIA LEAVES.

It is not necessary to wait for the appearance of growths before potting leaves of such winter-blooming begonias as Cincinnati, Lorraine, Melior and Mrs. Peterson. If there is good root action from the leaf stalks, the growths are sure to come in good season. Be sure to use a light compost, mostly flaky leaf-mold with some sharp sand added, and let it be warm. After potting, stand the plants on a bench where they will get some bottom heat and a temperature of 60 degrees at night. Put in a further batch of leaves. These will have time to root before we get such warm weather that heat in the sand will be irregular or much reduced.

Columbus, O.—The Franklin Park Floral Co. tore down part of an old range and built one new house with concrete walls, posts and benches, in time to stock it for holiday business, which is reported excellent.

Carlisle, Pa.—John E. Dewalt, who conducts a large greenhouse here, lost heavily when his heating plant was damaged and went out of commission overnight. The entire contents of the greenhouse, valued at $1,500, were frozen.

ORCHIDS

SEASONABLE ORCHID NOTES.

Cattleyas.

Commercial growers who have any cattleyas would do well to take good care of them. If the new law prohibiting all entries of plants with soil on their roots goes into effect June 1, orchids will be entirely barred out. It has not been claimed that any destructive pest has ever come in with orchids, any more than with bay trees, boxwoods, araucarias, azaleas, rhododendrons or hollies, but the quintette of all-powerful members of the Federal Horticultural Board have thus far failed to listen to the reasonable protests of our growers and importers, and, if the bars go down, the orchid industry here, which has been steadily growing of late years, will suffer a severe body blow. The cattleya is and has been the commercial orchid par excellence and we have been dependent on South America for our importations. Hitherto we have done little in raising seedlings at home. The writer of these notes from time to time has advocated the production of seedlings of the best varieties of cattleyas, not hybrids, for of these we already have an abundance, but quantities of such standard varieties as C. labiata, Trianæ, Mossiæ, Mendelii, gigas, Percivaliana, Skinneri, Bowringiana, aurea and others of proven value. These cannot be produced quickly. Three years is the earliest time in which I have flowered a cattleya hybrid from seed sowing and it takes double that time for many and for some even more. There are naturally few growers financially able to wait so long for returns, when they can secure immediate crops, but cattleyas may soon become more or less of a memory commercially, with the embargo kept up, unless some seedling raisers produce cattleyas at home. Points in favor of seedlings are that they are more vigorous than imported plants and they often bloom twice a year. For these reasons alone they should command double the price of imported plants.

Cattleya Trianæ.

Cattleya Trianæ is now in good crop. It is the florist's most useful orchid and fills a long season. Some of the plants flower well ahead of the holidays; others will bloom until early in March. This popular orchid does not need a high temperature. During the winter of 1917-18 and again during the present winter, our night temperatures have dropped to 45 and 50 degrees. None of the plants showed any ill effects. Some appear more vigorous and evidently approve of the 10 degrees less warmth at night. With lower temperatures, however, a drier atmosphere is needed and watering must be done with more discrimination. It is much safer to underwater cattleyas than the reverse. Once a week is as often as our plants have had water for many weeks; occasionally the intervals have been longer. Bright mornings are chosen for this work and a good soaking given, but woodwork or benches are well damped once a day. Ventilation from the roof is given when the temperature reaches 65 degrees. Cattleyas love fresh air and cannot bear a close, stuffy atmosphere. A light syringing overhead on clear days will prove beneficial.

Other Varieties.

Cattleya labiata is starting into growth now and plants needing baskets or new pots should be overhauled. Use good fern fiber for compost and drain the pots well. Cut away all dead or decaying roots and bulbs and give the plants a good sponging before repotting. You cannot firm them too well in their receptacles. Leave the surface slightly rounded. As C. Percivaliana passes out of flower, keep it dry for a few weeks before repotting. This does not mean absolutely to keep the water from it, but to reduce the supply. Varieties coming into sheath, such as Mossiæ, Skinneri, Schroederæ, Mendelii, etc., should have the warmest part of the house, as should gigas and aurea. The two latter like more warmth than the other cattleyas named. All possible sponging for scale should be done at this season. Spray well with Aphine, Fir Tree Oil or some other good insecticide, if you can find no time for sponging. The sun is increasing in power at this time, but a light shade only is needed where clear glass is used and none at all if you have ground glass.

Montreal, Que.—Five greenhouses of McKenna, Ltd., were destroyed by fire January 12, together with the plant stock they contained. A sixth house, at a short distance, escaped damage. The fire department responded promptly to a summons when the flames were discovered, but the water pressure was so weak that the firemen could not work effectively. The damage has not been estimated, but James McKenna says the greenhouses alone were worth $10,000.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS FOR SOUTHERN FLORISTS

CARNATIONS IN THE SOUTH.

The carnation houses require lots of attention about this time each year, more especially as some necessary work is neglected during the rush of preparing for the holidays. The days, too, are lengthening and, with the sun gaining power, the plants are responding to the genial warmth with increased growth. Likewise, weeds and grass are springing up quickly in the beds and these must be worked out at any cost. A top-dressing of sheep manure, or poudrette, ought to be given and continued at intervals of from two to three weeks. The great enemy of carnations in the south at this season is red spider, and it is hard to get rid of it, once it has obtained a foothold. Constant and hard syringing every bright day and a salt spray once a week will eventually clean it out, but all the same, it is a constant menace and must be carefully watched. During the month of December there was much rainy and cloudy weather, and in leaky houses considerable loss resulted from a fungous growth on the half-opened flowers. This fungus seems to flourish only in wet weather and in houses that are not tight or where water leaks through the gutters and lies in the walks or under the benches. It is depressing to report such conditions, but they prevail in many places in the south. Of course the trouble disappears with a few days of bright weather. A little sulphur paint applied to one of the steam pipes at such times will prevent or remedy the trouble. Care should be taken not to paint too much pipe surface. You may paint three feet and miss three feet. Carnation plants will not stand so much sulphur as rose plants. There seem to have been a great many split calyxes this season. The mercury has not dropped low so far, and consequently there has been little trouble in keeping the required temperature. A big drop in the night temperature for a night or two is, or at least seems to be, the main cause of the flower splitting its calyx. Keep the plants growing in their proper spaces by going over them every week, and disbud the flowers as soon as the buds are big enough. Proper ventilation and watering, with judicious feeding and sanitation, are the great things to be practiced from now on.

A batch of late cuttings may still be put in the sand, but don't expect wonders from such late ones. They will, however, make good stock to replace any that die from stem-rot after planting in the houses. White Enchantress is the greatest carnation of its color in the south, with the others nowhere. Curiously enough, this variety is being discarded in the north. As none of the other whites we have tried approach it in any respect, I would advise those who have it to keep up their own stock, as it may soon be difficult to obtain from northern growers. L.

OUR INDUSTRY IN 1918

THE U. S. CENSUS REPORT.

Compiled for War Industries Board.

The special census of the greenhouse trade, taken by the United States Census Bureau by direction of the President as a war emergency measure in the interest of the War Industries Board, revealed 8,412 commercial greenhouse establishments, with glass covering 119,331,380 square feet of ground. The value of the products in the year ending June, 1918, was $46,188,534.

While it is not to be supposed that these figures, compiled as a special census under war emergency conditions, represent the whole industry with exactness, it will give the public and the trade itself a new conception of the extent of the greenhouse business in the United States.

How Enumeration Was Made.

Readers of The Review may recall that in August, 1918, it was reported in this paper that a special census had been ordered and shortly thereafter blanks were received by large numbers of greenhouse owners. The questions were eight in number: The name of the person, firm or corporation conducting the establishment; location of offices and greenhouses; total square feet of ground covered by greenhouses; value of products; fuel used; number of males 18 years of age and over continuously employed; fertilizers used; insecticides and fungicides used.

Florists' clubs, business concerns and prominent individuals in the trade also were asked to assist the Bureau of the Census by supplying lists of names in the hope of supplementing the list already in possession of the government and making the enumeration fairly complete. Such names as were revealed through this source also received the questionnaire.

How Figures Came Out.

The trade was much perturbed by the evidence afforded by this special census of the industry that the continuation of the war probably would mean additional restrictions, other than those already placed on the trade by the Fuel Administration, but, happily, the armistice was signed before such action became necessary.

When it was announced, in December, that the War Industries Board would proceed at once to wind up its affairs The Review wrote to Samuel L. Rogers, Director of the Census, as follows:

> Some months ago we had correspondence with reference to a special census of commercial greenhouses, which you were making at the request of the War Industries Board.
> Now that the War Industries Board is winding up its affairs and will not have the contemplated use for the figures, will it be possible for this publication to procure them for the benefit of the greenhouse trade?
> This publication has a circulation of more than 10,000 copies to paid subscribers in the greenhouse trade. We think you will find that it pretty thoroughly covers the field as you found it.

Director Rogers writes: "I have taken this matter up with Hon. Edwin B. Parker, Priorities Commissioner, and he assures me that the War Industries Board has no objection to the publication of these figures," which thus are made available for the trade. They represent the expenditure of a large amount of time, money and effort and it is probable that it would be impossible for any other agency than the government to obtain the information herein made public by The Review.

Note the Facts.

In considering the figures certain facts are to be borne in mind. In the first place, this was a special census of the greenhouse industry, not of the florists' trade. The census bureau obtained the reports from 8,412 commercial greenhouse establishments. No enumeration was made of retail flower stores, wholesale flower stores, or any establishment not used for growing purposes. The enumerated number, 8,412, therefore does not represent the number of establishments in the industry as the trade knows it, because the important retailing end is omitted.

At the same time, the value of the products, compiled as $46,188,534, does not represent the real value of the turnover in the industry. It does not represent what the public pays. Nor does it represent the wholesale value of the products of the industry, because a majority, perhaps, of the greenhouse establishments are those which sell their products at retail. On the other hand, the larger establishments, if less numerous than those retailing their output, practically all sell their output at wholesale. The total of $46,188,534 therefore is neither the wholesale nor the retail value of the greenhouse products of the United States, but is a figure somewhere between.

The figures show the distribution of the greenhouse industry by states and many florists will be interested in figuring the returns as shown by the reports. There is some variation, but it should be remembered that the area is square feet of ground covered by glass, not bench area.

Nine Years Before.

If one goes back to the census of 1910 for comparative figures, it is found that at that time 10,614 establishments were enumerated as doing business in 1909, that the area covered by greenhouses was 105,165,730 square feet and that the value of products was $34,872,000. The census of 1910 probably was much more complete than the emergency census of 1918. The former one was made by enumerators in the field, subsequently followed up by a mail questionnaire, whereas the emergency census was made entirely by mail and with an imperfect mailing list for the basis. It is probable that the census of 1910 included a considerable number of small establishments found by the enumerators but never recorded in any mailing list available to the trade. Nor is any information available as to the number of names on the census bureau's mailing list from which no response was obtained. If the mail-carriers were able to deliver the letter containing the blanks there is a fair supposition that the establishments still exist, although they failed to report.

Fuel Consumption.

It is the supposition in the trade that the relationship between the fuel consumption and the value of products was what chiefly would interest the government and be the determining factor in any restrictive action taken as the war progressed.

The census shows that 8,412 greenhouses burned in the bad winter of 1917-18 274,444 tons of anthracite and 1,248,432 tons of bituminous, with small quantities of coke, oil, wood and gas, or about 1,500,000 tons of coal to heat 100,000,000 feet of ground covered by glass, or about fifteen tons of coal to each 1,000 square feet of glass reporting.

The reports regarding fertilizers and insecticides consumed have not yet been given out.

LILIUM HARRISII FOR EASTER.

I have some Harrisii lilies three or four inches high which I keep at 50 degrees. Kindly tell me what temperature is required to bring them into flower for Easter. C. B.—Minn.

I would hold the lilies in their present temperature for some time yet. They are a trifle early, but you should be able to hold them for Easter. You should be able to see and count the buds six weeks before Easter, which would be around March 6. Usually lilies in an average night temperature of 60 degrees will flower within forty days of the time when the buds show, but as Easter 1919 is late, a little less time may be needed this year. Still, it is better to have the plants open a little earlier than needed, as in a cold house or cellar they are easily held back after the first flowers have opened. C. W.

Monticello, N. Y.—K. D. L. Niven, florist, has been appointed postmaster, a position in which he served some years ago. Mr. Niven assumed the duties of the office January 1.

NIEUW AMSTERDAM CLAIMS

COMPROMISE EFFECTED.

Favorable to the Consignees.

The Nieuw Amsterdam claims have been compromised; the insurance company pays fifty per cent, the exporters twenty-five and the consignees twenty-five per cent.

Of all the losses that have occurred to importers since the war began, and they are well known to have been many, nothing hit the trade like the claims growing out of the Nieuw Amsterdam.

All branches of the trade were involved, for the Nieuw Amsterdam, on the famous trips it did not complete, carried what probably was the largest cargo of horticultural goods ever stored in the hold of a steamer. It was consigned to florists, seedsmen and nurserymen all over America.

To Freshen Memory.

Those of the hundreds directly concerned will not require to have their memories refreshed and readers of The Review probably will recall the circumstances, but it may be noted that the Nieuw Amsterdam, with many millions of gladiolus bulbs, hundreds of cases of boxwoods, scores of cases of dormant roses and hundreds of cases of general nursery stock on board, sailed for New York late in January, 1917, and in the course of a few days returned to Rotterdam. Report had it that the steamer was recalled by wireless, but this now is denied—it is said the master returned because the perils of navigation endangered his vessel.

At any rate, the cargo of the Nieuw Amsterdam was transferred, about February 7, 1917, to two smaller boats, the Maartensdyk and Westerdyk. These lay at Rotterdam week after week, repeatedly announced to sail "in a few days," until April, when the Holland-America line accepted the trade's representation that the stock would not then be worth the United States tariff duties, unloaded the steamers and returned the stock to the shippers if they would take it, as most of them did.

Slow Getting Through.

It took some little time for the meaning of this to penetrate the mind of the average consignee, but one by one the men to whom this shipload of stock had been sold awakened to the fact that they might have to pay for something they never got; that, indeed, they might in addition have to pay the freight on it. Might even have to pay for the cases the goods were packed in!

No specially active imagination is needed to conceive the extent of the shock! At first sight, it seemed impossible; those who read the notes in The Review were incredulous, but gradually it came to be recognized that the trade was confronted with a quite unusual but not unprecedented situation.

The Shippers' Responsibility.

A couple of seasons ago one of the trade organizations adopted resolutions pledging its members to place orders only on the basis of freight and duty paid, but nearly all of the Nieuw Amsterdam's cargo was sold f. o. b. nursery, packing extra. That seemed to let the shipper out.

But the stock was returned. What bearing had that? The shippers claimed that in receiving stock back they acted only as the agent of their customers, for the purpose of stopping warehouse charges, insurance fees, etc., and in the hope of salvaging some of the stock. Not many consignees have been able to get an exact statement of what was saved. But the shipper, having guaranteed the freight, was required to pay when the stock was returned. Most American consignees received memoranda of the expense incurred under this head.

Most, if not all, the bulbs and plants in the Nieuw Amsterdam were fully covered by marine and war risk insurance, including insurance against heating to destination, and they were reinsured at an increased rate when the shipments were transferred to other steamers, but the insurance company disclaimed liability for damage through delay.

Action to Defend the Trade.

The nurserymen were quicker to take action than the bulb importers or florists. On a call issued by Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa., a committee was formed which invited all interested parties to place claims in its hands. Most of the claims were turned over to the committee, with the result that the Dutch interests, exporters and insurance, sent representatives to the United States to deal with the committee.

The compromise effected can be set down as highly satisfactory to the trade.

BUCKEYE BULL'S-EYES

THE PLANT EMBARGO.

At its January meeting the Cleveland Florists' Club discussed thoroughly the recent ruling of the Federal Horticultural Board, prohibiting the importation of practically all plants and bulbs, after June 1, 1919, and instructed the secretary to register strenuous protest with the congressmen of the district and to ask the repeal of this drastic measure. Individual members of the club also were requested to write their congressmen, with the view of bringing to bear in the matter all the pressure possible.

The old saw has it, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," which dictum appears to apply to this situation. The query is heard, "Is not the trade sufficiently well organized to prevent effectually the enactment of such unfavorable laws? Was the vast power within its organization properly brought to bear in the matter?" The fact that on two occasions previous to the enactment of the prohibitory law, its committees voiced the sentiment of the organized trade as against the ruling, is proof that concerted action was taken. The Federal Horticultural Board simply did not pay any attention to its wishes. It would seem that a greater protest was needed. Perhaps if the matter had been tackled by way of the congress previous to its passage as a law, the enactment could have been prevented.

However, a note of protest from every section voiced in congress should accomplish much in the direction of getting the nefarious measure repealed. It is the logical course to pursue and effective action should not be delayed. The Review has frequently pointed out the urgent necessity for getting busy. Every florist, large or small, should write his congressman, requesting his aid. The organized trade is on trial and it must emerge victorious; and that this may be accomplished, its every member must put his shoulder to the wheel. Mac.

A CONVENTION CITY.

The completion of the mammoth convention hall, authorized by popular vote over a year ago, will enable the Sixth City to come into its own as a convention city. The big structure is to be a unit in a group of several municipal buildings, located upon what is styled The Mall, at the foot of East Sixth street, on the lake front. The war has delayed its beginning, but it is to be completed and ready for business in the fall of 1921, just a year too late to house the S. A. F. convention in 1920.

By reason of its geographical location and convenience of access, both by rail and water, with this splendidly adequate accommodation, there is little doubt that the Ohio metropolis will be a great convention city of the future. Within a night's ride of the leading trade centers of the country, it is the logical meeting place. The rapid development of the florists' business and the general tendency towards organization will make trade assemblages of national scope more essential, and hence more frequent, as time advances. And nothing will be of more material assistance in this progress than a central point of gathering, offering eminently suitable facilities and requiring but a minimum of time for function.

There is another vital factor, however, in the fulfillment of this great destiny, namely, the existence of a goodly degree of local enterprise. The Buckeye State, with its immense wealth and numerous large cities, should occupy a prominent place in trade importance. True, it does at present, but far beneath its great possibilities. Possessing manifold natural advantages, better trade ideals, sounder economic practice and a firm faith in the future, all tinctured with the spirit of progress, are required to give it the noteworthy position in the commercial floriculture of the country to which it is justly entitled. HOMEWARD BOUND.

Hither and Yon.

Of the hosts returning from their pilgrimages overseas and from the various camps and cantonments overland, many are members of the trade in its different branches. Of these youthful patriots, many have won distinction and all have striven and sacrificed in the great work of winning the war. Their friends on this side eagerly await news of their return and every item of information about them and their movements is of interest to all who know them. Every week brings tidings to the offices of The Review of the soldiers whose absence has been so keenly felt in the various activities of the trade. News of members of the trade in the service of their country, whether stationed abroad or traveling homeward by train or transport, of men awaiting discharge or already returned to their homes, all will be of interest to friends in the trade and will be published from time to time as it comes in.

Living Well in Germany.

Robert W. Johnston, the only son of Mary Johnston, the florist, of 221-23 West Madison street, Baltimore, Md., was associated with his mother in the business, but December 14, 1917, he heard his country's call for men and enlisted in the Ambulance Corps, at Allentown, Pa. March 28 his unit was sent overseas and attached to the First Army Corps, composed principally of members of the regular army. Since that time this corps has been in the thick of the fighting, but Mr. Johnson has been most fortunate, having come through without a scratch. He now is in the Army of Occupation and in his last letter home was stationed in Ottweiler, Germany, where Robert says the soldiers are living like princes. When we remember that the United States had 2,000,000 such husky chaps engaged in this game, it is not surprising that the war was so short-lived when these boys struck their gait. He delights to tell what they did to the noted Prussian Guard. Everyone in the trade hopes that he may soon be ordered home.

Stops Dealing in Gas Masks.

W. J. Stephens, of S. F. Stephens & Son, Columbus, O., writes home that, now the use of gas masks has been discontinued, he expects soon to be released from the office of the quartermaster sergeant of the Gas Mask Squad and before long to be back among the posies. He concludes by stating there has been a tremendous unmasking, with more to follow. W. M.

The Picture of Health.

John Breitmeyer, son of Fred Breitmeyer, of Detroit and Mount Clemens, Mich., has received his discharge and returned to his home, looking "the picture of health," as our correspondent describes him. The strenuous training of camp life and the still more severe exigencies of army life have not affected his fine constitution otherwise than beneficially, but Mr. Breitmeyer is glad to lay down the sword to take up the pruning hook.

Will Recover.

Among arrivals anxiously awaited of soldiers from overseas is noted that of Leo Willes, son of Mrs. George Madsen, of the Alton Floral Co., Alton, Ill. Mr. Willes was badly wounded in action and is in a hospital in New York city, where, however, hopes are entertained for his complete recovery.

Home From Vancouver.

Oliver H. Langhans, Pittsburgh, Pa., who has been for more than a year at Vancouver, Wash., and Clatsop, Ore., in the spruce production camps, has at last been discharged from the service of Uncle Sam. He is a son of Theodore P. Langhans, and before enlisting in the Signal Corps was with the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. He was assigned to the Aviation Section and left for Seattle January 15, 1918, where he engaged at once in the work of producing spruce timber for the construction of aeroplanes. Since leaving Washington, Mr. Langhans has been at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O. He is visiting relatives and friends in western Pennsylvania before settling down again to work for the Pittsburgh concern. His parents and his sister visited him while he was located at Clatsop last July.

Wintering in California.

Major John Connon, president of the John Connon Co., Ltd., Hamilton, Ont., is spending the winter with his wife and little daughter at Monrovia, Cal. Major Connon commanded a company of the 120th City of Hamilton Battalion, which went to England in the summer of 1916. He was invalided home in December of the same year. He put in a year at the Hamilton Sanatorium, receiving much benefit from the treatment there. Months spent last summer in the Laurentian mountains effected further improvement and it is thought that the winter in California will complete the cure. Major Connon expects to get back to business in the spring.

Chicago Florists Returning.

H. Hansen, florist on Cemetery road, near Rose Hill cemetery, Chicago, was greatly relieved to receive word from his son, Henry A. Hansen, who had been given up as lost. Henry Hansen has been in the navy for nearly two years, during which time he has seen service on both land and sea. His land duties carried him into England, France and Belgium, where he drove an ambulance and was under fire constantly. He also was with the big naval gun crews who did such good land work. His experiences are remarkable when one considers that he enlisted in the navy as a mechanic. He now is in London and expects to be home soon. On his return he will again take active charge of the business.

M. A. Redden, proprietor of the retail store that bears his name at 820 West Garfield boulevard, Chicago, has turned in his new uniform and is back again in his "civies," having been honorably discharged from service in the navy, where he has been since the latter part of October, 1917. Mr. Redden was on the transport Princess Matoika, having made five trips to Brest and two to St. Nazaire. On one of his trips he was given a furlough and at that time visited several large French cities, including Paris. He says that he is fortunate in having so able an assistant as his sister, who has run the store in his absence.

Another Chicago florist who has returned to his business is F. C. Thom, proprietor of the retail store at 1639 Milwaukee avenue. Mr. Thom recently received his honorable discharge from the army. He was last stationed at the base hospital at Camp Bowie, Texas.

Still another Chicago florist who returned with the 333rd Field Artillery of the 86th Division, known as the Blackhawks, January 13, was Arthur Stielow, of Niles Center.

Ernest Farley has returned to Chicago from Camp Wadsworth, in South Carolina, but has not yet connected with a job.

The Picture of Health.

John Breitmeyer, son of Fred Breitmeyer, of Detroit and Mount Clemens, Mich., has received his discharge and returned to his home, looking "the picture of health," as our correspondent describes him. The strenuous training of camp life and the still more severe exigencies of army life have not affected his fine constitution otherwise than beneficially, but Mr. Breitmeyer is glad to lay down the sword to take up the pruning hook.

Will Recover.

Among arrivals anxiously awaited of soldiers from overseas is noted that of Leo Willes, son of Mrs. George Madsen, of the Alton Floral Co., Alton, Ill. Mr. Willes was badly wounded in action and is in a hospital in New York city, where, however, hopes are entertained for his complete recovery.

Home From Vancouver.

Oliver H. Langhans, Pittsburgh, Pa., who has been for more than a year at Vancouver, Wash., and Clatson, Ore., in the spruce production camps, has at last been discharged from the service of Uncle Sam. He is a son of Theodore P. Langhans, and before enlisting in the Signal Corps was with the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. He was assigned to the Aviation Section and left for Seattle January 15, 1918, where he engaged at once in the work of producing spruce timber for the construction of aeroplanes. Since leaving Washington, Mr. Langhans has been at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O. He is visiting relatives and friends in western Pennsylvania before settling down again to work for the Pittsburgh concern. His parents and his sister visited him while he was located at Clatsop last July.

Wintering in California.

Major John Connon, president of the John Connon Co., Ltd., Hamilton, Ont., is spending the winter with his wife and little daughter at Monrovia, Cal. Major Connon commanded a company of the 120th City of Hamilton Battalion, which went to England in the summer of 1916. He was invalided home in December of the same year. He put in a year at the Hamilton Sanatorium, receiving much benefit from the treatment there. Months spent last summer in the Laurentian mountains effected further improvement and it is thought that the winter in California will complete the cure. Major Connon expects to get back to business in the spring.

Chicago Florists Returning.

H. Hansen, florist on Cemetery road, near Rose Hill cemetery, Chicago, was greatly relieved to receive word from his son, Henry A. Hansen, who had been given up as lost. Henry Hansen has been in the navy for nearly two years, during which time he has seen service on both land and sea. His land duties carried him into England, France and Belgium, where he drove an ambulance and was under fire constantly. He also was with the big naval gun crews who did such good land work. His experiences are remarkable when one considers that he enlisted in the navy as a mechanic. He now is in London and expects to be home soon. On his return he will again take active charge of the business.

M. A. Redden, proprietor of the retail store that bears his name at 820 West Garfield boulevard, Chicago, has turned in his new uniform and is back again in his "civies," having been honorably discharged from service in the navy, where he has been since the latter part of October, 1917. Mr. Redden was on the transport Princess Matoika, having made five trips to Brest and two to St. Nazaire. On one of his trips he was given a furlough and at that time visited several large French cities, including Paris. He says that he is fortunate in having so able an assistant as his sister, who has run the store in his absence.

Another Chicago florist who has returned to his business is F. C. Thom, proprietor of the retail store at 1639 Milwaukee avenue. Mr. Thom recently received his honorable discharge from the army. He was last stationed at the base hospital at Camp Bowie, Texas.

Still another Chicago florist who returned with the 333rd Field Artillery of the 86th Division, known as the Blackhawks, January 13, was Arthur Stielow, of Niles Center.

Ernest Farley has returned to Chicago from Camp Wadsworth, in South Carolina, but has not yet connected with a job.

A New Yorker Mustered Out.

Among the boys of the Blackhawk division which returned to Camp Grant

January 13, after stopping in Chicago for the day, was one Yank who was rather out of place with the rest of the boys, who are middle-westerners. He is Oscar Hauschild, the McAlpin hotel florist, of New York city, attached to headquarters company of the 161st Field Artillery as a wireless operator. Mr. Hauschild went over with the 77th Division and in France was transferred to the 86th Division, which is the Blackhawks. Although he landed in New York, he was unable to get his discharge there and was obliged to come west, being honorably discharged at Camp Grant January 19. Mr. Hauschild is stopping at the home of a fellow trooper in Evanston, Ill., and has made several trips about the Chicago market, buying supplies for the new store he will open on his return to New York next week. Otto Hauschild has had charge of his brother's business during the latter's absence.

OPEN LETTERS from READERS

PROMPT SETTLEMENT PAYS.

I have been much interested in articles from time to time in The Review regarding credits and collections, because I have given more care the last year to these subjects than ever before and am proud of my success.

By January 12 I had collected every dollar on sales made last year up to December and now, January 16, only ten per cent of December business is outstanding, and that is all due from outside florists whose orders I filled. I find some of them are not so prompt as I would like, taking thirty days and then some.

We wire some orders to other florists and we invariably send check on receipt of bill, where we have had no previous business, and in other cases remit on the first of the month following receipt of bill. I feel that when I ask for delivery of flowers by one who probably has never heard of me I should appreciate the favor and believe if this plan were carried out by all it would prove more satisfactory than the "hit or miss" that now prevails.

C. D. Otis.

PERPLEXED QUESTIONS.

Is it possible that the florists of this country are going to be so shortsighted as to encourage the general use of artificial flowers by using them in funeral work, thereby depreciating the value of natural flowers? The writer's attention has just been called to an instance where a grower with a large retail business is using them extensively. It is hard to see how a grower could be so thoughtless. To my notion, this is the worst problem the trade has to face. Imagine the undertaker renting sprays for funerals, just as some of them do use door-pieces of artificial flowers. Artificial flowers are all right in permanent decorations in some public places, but are out of place in any florist's shop. I think this matter should have attention through our organizations.

It is my opinion also that florists are getting timid about prices and overanxious to reduce them. Prices of flowers are not out of proportion to other things. It is going to cost as much or more to do business the next twelve months as during the year 1918, and the florist who does not get good prices for his product probably will get to see the sheriff. It is hard for some members of the trade to understand this, but to me it seems that the florist has a right to make more than a bare existence. I believe in getting good prices for our stock in trade at all times. We can do so if we will. If we maintain good prices throughout the year, we shall not have to increase prices noticeably at any time of stringency or injure the business of the small florist in communities where high prices cannot be asked at special times.

TENNESSEE FLORISTS MEET.

The arrangements are completed for the annual convention of the Tennessee State Florists' Association, to be held at the Hermitage hotel, Nashville, Tenn., January 28, 1919. From the long list of exhibitors from all parts of the United States and the reservations made at the headquarters for rooms, the success of the convention is assured. The program is as follows:

MORNING SESSION, 10:00 A. M.

Call to order by President Oscar Geny, Nashville.
Invocation, Rev. T. C. Ragsdale, Nashville.
Minutes of the last meeting, Prof. G. M. Bentley, Secretary-Treasurer, Knoxville.
Proposals of Membership.
Deferred Business.
Reports of Committees.
New Business.
Bills and Communications.
Address of Welcome, Hon. Wm. Gupton, Mayor of Nashville; A. J. Dyer, President Commercial Club, Nashville.
President's Annual Address, Oscar Geny, Nashville.
"Can We Assist Each Other in the Matter of Securing and Holding Expert Help—Growers, Helpers and Firemen?" H. G. Bramm, Bristol.
"How Can We Develop Landscape Work Throughout the Smaller Cities and Towns?"

AFTERNOON SESSION, 2:00 P. M.

Election of Officers.
"Growing Plants," C. H. Tritschler, Sylvan Park, Nashville.
"Mums," Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J.
"The South and the Part She Will Play in the Future Flower Market," R. C. Kerr, Houston, Texas.
"Can We in Combination Arrange to Purchase a Satisfactory Line of Pots and Save Money?" T. H. Joy, Nashville.
"Making Our Home Surroundings Beautiful," Mary B. McGowan.

EVENING SESSION, 7:30 P. M.

"Why All Retail Florists Should Become Members of F. T. D.," Karl P. Baum, Knoxville.
Round Table in charge of members.

HOW TO FORCE VALLEY.

I would like to get information as to the proper method of growing lily of the valley, how to care for the pips, how to plant them and how much light, heat and water to give. How should the benches be arranged so as to keep the heat to the required degree?

C. E. R.—Mass.

For the successful growing of lily of the valley it is necessary to have a bench with hot water or steam pipes below it, which will insure a steady bottom heat of from 75 to 80 degrees. Cold storage pips are the most satisfactory and will force into bloom in three or four weeks, with a top heat of 60 degrees. Place six inches of clean, sharp sand in the bench or benches and, after planting the pips in lines, soak them well with water and keep them well watered for ten to fourteen days. Also keep them perfectly dark by means of boards or cloths, in order to draw up the flower stalks. Give them a little light after fourteen days and, as the flowers start to open, if you want some foliage, give full light. Be careful, however, to give the light gradually and not to water at all while the flower spikes are pushing up. Newly imported valley will require longer to flower than cold storage stock and early in the season will start irregularly. Board in your piping so as to be sure of a steady bottom heat of 75 to 80 degrees.

C. W.

SPIRÆA, ROSES AND VALLEY.

Will you please give directions for forcing Holland-grown spiræa, Baby Rambler roses and lily of the valley? How long a time after they are potted is required to bring them into bloom, and what is the best temperature for them?

L. K. M.—Pa.

The white spiræas, like Gladstone, will take nine to ten weeks to force into bloom, if started now and given a temperature of 60 degrees. For Easter flowering, with warmer weather, they should flower in two weeks less time. The requirements are an abundant water supply, spacing them well apart as they grow and not exposing them to any strong fumigants, like tobacco leaves or gas.

Baby Rambler roses will flower in ten to twelve weeks, according to weather conditions and the temperatures given them. It is best to start them at 45 or 50 degrees, and later to give them 10 degrees more heat, cooling them off gradually as the flowers start to show color.

Lily of the valley requires a bottom heat of 75 to 80 degrees for the best results, and a top temperature 20 to 25 degrees lower. It does best if planted in clean sand and kept dark until the spikes are well advanced. Then admit a little light to give the flowers substance and to allow some leaf development. It takes three or four weeks to flower valley in the temperatures given. For pot culture you can give the plants full light, with a temperature of 60 degrees. This will give you good foliage. C. W.

TO PROTEST QUARANTINE.

At a meeting of interested members of the trade held at the office of the S. A. F. in New York January 21, a brief prepared to be presented to the Secretary of Agriculture was completed and will be submitted to the board of directors of the society, for its official approval, at its meeting in Detroit, January 31, after which action to secure a proper hearing at Washington will be taken.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

The market this week is much easier than it has been for some time. Stock is more nearly equal to the demand; that is, if you are not too particular as to varieties. Roses, sweet peas and carnations are the staples that the market depends upon, but there has been a fair supply of Paper Whites and freesia and Easter lilies are beginning to come again.

Club Meeting.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club held its regular meeting January 13, with one of the largest turnouts we have had for some time. It was voted to amend the constitution, so that, instead of holding two meetings each month, we hold but one, on the second Monday.

A letter was read from Henry A. Dreer, Inc., relative to the embargo that has been placed upon imported stock. When the members had this measure explained to them they realized that it would be a detriment to everyone engaged in the trade in this country. The letter requested that each florist write his representative, protesting against the enactment of this law. After a lengthy discussion of the subject, it was decided that it would be a hard matter to make a congressman realize the evils of this law in a letter, so it was decided to make our protest personally. It was agreed to make the discussion of this question the business of the evening at the next meeting, which members of congress from the districts comprising Baltimore and vicinity will be invited to attend.

Another thing that showed the feeling of the florists was a motion for a banquet at the annual election next month, by I. H. Moss, which was greeted with applause. Mr. Moss said, in offering his motion, that the florists had been through strenuous times, but the time had come, in his estimation, when the past must be forgotten and the florists must look forward to a brighter future; that the old adage still holds good that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Various Notes.

Seidewitz Bros., at Old Pimlico road and Belvedere avenue, were visited by a thief the other night, who first took the auto truck from the garage and then loaded it with the choicest plants in the greenhouse. But, as he was leaving, the sound of the engine attracted the attention of Mrs. Seidewitz, who had not gone to bed. She notified her son, who gave chase. In his haste, the thief tried to cross the golf course of the Maryland Athletic Club, where he upset the machine, but he made good his escape.

R. A. Vincent says he has never seen anything to equal the demand for geraniums this winter. This is due largely to the closing of all or parts of some of the ranges, many of which may be started again February 1. Mr. Vincent told me they are booking orders for as late as June delivery. He says it is absolutely impossible to keep up with orders at the present time. Every inch of space at the Vincent range is in use, and this concern had more stock this winter than usual.

A visitor this week was Harry Turner, of the Morris Nursery Co. Mr. Turner addressed the club and was optimistic in his remarks over the outlook for business in the florists' line, as well as in the nursery trade. The notable feature of this club meeting was that everyone seemed to have taken a fresh grip on life. Tate.

LANCASTER, PA.

Club Meeting.

The Lancaster county florists held their club meeting January 16 at 7:30 p. m. in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, jointly with that of the Ladies' Auxiliary, with an attendance of thirty. President Elmer J. Weaver called on four of the florists who attended the publicity meeting in Philadelphia to address the meeting and all spoke enthusiastically of the interest developed at the Philadelphia meeting and urged the florists to contribute to this fund for national publicity.

Resolutions were adopted conveying the sympathy of the club to the family of William Aherne, of Columbia, who died recently.

President Weaver announced the following committees for 1919: Program: B. F. Barr, Charles M. Weaver, M. J. Brinton. Visiting: Harry K. Rohrer, L. S. Landis, W. B. Girvin. Membership: Charles B. Herr, Ira H. Landis, J. Ritter Hess. Exhibition: A. K. Rohrer, Rudolph Nagel, J. Wade Gayley.

For the Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. Albert M. Herr read a paper on the subject of "War Gardens," which brought out a lively discussion.

Mrs. B. F. Barr invited the Florists' Club to meet jointly with the Ladies' Auxiliary at her beautiful country home, "Avondale," March 20. Her invitation was accepted with much pleasure. A social hour followed.

At the suggestion of B. F. Barr, the club went on record as opposed to the contemplated embargo on imports of plants and bulbs.

The next meeting of the club, to be held February 20, will be preceded by a visit to the carnation growers at Strasburg.

Various Notes.

At the range of Ira H. Landis, at Paradise, Pa., the carnations are looking exceptionally well. Supreme, Matchless and Ward are the standard varieties grown here. Eureka, for a red sort, is extra well done. A house planted to freesias promises a wealth of bloom in a few weeks. Beds of calendulas are fine. Several beds are planted to Iris tingitana, which is much liked here.

At the store of B. F. Barr, Buddleia asiatica and scarlet and gold wallflowers are attracting considerable attention.

John F. Rupp, Shiremanstown, and Dennis J. Keohane, of Henry F. Michell Co., were visitors to the club this week. H. K. R.

TORONTO, ONT.

The Market.

Toronto has had a remarkably mild winter, but this has not helped the growers, for flowers never have been so scarce. Business is brisk, in spite of the shortage of stock, however, and prices high. Russell roses command from $15 to $40 per hundred and other flowers in proportion, according to quality. But the demand exceeds the supply, even at these figures. Carnations are scarce also and range from $5 per hundred for the light-colored varieties upwards. Bulbous stock is in fair supply and of good quality.

Club Meetings.

The Toronto Retail Florists' Club at its monthly meeting planned for a social meeting January 27 and a ball February 5.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club held a meeting January 14, at which eighteen new members were enrolled. Herman Summers read a paper on "The Embargo on Plants and Shrubs."

Various Notes.

Social affairs are numerous in Toronto once more and H. G. Dillemuth has had a number of fine decorations of late.

John H. Dunlop's cut of roses is good and he reports good retail business.

J. J. Higgins, J. S. Simmons and J. A. Neal all report that orders are in excess of stock available with which to fill them. J. J. H.

DEPOSIT ON KENTIA LEAVES.

I am sending you part of a kentia leaf which is covered with a glossy substance, said to be a fungous growth. I would like to know if it is injurious to the plant and what will remedy it. P. S.—Mo.

The kentia leaflet referred to was quite dry when received, but it showed a slight deposit on the upper side, such as may have been caused by aphis, or it may be the result of using some soapy or oily insecticide.

So far as one may judge from the specimen forwarded, there is nothing to be alarmed about and no special indication of any fungoid trouble. It is probable that this deposit will wear off gradually, with regular syringing, unless it is caused by something in the water supply. W. H. T.

Akron, O.—Following the gathering of the chrysanthemum crop, James Salmon & Son closed up their establishment, retiring to enjoy the fortune netted by combined good luck and an honorable career. It would not surprise the craft to see them launch forth again, however, and honorable competitors are always welcomed.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

New York, N. Y.—Seaman Miller, referee in bankruptcy, has given notice that a second first meeting of the creditors of Anglin & Walsh will be held at his office, 2 Rector street, January 30, for the purpose of electing a trustee. Anglin & Walsh were declared bankrupt April 2, 1918, and a creditors' first meeting was held April 25, but the trustee then elected failed to qualify; hence the second first meeting.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Business continues fair, with no extraordinary demand in the city market, although the demand for funeral work in some of the suburban towns, such as Sharpsburg, Aspinwall and Wilkinsburg, is making almost as heavy inroads on both natural and artificial products as during the autumn and early winter months.

There are not nearly enough roses or carnations. The latter command from $4 to $6 per hundred at the commission houses. Roses bring from $6 to $20. A few lilies arrive daily and make $20. Baby primroses are in favor just now and plants in 4-inch pots move well at $2.50 per dozen. Sweet peas are scarce and the lily crop is shortening up. Violets are not moving well, but Paper Whites, on the contrary, and white narcissi are quickly taken.

Various Notes.

A conference of the National Association of Gardeners, January 21, at the Hotel Chatham, was under the auspices of the local committee, composed of David Fraser, chairman, Augustus Frishkorn and Ernest Guter. A meeting of the board of directors at 3 o'clock was followed by a general program contributed by President Robert Weeks, of Cleveland, O.; Secretary Martin C. Ebel, editor of the Gardeners' Chronicle of America; Superintendent William Falconer, of the Allegheny cemetery, and others.

Decorator John F. Scott has returned to his headquarters with Miss Emma B. Maxwell, of Wilkinsburg, following a six weeks' absence. This is the first illness Mr. Scott has experienced during the twelve years he has been with Miss Maxwell.

Joseph Leo Giesey, the Wilkinsburg florist, has engaged Miss Kathryn McGivern for his salesroom, in addition to extra temporary help at his Walnut street range, in anticipation of the Easter season. Mr. Giesey is growing quantities of exceptionally fine baby primroses.

William M. Turner, of Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, has returned from a two weeks' hunting trip in Fulton county, on which he was accompanied by two friends. He is now having a beautiful auto robe made from the skins of three whitetail deer. The largest animal weighed 225 pounds.

Both Gilbert P. Weaklen and James Murray McGrew are victims of the prevailing epidemic. The business is being conducted by Miss Rebecca Shaffer, secretary of G. P. Weaklen & Co., who is being helped out through the McCallum Co. sending Earl C. Tipton out to take charge of the salesroom. Harvey V. Poor, a medical student at the University of Pittsburgh, also comes in evenings and Saturdays.

Mr. and Mrs. George Marshall left early last week for Oklahoma, where they will spend a few weeks with relatives of Mrs. Marshall. Meanwhile Mr. Marshall's end of the business is being supervised by Earl J. Hunkle.

The Misses Elizabeth, Katherine, Delia and Edith Weber, of the H. Weber & Sons Co., conducting business in Oakland, Md., and Clarksburg and Fairmont, W. Va., were recent visitors in town, and called upon the Ludwig Floral Co. The late H. Weber, their father, had business relations with Julius W. and Gustav Ludwig forty years ago, having supplied them with his choice products for many years.

Oliver H. Langhans has finally been mustered out of the service at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O., following more than a year in the spruce production work at Vancouver, Wash., and Clatsop, Ore. He returned home January 12 and is having a real vacation visiting his many friends and relatives throughout western Pennsylvania, before returning to the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co.

Mrs. Harry J. Hamm has returned from Baltimore, where she has been since her marriage to Sergeant Hamm last August. Mrs. Hamm is making her home with her husband's parents and brother, Allen J. Hamm. The latter is conducting the business during his brother's service at Camp Holabird, Baltimore, with Company P of the Motor Transport Corps. Meanwhile she is being initiated into the mysteries of the floral business, in which she undoubtedly will be of invaluable assistance.

It is with regret that we note the recent deaths of Mrs. Thomas Balderston and Miss Olive Balderston, of Woodville, both of whom were victims of influenza and died within the same week. Mrs. Balderston was the sister of Samuel Cape, of Butler street, Lawrenceville, this city, whose greenhouse is in charge of Mr. Balderston. Mrs. Agnes B. Telers has recently become associated with Mr. Cape's sales staff.

For exhibition purposes, the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. recently received a sample lot of Premier roses. They arrived too late, however, for the current meeting of the Pittsburgh Florists' Club, at which they were to have been exhibited. Several days have elapsed meanwhile, and the roses remain in fine condition.

The February meeting of the Pittsburgh Florists' Club, February 4, at the North Side Carnegie Library auditorium, will be the occasion of the annual election of officers, to be followed by a smoker in honor of the event. Walter Cook, of Cleveland, O., was the guest of the organization at the January session, having come over to urge the florists to fight the new embargo act. Apropos of this measure, a committee composed of Benjamin L. Elliott, chairman, C. H. Semple, of Springdale, and Augustus Frishkorn, was appointed to file a protest with the local congressmen. During the meeting, Baur & Steinkamp, of Indianapolis, Ind., exhibited Ruth Baur, a new carnation of an exquisite pink shade, to which was awarded a first-class certificate. James Murphy, of Sewickley Heights, also showed a beautiful specimen of Carnation Laddie, which he had grown on the estate of H. Lee Mason, Jr. E. E. S.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

Added to the unusual conditions, during which one need not be surprised at anything that may take place, we are experiencing a novel winter. When we compare the weather and the difficulties of January, 1918, with present conditions, the contrast is great. Last winter the trade was hunting high and low, with tears, for materials for wrapping orders and for fuel. This winter conditions are just the reverse. We have had a week with slight frosts and January 11 was a day suitable for the display of ferns outside.

The market is recovering from the backset of last week. Stock is moving steadily, which is an indication that counter sales are improving. Stock is sufficient also to go around.

During the entire week there has been a good demand for funeral flowers. Much of this is due to the sporadic increase of the "flu." The increased supply of carnations has come in handy for this, and this demand has served to prevent a serious break in the market price of these flowers. This increased supply of carnations is said to be due to the first crop being cut from late-planted stock. Much planting was done when the trade got news of the prospect of a coal supply. This late planting also has been responsible for much of the short-stemmed stock we have been handling.

Roses are improving rapidly, both in supply and quality, and the prospect is that we shall have plenty throughout February.

Paper Whites are plentiful and the stock is good and prices hold steadily.

Various Notes.

The retail florists had a banquet at the Iroquois hotel January 15. Seventeen of the twenty-four members of the retail trade attended, this number comprising the leaders. As is often said, "Successful men have foresight; others follow, though slowly." The retailers are organized to sell at uniform prices. The success of this plan can readily be imagined. Any man in the trade, whether a member of the club or not, will see that his business has become more profitable since the leaders have come together. Still a great percentage neglects to join.

Not every retailer has given his business a Christmas gift. Charles Felton has done this by way of a new Overland delivery car.

It is reported that the tulip bulbs are not coming into flower satisfactorily. The opinion is that the bulbs have not been properly matured.

The William Scott Co., Inc., has as fine a stock of cyclamens as anyone could wish for. This firm is making a record anyone might be proud of.

William H. Grever, Allen street, reports a 100 per cent increase in the volume of trade over that of last year. This is Mr. Grever's second year in business. Success was his lot from the start. He enjoys a good share of the best trade of the city. Nothing but the best is handled at his shop.

OBITUARY

Conrad Frauenfelder.

The trade in Chicago has lost one of its most respected members in the death of Conrad Frauenfelder, which occurred January 19, after a brief illness with pneumonia. Mr. Frauenfelder attended the Victory dinner of the Chicago Florists' Club on the evening of January 9, with his family. It was the last time he left his home.

Mr. Frauenfelder was born in Switzerland May 12, 1857. He took up gardening as a profession and followed it in his native land and in Paris, but came to America while still a young man, in 1879, locating at Chicago, where he found employment on the Teufel place, at Walnut and Leavitt streets. He remained there until 1883, when he started in business for himself on the site the business occupies today. In 1885, however, Mr. Frauenfelder disposed of the place to Mr. Mailander, and from 1885 to 1896 he operated the Garfield Rose Co., on West Madison street, for the Peck estate. This was the establishment afterwards operated by Oechslin Bros., and Frank Oechslin, later passing back into the hands of Mr. Frauenfelder and his sister, the late Mrs. Annie Decker. In 1896, when Mr. Frauenfelder left the Garfield Rose Co., he took back the business at 3343 West Madison street and rebuilt the establishment, including the store and apartment building and the greenhouses in the rear. Shortly after, in 1899, C. J. Michelsen became his right-hand man and continued with him until 1907. Mr. Frauenfelder for many years has done one of the largest retail businesses on the west side of Chicago, being one of the largest buyers in the Chicago market. He prospered, his object always being to see that every customer was pleased, and his word and his work were soon found to be dependable in every particular.

The family consists of the widow and two daughters, Edna and Hazel. Miss Edna Frauenfelder has for some time been her father's chief assistant in the store and will carry on the business. She is well known in the trade.

Mr. Frauenfelder was a member of the Chicago Florists' Club, of the Illinois State Florists' Association, of the Society of American Florists and other trade organizations. He was high in Masonry and the remains lay in state in the West Chicago Masonic temple on the morning of January 22, preceding the funeral, which was in charge of the Masonic bodies both at the temple and at Forest Home cemetery. The funeral was largely attended, by Masons and by florists, many of the trade also sending flowers.

Frank Quillan.

Frank Quillan, who died of pneumonia in Seattle, Wash., January 15, was born in 1881, in Oklahoma. At an early age he became connected with the Stiles Floral Co., of Oklahoma City, in which association he continued for several years. He had been a resident of Seattle for several years when he purchased, in 1918, the Washington Floral Co. He grew a miscellaneous assortment of stock and was meeting with success in his business when he was taken ill. He leaves a wife and two children. Mr. Quillan had a high standing in the trade and will be mourned by a large circle of friends. W. S. G.

Gus Schlegel.

Gus Schlegel, who operated about 28,000 feet of glass at Olney, Ill., doing a prosperous wholesale and retail business, died January 7, after a brief illness, and was buried in Waldheim cemetery, Chicago. Mrs. Schlegel will dispose of the greenhouses.

Herman Harvey.

The body of a young man killed in the wreck of the Wolverine Flyer at South Byron, N. Y., has been identified as that of Herman Harvey, son of S. A. Harvey, a florist of Grand Haven, Mich. Young Mr. Harvey was 23 years of age and was wearing a ring belonging to his brother, Lieutenant S. D. Harvey, who died at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Mich., a year ago. The ring was inscribed with the name and company of the latter, who was in the 32nd Michigan Infantry, and it was by means of this inscription that the identification was made. The news of his death came as a great shock not only to his parents, but to many friends.

John H. Slocombe.

The death of John H. Slocombe, well known florist of New Haven, Conn., which occurred January 11, was the result of illness which culminated in a paralytic stroke some months ago. Mr. Slocombe was an expert grower of violets and sweet peas, and his chrysanthemums and dahlias also had brought him renown. He had exhibited in flower shows in nearby cities and been awarded numerous prizes.

Frederick Louis Diserens.

Frederick Louis Diserens, who died January 14 at his home in Cedar Rapids, Ia., had been connected with the trade since 1913, when he resigned his position as superintendent of the street railway system of Cedar Rapids and built the range known as the Northview Greenhouses in that city. Mr. Diserens was born in Cincinnati in 1864. He attended the Boston Technological Institute and was graduated as a civil engineer. In 1882 he married Miss Lucy L. Lemon, who survives him, as do his two sons, Frederick L., II, who is a horticulturist, and Albert J. Diserens, in whose name the business of the firm was conducted. A daughter, Mary, also survives.

The Diserens brothers both have been in military service, as has been noted in The Review, Albert having reached home just before his father's last illness began.

Mr. Diserens was a member of the local Masonic chapter, known as Mount Hermon lodge No. 263, A. F. & A. M., Cedar Chapter O. E. S., Apollo Commandery No. 26 K. T., El Kahir Temple, A. A. N. M. S., Iowa Consistory No. 2, A. S. A. S. R. He also belonged to the Cedar Rapids lodge No. 251, B. P. O. E., and he was a member of Grace Episcopal church.

John H. Dillon.

John H. Dillon, for many years connected with the park and recreation departments of the city of Boston and for some years chairman of the board, died of pneumonia at his home, 547 Blue Hill avenue, Grove Hall, January 19. The deceased was born in Dorchester in 1856. In his youth he worked with his father, who was a horticulturist. Later he entered the employ of Marshall P. Wilder, president of the American Pomological Society and of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society. He also served under other florists before entering the Boston Public Gardens under Supt. Doogue. He was foreman of the city greenhouses and public gardens for many years. For some time he was foreman at Forest Hills cemetery and after that he was with Warren S. Ewell, the Dorchester florist, who was a noted bulb specialist.

Again entering the service of the city of Boston, he took charge of the public gardens and was responsible some years ago for much elaborate carpet bedding. Under Mayor Curley's administration he was appointed chairman of the park and recreation departments at a salary of $5,000, a position from which he retired under the present city administration, resuming an old position as foreman, from which he retired some time ago.

Mr. Dillon is survived by his widow and two stepchildren. Interment was at Mount Calvary cemetery, January 21. There was a large attendance and many floral tributes were noted. W. N. C.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

Anent the coming carnation convention, to be held in Cleveland January 29 and 30, the air is charged with surprises to all those who accept the general cordial invitation. Even old Boreas has been petitioned to relax his energies around that time, to permit the show to be a positive success.

O. W. Clark & Son, of Buffalo, N. Y., are one of the few seed houses which received a full supply of Dutch bulbs of extra fine quality. They seem to have an oversupply and as doubtless many florists would gladly exchange good money for them, an ad in The Review is a likely means of making the trade.

Wood & Co., of Cleveland, O., are receiving and distributing 100,000 gladiolus bulbs from a local grower. These figures convey some idea of the enormous quantity of this stock in existence at home. What must the total be in the general harvest throughout the country? This flower was popularized last season as never before and doubtless the coming season will see all predecessors eclipsed.

IF you can not propagate geraniums you can at least start plenty of petunia seeds.

WITH Mistletoe and Hamburg Late White the chrysanthemum season may be made to last practically all winter.

MARTIN KOHANKIE says Delphinium Belladonna blooms the first year from seed and, with good cultivation, is practically everblooming.

How infinitely better are the conditions now than those of a year ago; and how much brighter the future looks! Let us not be inappreciative.

IT is the general opinion that St. Valentine's day is increasing rapidly in importance as a flower day. Let us also note why it is increasing: Because florists individually are advertising in their own neighborhoods the suitability of flowers for expressing the sentiments of the day. "The Lord helps those who help themselves."

THE trade is to be congratulated that business is holding up better than it is in most lines of trade. It is a general complaint that things are pretty dull, even in such essential lines as the food trade and wearing apparel, but florists are going right ahead; we have passed the rush due to the epidemic, peace and Christmas, but business is much larger than a year ago.

STOCK has not been so scarce as expected in January, with the result that prices have been lower than many of us thought they would be. The condition has been due, it seems, almost entirely to the generally mild, bright weather, which has been extremely favorable to cut flower production, in direct contrast to the unprecedentedly severe weather conditions which prevailed last year in January. Business is not quite up to the high-tide mark of the last quarter of 1918, but demand is far ahead of a year ago this month.

NUMEROUS growers of general stock have stretched the chrysanthemum season to meet the spring flowers.

AS A straw which shows which way the wind is blowing, this issue of The Review is eight pages larger than the issue of this week a year ago.

SOME people find it difficult to remember when Easter falls this year, and yet nothing is easier to keep in mind. Easter comes the first Sunday after the full moon after the vernal equinox.

"IF we could have Charles Grakelow as chairman of our publicity meetings," says Henry Penn, "we would not have to ask for funds. As a producer of the goods he is 100 per cent perfect."

W. H. REESER, of the Urbana Floral Co., Urbana, O., thinks the bougainvillea will come into its own this year as an Easter plant. He says he considers it among our most worthy subjects.

THE Society of American Florists soon will inaugurate the publication of a monthly bulletin, the first issue of which is on the press. It is to take the place of the annual book of proceedings, which has grown to large size, cost an important sum and been little read. The society dues will include a subscription to the bulletin without extra cost to members.

GOOD-BYE TO BOOZE.

Florists cannot possibly lose a cent by the success national prohibition achieved last week. Liquor and flowers never had anything in common. Among florists' patrons there were few who made their money making alcoholic beverages, and there were far less flower buyers among those who sell the stuff, while among those who use it—well, the men who frequent the saloons are not the ones who "Say It with Flowers."

National prohibition will mean for the florists' trade that an unimaginable sum of money heretofore spent in ways that carried it far out and beyond the reach of florists, hereafter will be spent in other channels, none of which lead less directly to the flower store than do the liquor routes. We win; we cannot lose.

HELP! HELP!!

Each week in the office of The Review practically all the work of getting the paper out is done in three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—Thursday, Friday and Saturday have been useful principally for getting ready for the next week's rush.

But we have got to change the system.

The work is so heavy at the first of the week that overtime has been necessary—about four days of working time has been put in during the first three days of the week. But overtime costs double wages—four days' time and five days' pay is about the way it has figured out. In other words, for each working week The Review has paid for two extra days to accommodate its late patrons.

At present high wages it is impossible to keep it up.

Advertisers will assist materially in keeping down the cost of printing if they send their instructions Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practically every ad received Tuesday calls for the payment of overtime.

ANOTHER LOAN COMING.

The trade, which did so much better than expected on the Fourth Liberty Loan, is asked to set the same committees at work preliminary to a fifth loan, the Victory Loan, to be floated early in the spring.

The Liberty Loan Press Bureau is getting things in training for the big drive. In its appeal for the support of the trade it states the situation thus:

"With the late press dispatches stating that a situation exists in Europe under which war may break out at any moment and that the German army, still consisting of some millions of soldiers, remains a potential military machine, the necessity of maintaining a strong army on the Rhine is more imperative than ever. Uncle Sam is spending money at the rate of $300,000,000 a week, part of which goes to maintain the army of occupation, part to put the wounded men back on their feet, and part to pay insurance claims and to bring home the victorious Yanks.

"The florists' trade suffered during the period of war, but in spite of that the florists came to the front in every war emergency.

"We now have another emergency. Are we going to stand by our guns, by Uncle Sam, by our record?"

SAME TO YOU!

The New Year is the time for checking up on affairs of all sorts, as well as for the making of good resolutions. It is the season for planning for "additions, alterations and amendments" in business and all that pertains to its successful conduct, for such changes of policy as may conduce to greater prosperity and larger returns for effort expended and capital invested. It is a good time to arrange for expert advice on cultural problems and for keeping in touch with all that goes on in the trade, to say nothing of connecting up with a reliable medium of publicity, one that reaches the greatest number engaged in the florists' business, so that the grower may know where to market his product and the florist where to obtain his supplies. Renewing his subscription to The Review, a southern florist has attained these ends and provided them at the same time for one in the trade whose success he desires to promote:

* * * Also enter a subscription for one year for my sister, Mrs. Annie Smith, Cardwell, Va., who is undertaking commercial flowers, outside only. The Review will be a great help to her. No one interested in flowers can afford to be without The Review, which, like wine, continues to improve with age. May the New Year bring you full measure of continued prosperity, health and life's sunshine.—Roy Duff, Danville, Va., January 6, 1919.

About the first act of a beginner in the business is to subscribe for The Review.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The return of a brisk city business, with a large increase in funeral work, has made the market much stronger than in the first half of January. Shipping continues as strong as ever, with city retail work going along in fine shape, better than it has been for the last few weeks. This has resulted in a shortage of stock, mostly roses. When the trade has time to take its thoughts from the present-day business, it centers on St. Valentine's day and it is the belief of

Rainbow Freesia

In many bright colors---Ready Now

YOU will welcome the announcement that the season's cut of Rainbow Freesia has begun—we can supply fine stock on advance orders, and within a few days shall have enough to maintain a constant supply. Start using it now. Plenty of Purity (white) Freesia.

Fancy Carnations

We believe it is the best average large supply in America—and the prices are no higher than you have paid for good stock in other years. Try it out—send an order today.

Sweet Peas Ready

Our crop of Spencer Sweet Peas is coming along—soon we shall have a large supply of all colors. They will make a hit with your customers.

Bulbous Stock is Here

all that this day will absorb more stock than ever before in the history of the market.

Stock is coming in good shape and in good supply. Prices continue to hold up stiff. The rose situation is much changed from last week. Medium and short-stemmed stock in every variety can in no way supply the trade's immediate needs. There is, however, enough long-stemmed stock to go around. Prices continue strong. Beauties in all lengths of stem are scarce and have advanced in price. An abundant supply of carnations continues to come in, with prices remaining the same as in the last few weeks. Fancy stock sells well and is none too plentiful, but there is a small outlet for the large quantity of splits coming in, in spite of the large run of funeral work. Some of the stock has been so poor that it is unsalable.

Orchids remain on the long side and have dropped a notch in price. A steady call for valley continues and there is just about enough to go around. Violets still arrive in quantity and there are more than enough for the present demand. Callas are still on the short side, while Easter lilies are moderately plentiful, there being enough to fill all orders. Calendulas are somewhat scarce; likewise sweet peas, although the pick of the latter has been increased and improved by the bright weather. Stevia is extremely short and is about over for the season. There is still a shortage of yellow narcissi, but Paper Whites are plentiful. Tulips arrive in better supply; however, there are not yet enough to go around. A few jonquils are seen. Freesia is coming in quite plentifully and there is enough for immediate needs; this is also true of Roman hyacinths.

There is no change in the green goods market; there is plenty of everything.

Paul Thiele, who was a grower for Anthony Batek, present owner of the F. F. Sheel greenhouses at Shermerville, was killed by the cars at the Morton Grove station January 12. He had gone over to visit the Poehlmann establishment Sunday afternoon, was a little late for his train and attempted to board it after it had started. No one here knows the address of any of his relatives. Mr. Batek hopes to hear from them as the result of this paragraph.

Paul Weiss, who, when he is not cutting roses at Maywood, is secretary of a coal company, says the Fuel Administration has ordered the zoning system of coal distribution discontinued February 1, after which date there will be an open market. Mr. Weiss says an immediate result will be that Pocahontas coal will be available in Chicago within a few days at a price which will look cheap in comparison with what growers have been paying for Illinois coal.

district business has been big this season. J. M. Cochrane, who has greenhouses on West One-hundred-nineteenth street and store at 11405 Michigan avenue, has been one of the largest buyers in the market. He does a big volume of funeral work.

Judges of exhibits at the Chicago Florists' Club's meeting to be held February 6, at the Randolph hotel, which will be "novelty night," are: Carnations, C. W. Johnson, H. C. Blewitt and P. W. Peterson; roses, N. J. Wietor, W. J. Keimel and William G. Earle; miscellaneous, Albert Ericson, George Ball and George Asmus.

It will be of interest to many retailers, especially members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery, that the Fleischman Floral Co. now is a member of that association.

Russells have not lost any of their popularity in the eyes of C. L. Washburn, of Bassett & Washburn, who comments on the excellent results this rose has brought his firm this season.

Many in the trade have wondered what has become of Theodore Kirschen, manager for Oscar Leistner. His whereabouts is now known. He is in France with the intelligence department of the A. E. F., having landed at a French port about Christmas time.

Eric Johnson indicates the belief that this month will go on record as the best January ever known by the trade as a whole.

Word has come to a sister of Fred Krauss that he is in Luxemburg and has enlisted in the regular army for four years. Before being drafted, May 27, 1918, he had been with E. F. Winterson for about fourteen years.

Visitors.

Vincent Gorly, of Grimm & Gorly, St. Louis, spent three days as the guest of friends on the northwest side and found time to visit a number of his business connections here.

Victor Ryhd, of the Dole Floral Co., Beatrice, Neb., has been in the market this week. He reports business the best ever.

K. Boestler, of Kirby's Flower Shop, Little Rock, Ark., was seen in the market this week.

Among our visitors is George A. Kuhl, of Pekin, Ill., who again is an inmate of the Presbyterian hospital, Ward and Congress streets. He hopes, however, that his stay this time will be short.

EVANSVILLE, IND.

The Market.

Another week of springlike weather has come and gone. The amount of coal consumed this winter is small, compared with last winter. But even with the warm weather, there is likely to be another shortage of flowers, especially of carnations. Roses are in fair supply, also sweet peas, calendulas and bulbous stock, such as Romans and Paper Whites. Business continues heavy.

Various Notes.

Niednagel & Sons are still cutting carnations, but the crop is going off.

C. L. Niednagel is propagating the Columbia rose as largely as he has space for it. He has 7,000 cuttings in the sand.

The William Blackman Floral Co. is making changes in its store, enlarging the office space and providing room overhead for storage.

George Blackman spent a few days with Anders Rasmussen at the home of the latter in New Albany, after which he visited in Louisville.

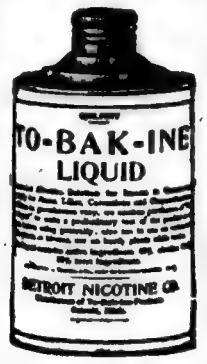
Karl Zeidler has several benches of lettuce coming on.

Royston & Fenton report a strong demand for coleus. E. L. F.

COLUMBUS, O.

Business has been quiet of late, compared with the early weeks of winter, but still the demand keeps all hands busy. Stock is plentiful, but high prices prevail. While there is not nearly the same amount of stock disposed of as in former years, receipts are not reduced, as prices are almost double.

Roses are of fine quality and include Russell, Ophelia, Shawyer, the Killarneys, etc. Carnations are more plentiful and, though prices are high, the demand cleans them up daily. Narcissi are in fair supply and sweet peas of the ordinary sorts are arriving. A few of the orchid-flowering varieties are noted, but the growers report the buds dropping from the sweet pea vines. Violets are good and the demand cleans up receipts as they arrive. Lilies are scarce.



Potted plants are scarce, except cyclamens, of which a few good specimens remain. Prices are down on these lines, as compared with those of a few weeks ago. Primroses are fair, but not well developed, as holiday demands cleaned out all the best plants.

Letters to friends in the trade from Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Roth, who are spending the winter in Florida for the benefit of Mrs. Roth's health, indicate that they intend to reopen their range in the spring. J. M.

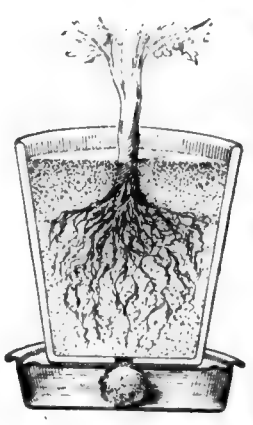
The Market.

Market conditions have undergone little change during the week. A few inferior carnations have put in an appearance, but, on the whole, carnations are of good quality and hold up well in price. Average prices are from $6 to $8, but fancies still bring $10. Roses are not keeping abreast of the demand, which is strong. Narcissi have taken a slump. Last week the general price was $6, but it has dropped from $6 to $3, there being an ample supply on hand. Excellent long-stemmed freesias are a factor in the market. In general, freesias are more conspicuous and make from $3 to $10, according to quality.

Funeral work is the mainstay of the market. Consequently, lilies meet with ready sale and all stock available is utilized. Easter lilies are scarce, but callas are more ample.

As usual, sweet peas are good property. They are coming in faster now, but are not plentiful and meet with immediate sale. Other small flowers for corsage and table use include orchids, valley, violets, pansies, mignonette, marguerites and calendulas. Jonquils are beginning to appear and, as a first breath of spring, are warmly welcomed. They may claim the honor of being the most popular spring decorative flower, as they are always in favor for spring baskets, banquet tables, parties, etc.

An unusual demand for potted greenhouse plants has been experienced this winter. Good plants have been and are good property. Cyclamens, Chatelaine begonias, Lorraine begonias, Primula obconica, P. malacoides and P. rosea are leaders in this class. The cut blooms of the baby primrose have been popular in bouquets, baskets, etc. Potted ferns are also popular.



Green goods are not going to waste and plumosus continues scarce.

Various Notes.

Indianapolis was favored with several guests last week. J. F. Ammann and William Walker, with the latter's son and daughter, visited about the city, later going to Richmond. Joseph Hill made a short stay here and then went on to Lafayette.

Telling Business Secrets

Only three years ago the Boston Floral Supply Co. occupied a little room in the Parkman building, Boston, Mass., doing a very small business. Today the Boston Floral Supply Co. has grown to one of the largest houses in the country, manufacturing florists' supplies. Mr. Florist, did you ever ask yourself why this organization has grown to such an enviable position? Let us tell you just a few of the reasons.

1. We have recognized from the very beginning that our customers must be treated as a part of the concern. To do this successfully, the prices must be low and the goods satisfactory.

2. Claims of one kind or another, we have always treated with the utmost respect, resultant in a suitable adjustment always in favor of our customers.

3. The men behind the Boston Floral Supply Co. are always on the alert in keeping costs down. We do this by buying our raw stock in large quantities and for cash. You can easily see how such methods give our buyers tremendous buying advantage in the market.

4. Our Basket department, Cycas department, Wax Flower department or Wire department, each must pay for itself or it gets out. Therefore we have no dead department.

5. Every one drawing a salary in the Boston Floral Supply Co. earns every dollar by being actively engaged in the business; therefore no dead weight.

6. There is absolutely no unnecessary expense allowed to creep in anywhere.

Mr. Florist, all we ask of you is to investigate the Boston Floral Supply Co. for your own sake and you will find in the long run that it will pay you to deal with us.

WAX FLOWERS

Mr. Florist, we have spent a fortune in perfecting our wax flowers so that they will look like the natural ones. Many successful florists have written us of the great aid these flowers give them in these times when natural flowers are so high in price; and florists all over the country today are combining the natural flowers with our artificial ones. If you have not learned this combination, why don't you just try to work in a few artificial Roses, Carnations, Sweet Peas, Callas, Easter Lilies, etc., along with your natural flowers in your floral pieces? In many cases you are really making a satisfied customer. For your own sake just give us a trial order amounting to $25.00 or less and watch for results.

Then again you should have some of our Wax Designs, Pillows, Crosses, Anchors, Sprays, Magnolia Wreaths, etc., just to make a display in your shop. If you have no display you will have no call for goods. A good display means you are creating a demand for your goods.

We guarantee that our prices are the lowest.

COMPARE OUR PRICES WITH OTHERS AND SEE IF YOU CANNOT SAVE FROM 25 to 30%.

A party will leave Indianapolis the evening of January 28 at 11:30 for Cleveland. Members of the trade throughout the state intending to go are invited to join this group. ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

Conditions in the wholesale market have not changed materially since the last report. All seasonable flowers continue scarce, with slight advances in prices on first-quality stock. Arrivals of roses and carnations are not large. The majority of the local growers are off crop and, only for the fine weather, the shortage would have been greater. The retailers say the demand is not so brisk as it should be and that the high prices are to blame for the slack condition. It is mainly funeral work that is keeping them busy.

Little stock is left in the flower market after the morning sales, owing to the fact that there is no oversupply. Ophelia, Russell, Ward, Stanley and Columbia roses sold well throughout the week. Carnations, too, have cleared daily. In fact, there has not been enough stock to supply the demand, with the top price $6 per dozen. Sweet peas are in plentiful supply at from $1 to $2.50 per hundred. Violets of quality have been selling well at $1.50 per hundred for the best. Lilies, Paper Whites and valley have been plentiful, likewise calendulas and mignonette. Greens are in great demand.

Meetings.

The publicity committee held a special meeting January 14, with the largest attendance for several months. Interesting discussions on advertising the flower days, on high prices during the month of December for cut stock, and on articles published in the daily papers, occupied attention. These articles stated that it would cost big money to "Say It with Flowers" this year. Several of the retailers say that these statements injured business during the holidays. It was decided to hold a special meeting of this committee January 21 to arrange for several large newspaper advertisements for St. Valentine's day.

Chairman Hummert called a meeting January 14 of the banquet committee, at which it was decided to hold the florists' Victory banquet February 5, at the Planters' hotel, in the ballroom.

A meeting January 20 was for the purpose of sending out invitations.

The Retail Florists' Association held an interesting meeting January 13 in the Knights of Columbus hall, with a good attendance. Wholesale prices during the holidays and at the present time were the subjects discussed.

The Florists' Board of Trade is now complete and its membership is as follows: L. Jules Bourdet, Andrew Meyer, Jr., Andrew Hoffmann, of the Retail Florists' Association; W. A. Rowe, A. S. Cerny and C. Meier, of the Growers' Association, and H. G. Berning and Frank Windler, of the Wholesale Florists' Association. The two last named were appointed at a special meeting of the Wholesale Florists' Association January 13. The first meeting of the board is subject to the call of Chairman Bourdet.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

Those who have flowers are now comparing results with the results of two years, instead of with last year's returns. This comparison furnishes the strongest indication of the improvement in business since the war ended. Of course it is not everybody who has flowers. A good many have not, but it shows the tide is turning in our favor.

The usual period of post-holiday dullness has passed, but there has been no dullness. There is every indication that the activity of the flower market will continue throughout the remainder of the winter. The only changes in market conditions over those of a week ago are a further decline in the prices of carnations and a disposition on the part of the buyers to take medium and short-stemmed roses in preference to the fancy grades. There is no change in the listed prices of carnations. They still stand at $6 to $8. The change lies in the large number sold at the lower price. The deep colors usually bring the higher figure, the white the lower.

Orchids are abundant. As prices decline, more buyers are using them. Violets, too, are cheaper. The early spring flowers are more in evidence, especially Paper White narcissi, freesias and sweet peas. Valley is still to be had. A good deal of business is being done with Easter lilies and some with callas. Snapdragon is not yet abundant. The out-of-town orders are the strength of the market. Transportation is, in the main, excellent. Much good stock is shipped daily. The inauguration of the new governor at Harrisburg created a demand for many of the finest flowers. There is some entertaining and there are some sad remembrances, which now seem to require as many colored flowers as white.

The Big Three.

The person who knows nothing about commercial floriculture but who has a keen mind is at once favorably impressed by two points in the location of Edward Towill's place at Hillside: The protection from the cold north wind afforded by the sheltering hill and the exposure to the full force of the sun. It seems an ideal spot for greenhouses. Evidently the experts thought so, too, for after Mr. Towill built at Hillside a neighbor came on his right hand and on his left, and built each a range of greenhouses.

Every florist must love his work. It is absolutely necessary. Edward Towill fairly idolizes his calling. He not only grows, he creates, for Edward Towill was a pupil of Edwin Lonsdale. From him he learned the use of the camel's-hair brush. Lonsdale, Hill, Pernet-Ducher, Dickson, Scott, Wintzer, Towill, had each a little world of his own to live in that enabled him to forget the cares of life and revel in the enjoyment of creating new and beautiful varieties to delight flower lovers.

Edward Towill has the courage of his convictions. He has planted a great part of his greenhouses with his own seedlings. He has probably adopted his master's theory that varieties thrive best at home. His own varieties are Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, a lovely pink, and The Gem, yellow. He also grows Ophelia and Killarney Brilliant.

Mr. Towill's place looks well, especially so when it is considered that he and his brother are doing the work of a good-sized range. Both are strong, husky chaps, but it is surprising how much they are accomplishing.

Various Notes.

Gude Bros. Co., of Washington, D. C., exhibited their new pink carnation, Democracy, at the publicity meeting of the Florists' Club. M. A. Patten & Co., of Tewksbury, Mass., sent their white sport of Benora, and John Cook, of Baltimore, his new rose, Mrs. John Cook. Stephenson Bros., of Baltimore, exhibited their new pink sport of Ophelia.

Mr. Freud endorses the view that this market will be bare of cold storage Lilium giganteum until next fall. Phil.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The market is practically unchanged. The demand is small, in comparison with what is ordinarily expected at this season, but still the supply is such as barely to cover it.

The supply of lilies is decreasing considerably, owing to the shortage of bulbs. Shippers, who for a long time have made daily shipments, now skip a week occasionally, and 20 cents per bud and bloom continues to be the price. There probably will be a fair supply for Easter, but after that date it is doubtful whether lilies will be in regular supply.

There are more violets available, the plants having recovered from the conditions precipitated by the recent mild weather. With lower temperatures, supplies have increased.

Roses continue in short supply, and early shopping must be done if requirements are to be covered.

It is a producers' market, but while prices are much higher than customary, the growers assert they are not unduly high, considering circumstances. The quality of arrivals is all that could be desired and the commission men are lending their best efforts toward effecting equitable distribution.

Carnations have advanced in price, due to a great amount of funeral work, which has been in evidence for some days. January 19 and 21 the call for white varieties was particularly heavy, out of all proportion to the supply.

Orchids are in plenty and appear to clean up fairly well, though they drag at times. The price range is from 20 cents to 50 cents, the latter figure covering only the best.

Gardenias are plentiful, but move well. Culls and inferior blooms may be had at as low as $2 per dozen, but long-stemmed stock, with perfect flower heads, brings as high as $9.

There is a limited supply of bulbous flowers. A few freesias, narcissi and tulips are arriving, and move quickly, but there is no sign of an influx such as was wont to occur in former years. This condition, of course, tends to hold up the values of other flowers.

Sweet peas are coming in greater quantity, although there is little change in the quality, short-stemmed stock being the rule rather than the exception. They continue at $4 for the best, with a few specials bringing $5 per hundred.

There is an adequate supply of wallflowers, calendulas, bouvardia, stevia and the like, all moving well at remunerative prices.

Various Notes.

President Kessler, of the New York Florists' Club, has appointed the following as a committee on transportation to the convention and exhibition of the American Carnation Society, to be held at the Hollenden hotel, Cleveland, O., January 29 and 30: A. L. Miller, chairman, Sulphur road and Rockaway boulevard, Jamaica, L. I., N. Y.; J. G. Esler, Saddle River, N. J., and Joseph A. Manda, West Orange, N. J. While concessions in the rates for travel are not looked for, it is expected that a number will go from New York and vicinity and all wishing to join the party should communicate at once with Mr. Miller.

Ferdinand Fleischman, Forty-second street and Fifth avenue, had in his store window last week some fine Malmaison carnations. Attached to the vase containing them was a label describing them and conveying the information that they are decidedly larger than American carnations, a statement many who were noticed inspecting them were inclined to doubt, as the flower heads did not seem to be larger than four inches across, and many of the American varieties average three to three and one-half inches across. They were priced at $1 each. The quality was admittedly excellent.

Peter Beuerlein, Westwood, N. J., was in the market January 20, the first time, he said, since July. He has been greatly hampered by lack of help, which necessitated his staying on the job.

A meeting of the executive committee of the American Dahlia Society has been called for February 10, at 3 p. m., at the Grand hotel.

The strelitzia, or bird-of-paradise flower, appears prominently in some of the retail store windows. Wadley & Smythe showed a pretty arrangement of it in a low bowl, in combination with blue Spanish iris.

John Vincent, son of Richard Vincent,

Jr., White Marsh, Md., underwent a serious operation January 17, in a Baltimore hospital. His condition is critical.

A tree-planting drive has been started in Brooklyn. An organization of boys and girls is to raise money for tree planting through the salvage of newspapers, magazines, tin foil and rubber. The plane trees bordering Albany avenue, from St. John's place to Dean street, were planted by a similar organization formed through the Children's Museum. The register of Kings county has listed, so far, 1,200 pieces of vacant property and assigned it to individuals for use next spring for "Victory gardens."

Secretary Young, January 20, recorded the biggest arrival of mail in the history of his office during his incumbency.

Ben L. Elliott, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was a visitor January 18. J. H. P.

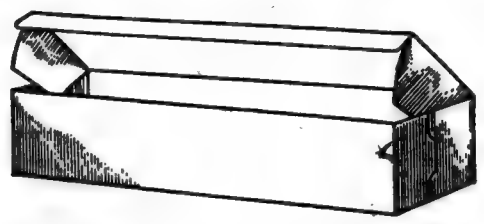
The Market.

Supplies, with the possible exception of roses, are slowly but steadily increasing and prices show some recessions. We have been experiencing climatic conditions more suggestive of April than January, but skies have been clear during only half of the last week. Roses continue in short supply, as all the growers are decidedly off crop. American Beauties still sell as high as $12 per dozen for select stock, with the best grades of Hadley at $6 and $7.50. Not half enough Killarney Brilliant, Maryland and Ophelia come in and everything is cleaned up early in the morning, with only slight recessions in price as compared with a week ago. Carnations are lower in price and excellent flowers may now be had at $5, with fancies higher. Sweet peas of fine quality are arriving and sell as high as carnations. Yellow marguerites are popular, with the better grades selling at $6 and even higher. Violets continue scarce at $2 and $2.50.

Lilies and callas hold up well. Stevia is practically over. Calendulas and snapdragons are in small supply. Pansies sell as high as $4. Valley is more plentiful and of improved quality. Paper Whites never sold at such prices as now prevail; all good stock brings $8. Only small lots of French Golden Spurs are seen, but a nice lot of freesia is arriving. Cattleyas hold up well and some fine gardenias sell at from $9 to $15 per dozen. Asparagus moves better now that stevia is out of the way.

Various Notes.



The Arnold & Fisher Co., of Woburn, has two of its large houses planted with sweet peas, the varieties being the finest procurable. One house will start to flower next month, the other in time for Easter. In carnations, Red Cross proves far ahead of Beacon and Belle Washburn, which are growing alongside of it. Matchless, Pink Delight, Doris and Laddie also are grown. Mr. Arnold says he may plant a couple of houses to roses next season.

J. K. Chandler & Son, of Tewksbury, are sending in a splendid lot of Rose Queen sweet peas and will cut their first flowers of Iris tingitana this week.

Welch Bros. Co. has unusually fine gardenias, valley and cattleyas, and this concern is headquarters for high-grade marguerites. Shipping business here is unusually good.

The Budlong Rose Co., of Auburn, R. I., finds Maryland a most popular rose. Stotesbury proves a good seller, also Cleveland, although the latter is weak in the stem.

Thomas Capers, of Wellesley Hills, who closed his houses last fall on account of the fuel restrictions, is reopening them and will grow stocks, candytuft and other stock for Memorial day trade, to be followed by his specialty, carnations.

Bert Sloane is now on the road for the Boston Floral Supply Co.

A. E. Kunderd, of Goshen, Ind., spent a few days in Boston this week and has been calling on many gladiolus specialists. Mr. Kunderd's novelties are held in high favor locally.

John W. Foote, of Reading, is picking a fine crop of Christmas Pink sweet peas. He has the finest Beacon carnations I have seen this season, with Matchless and Benora almost as good.

A. H. Hill, of Dundee, Ill., gave an interesting lecture on the "Culture of Conifers" at Horticultural hall January 18.

Leonard Barron, of Garden City, N. Y., will speak on "Gardening After the War," January 25. As Mr. Barron is an interesting speaker, he should have a large audience.

bunched flowers, which command top prices. Edward Bingham, of Dedham, has also a fine lot of extra large, deep-colored flowers.

Tickets are already selling for the Victory banquet of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club February 26, at Horticultural hall, and a number of advertisements have been received for the menu booklet to be issued.

George C. Harbison, until recently foreman for W. W. Elliott, at Brighton, now has a position at the Harvard Botanic Gardens, with Robert Cameron.

C. P. Sweetser, New England representative of the Davey Tree Co., and vice-president of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, is spending the winter at Savannah, Augusta and Brunswick, Ga., working at tree surgery, but expects to return to Boston in the latter part of February. W. N. C.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

The market has dropped slightly during the week, although prices still hold up well and there is a more settled condition. The demand is still apace with the supply and stock of all grades every day witnesses a clean-up. Funeral work continues active, for which there is an increasing call for artificial stuff. There was considerable call for cut flowers last week, which was one of social gayety unprecedented for these dull times. Roses and carnations have supported the market for weeks, but a few Paper Whites are making their appearance. Roses continue at from $10 to $25 per hundred. Carnations and Paper Whites bring from $6 to $10 per hundred.

Horticultural Society.

The annual meeting of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society was held January 15 and the following officers were elected: President, E. A. Burlingame; first vice-president, Prof. John E. Hill; second vice-president, Alexander Macrae; secretary, E. K. Thomas; treasurer, I. F. Chase; trustee for three years, Thomas Hope.

The speaker of the evening was Prof. John G. Jack, who has been connected with the Arnold Arboretum, Cambridge, Mass., for the last twenty-five years. His talk was on the importance of utilizing and developing American trees and shrubs and depending less on foreign countries for our ornamental forestry.

Various Notes.

Macnair, Florist, and Timothy O'Connor had a large number of pieces for the double funeral of Edgar Whelan and wife. The former was a well known local newspaper man.

The Market.

Little difference is seen in the florists' activities this last week from those recorded a week ago. Business is quiet throughout this section. The extreme shortage of cut flowers tends to hold prices up. With bright days and light frosts at night, the weather is springlike and this condition benefits our business by bringing more stock into the market and undoubtedly will bring down prices. Carnations during the last week have been more plentiful and bring from $5 to $6 per hundred for good stock. The majority of them are of splendid quality. In roses the supply at present balances the demand, which is not large. Columbia, Sunburst and September Morn are in strong demand. Prima Donna, Ophelia, Maryland, the Killarneys and the Wards move well. Good Scott Keys and Hoosier Beauties sell well. The demand is good for bulbous stock. Freesia, Paper Whites, tulips, Romans and jonquils sell in preference to other flowers, because they are cheaper. The demand for violets is not good and they

FRAT-M

FRATERNAL ✻ EMBLEMS.

What are they?

They are 4-inch reproductions of Fraternal Emblems embossed in gold and the colors demanded by each Fraternal Order

How are they used?

They are attached to the ribbon or chiffon of any floral offering.

Why are they of such help to the Florist?

They save flowers, as the colors demanded by each Order are embossed on the Frat-M. They save wire designs; for instance, any plain spray with a Frat-M attached becomes a fraternal piece. Think of what this means, with a shortage of wire and flowers as scarce and high as theyare everywhere this winter. They save lettering. Think of that. If attached to door badges alone, they are worth many times their cost.

What do they cost?

They cost 20c each, or $2.00 a dozen cash, and should retail for 50c each, or $6.00 per dozen. An order of two dozen ($4.00 cash) gets the exclusive use of Frat-M's for one year in cities of 25,000 or less. They can be bought from your wholesale supply house, or the

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Words of Commendation.

Among the many communications of a commendatory character received by our promotion bureau in the second week of the 1919 campaign, it is pleasing to note those from the following:

G. E. M. Stumpp, New York: "Enclosed please find my check for $300, in payment of my share for the 1919 publicity campaign to promote the sale of flowers. I consider it a pleasure to pay this bill, but feel that this act alone is not enough to make the campaign a success. Personal interest has helped immensely and accomplished more than anyone can tell. Our slogan, 'Say It with Flowers,' is now heard all over the United States, and the response has been wonderful. I feel that the funds have been judiciously spent, and I am more than satisfied with the results obtained in such a short time."

William F. Kasting Co., Buffalo, N. Y. (Could confidence in the campaign work be better expressed?): "We enclose you herewith a check for $200 to take care of our subscription to the national publicity campaign. We sent you a check for $100, which took care of our 1919 subscription. The enclosed $200 is to take care of our 1920 and 1921 subscriptions."

Nordwall, Florist, Fort Dodge, Ia.: "It is a pleasure to mail you my check for $10, doubling the subscription made to the publicity fund of the S. A. F. by the North Floral Co., Inc., which business I am conducting under my own name. There is no doubt in my mind that the publicity work undertaken during the last year has brought a wonderful increase in flower sales throughout the entire country. When we take into consideration the fact that the majority of florists do practically no advertising, being content to take such custom as comes to them naturally, the raising of the publicity fund has meant no small task for the committees to undertake. Although my own contribution is not large, I do appreciate the work the committees have done and are doing."

Philip Breitmeyer, of John Breitmeyer's Sons, Detroit, Mich.: "I enclose herewith check for $100 in payment of our subscription for 1919, as per agreement. I realize that, as the season advances, and if the work is kept up, it will be necessary to have further subscriptions, and I am sure that your 'old reliable' can be looked upon for his share as time goes on." with Flowers," to many millions of homes, with accompanying suggestions regarding the use of our products for gifts, for messages of sympathy to those in hospital and sick room, birthday remembrances, weddings and other purposes.

Can you, Mr. Non-Subscriber, think for one moment that publicity such as this is not going to help your business, no matter where you are located? Have you, yourself, never forgotten a birthday you would like to have observed with a floral tribute, an anniversary, a wedding, even the internment of a dear friend in hospital or sick room? And would you not have been pleased to get such a pertinent reminder as ours when turning over the pages of your favorite magazine? Of course you would, so is it not quite natural that the general public is equally interested? It is! Results last year proved it.

have published did not write those nice letters merely for the sake of excusing their contributions. They have realized to the full the great benefit of our publicity, and in his heart every florist who has not yet subscribed realizes it, too. Then why the hesitation in the matter of a subscription? The money provided is not given away; it is simply invested in the interest of the subscriber, in a coöperative way. Such publicity cannot be purchased piecemeal; it is only obtainable through coöperation and the organization which has been made possible through our committees.

We want more coöperation. We want to see a greater willingness to provide ammunition for our publicity guns. The intervals between firing should be short and activity continuous. Now is the time to subscribe, when planning to the best advantage is possible.

Come over and help us, everybody.

Publicity Committee to Meet.

The publicity committee and the publicity finance committee will meet in joint session at the Hotel Hollenden, Cleveland, January 30. President J. F. Ammann will preside. All expecting to be present should make hotel reservations without delay, as the American Carnation Society will be in convention at the hotel at the same time.

A Correction.

In the issue of January 2 in the announcement of officers of the society for 1919, under the heading "Directors Under Affiliation to Serve One Year," Edwin A. Harvey, Brandywine Summit, Pa., president of the Florists' Club of Philadelphia, should have appeared, instead of Alban A. Harvey.

John Young, Sec'y.

HATS OFF TO THE GROWER.

At the recent meeting of the Philadelphia Florists' Club, the interest evinced by the presence of so many growers augured well for the publicity movement, as does the keen desire of the growers to keep posted on the activities of the publicity committees.

The meeting was well attended and the opening effort for more funds for the 1919 campaign was surely successful, if interest and attendance are vital. The fact that the growers' share in making the campaign a success was so ably presented by several of the speakers promises well for the future interest of the grower as well as the retailer.

FAIREST FLOWERS AT FAIREST PRICES

Those who were present went away well satisfied that the campaign will play an important part in helping to put the flower business on a still higher level for all concerned in regard to sales, as well as in welding together all branches of the business.

Any campaign that has for its principle, "All for one and one for all," must be successful, and surely the florists' publicity campaign stands for just that. Keep the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," before the public at all times and its effect will be greater than you anticipate.

Now a word to the retailer: Make use of the slogan at all times and it will soon redound to your interest. The

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

Retail business is quiet at this time, as it usually is following the great rush of Christmas, and dealers are thankful for this condition, because stock of all kinds is scarce. While the city trade is fair for the season, it is not what would be called heavy, compared with the unprecedented rush of the two months before the holidays. Out-of-town business is better than local trade with the wholesalers. This is thought to be because stocks are short everywhere and out-of-town buyers have not the reserves that the large city dealers have. Stock on hand is high-priced. Wholesale dealers are getting from 15 cents to 40 cents each for roses and 5 and 6 cents for carnations. There are no lilies and only a few sweet peas. The latter bring $1.50 and $2 per hundred. California violets are $2.50 per dozen bunches; narcissi, 5 cents each.

Various Notes.

Walter Newell, who was a cadet in the flying school at Ellington, Houston, Tex., has returned to his home in Kansas City.

J. Hess, Omaha, Neb., was in the city recently. He was joined here by Frank Stuppy, of St. Joseph, Mo., and both went over to Excelsior Springs, Mo., for a week's rest.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thomas, of the Rosery, are away from business on account of influenza. D. E. W.

The weather is remarkable for the season, nothing like it having been experienced for more than twenty years. Moreover, there are no coal troubles, no northerly blasts, no heavy snow storms, no war. It is like living in a new world. The absence of bulbous stock is responsible for the exceptional prices for other lines of stock, but this week there is a general reduction on everything except roses, which have not yet recovered from the Christmas cut.

Columbus, O.—Underwood Bros. are filling up empty benches with bedding plants and blocks of cinerarias, which seem to sell right along. William Underwood observed that he never before had seen such a poor prospect for flowering stock for Easter, which doubtless will bring a good market for plants. He incidentally mentions they had plants of solanums at Christmas that sold as high as $5 each.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Seattle, Wash.—W. S. Goldsbary, who is with Rosaia Bros., has had his hands full until recently. For several weeks he had the "flu" in his family, now happily recovered.

Portland, Ore.—J. I. Robinson has been able to give much of his time to war work during the year just closed, having able coöperation in his business as a florist from his wife and Grower Wedell. He reports a busy year, the only drawback being insufficient supplies of stock. Spring will find him back in harness again, planning many improvements.

Los Angeles, Cal.—It is reported that H. R. Richards will withdraw from the firm of S. Murata & Co., becoming a gentleman of leisure February 1. He has a pretty place on rural free delivery route No. 6; the box at the roadside is labeled 368. Mr. Murata and Mr. Richards are dissolving partnership with mutual good wishes. It is probable that Mr. Richards soon will be back in the business, probably as the Pacific coast agent of some well known eastern firms.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

Flowers of all kinds were conspicuous by their absence last week in the local market. Funeral work at present constitutes the principal activity in the retail shops. Decorations are only memories.

Various Notes.

The Hollywood Gardens are cutting fine carnations. This concern reports flowers scarcer than ever before and demand strong.

W. H. Hawkins, who recently left Seattle for California, has purchased Bassett's Floral Gardens, at Loomis, Cal. He will specialize in carnation cuttings and ferns. He expects to have 50,000 carnation cuttings ready for the market by March 1.

E. Rosaia, violet grower of Portland, Ore., visited the trade during the week.

The death of Frank Quillan, proprietor of the Washington Floral Co., is noted in another column of this issue.

Rosaia Bros. are cutting roses and orchids. W. S. G.

SPOKANE, WASH.

The Market.

Trade is becoming more nearly normal and the florists are enjoying the first opportunity for rest in four months. They all wear smiles of satisfaction, but some complain that much more business could have been done had they been able to secure more stock. The weather has become milder and we see sunshine occasionally and therefore are getting larger supplies of roses and carnations.

Club Meeting.

The Spokane Florists' Club held its monthly meeting January 13. This was the first meeting since September 9, due to the influenza ban, in effect since that date. The club met in the Stone room of the Spokane hotel. After an enjoyable dinner, routine business was discussed. S. Younkin, of Hoyt Bros. Co., Inc., acted as chairman. J. W. Duncan was elected to succeed himself as secretary. The question regarding the embargo to be placed on plants, bulbs and shrubs, which takes effect in June, brought arguments both for and against the bill. Bernson & Halley, of Glenrose Greenhouses, decorated the tables with a beautiful specimen of the new carnation, Laddie. R. W. N.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Stock is still scarce and carnations and other standard flowers are worth more than ever before, or at least they bring higher prices. Violets are more plentiful, the cold nights apparently having no effect upon their opening, when followed by fine days. Scotch heather, so-called (Erica melanthera), is in fair shape, but the lack of rain apparently is responsible for a lighter coloring than is normal and it does not attract buyers as usual. But its keeping qualities and the fact that it ships well over long distances insure it a welcome, especially at a time of scarcity. The long shoots are fine for decorations of all kinds and the shorter stock is ideal for choice funeral work. Chinese lilies, narcissi and Roman hyacinths help out and a few daffodils have come in, but not enough of the latter to affect the market. Orchids are more plentiful, Cattleya Trianæ, C. Percivaliana and C. Schroederæ all overlaping the season as well as some hybrids that find their way to the market from private collections. It is pleasing to note the increased use of other orchids besides cattleyas. Nearly all small flowers are still below the demand and are bringing the growers much better returns than usual. There are some good cyclamens still on the market, also ferns, but outside of these the plants seen are of poor quality.

The frost damaged some of the plumosus in the less favored localities, but in warmer sections it was unharmed and is possibly more plentiful than usual at this season. Maidenhair ferns of good quality are scarce and ferns from the north are higher in price than usual.

Various Notes.

Fred Sperry, of the L. A. Floral Co., has been under the weather for some time, but has been sticking close to business, nevertheless, until he finally had to stay at home. He has been in bed for several days, but everyone hopes for his speedy recovery.

H. N. Gage is usually first on the market with outdoor daffodils. Mr. Gage brought in his first flowers January 13. He also had fine ranunculus flowers. They have come this year slightly later than last, owing to the early bulbs having been planted at the Baldwin park ranch, where it is colder than Montebello, though the soil there is particularly well adapted to bulbous stock.

George Stewart has returned to work at Wolfskills' after a severe cold.

F. Wright is back at work after an attack of influenza.

A look around Angelo Tassano's nursery at Artesia shows great improvement since he took it over two years ago. Trees of single and double peaches planted around the lath houses have made a wonderful growth and are just bursting into bloom. These are popular sellers for decoration. There are quantities of statice and other stock for cutting and several acres of plumosus under lath. One more acre of lath is to be built at once and an addition made to the greenhouses used for the culture of maidenhair ferns.

Mrs. Patterson is no longer connected with the Athletic Club Florist. She is thinking of returning to the east.

W. Armacost & Co. report a falling off in roses temporarily after the big holiday crops. They look for another big cut, however, around St. Valentine's day. Their growers seem to have the happy faculty of "hitting it right" for the various holidays.

At the store of S. Murata & Co., shipping business keeps up well, an increase being noted in the number of orders received from small towns at long distances. Many new names appear, also, in towns already well represented in the trade. H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

As far as the general supply of flowers is concerned, the situation is even more acute here than it was a week ago, principally because of the marked decrease in the cut of roses. Except in isolated cases of private sources of supply, all the growers seem to have gone off crop at once, as the result of heavy cuttings earlier in the season. Holiday prices still prevail on all varieties of roses, it being more a question of getting the stock than price. The retailers have to do a great deal of explaining to their customers, but it is figured not many sales are lost on account of the unusually high prices. When roses are quoted at $2.50 a dozen for Ophelias, $3.50 a dozen for Russells, and $5 for American Beauties, wholesale, which means they retail at $5 to $10 a dozen, it must be taken into consideration that any amount of roses ordinarily can be had here practically all the year around for $1.50 to $4 per dozen retail.

With roses so scarce, it is gratifying to see carnations more plentiful, and indications are that the supply will increase rapidly in the next fortnight. From $2 to $2.50 per bunch of two dozen, the wholesale price has dropped to $1.25 and $1.50 per bunch. There is also a drop in freesias to 75 cents and $1 a bunch. A limited supply of greenhouse daffodils cleans up readily at $1 per dozen. Orchids went up last week, but the supply is ample for requirements, and the price has been reduced again to the usual 50 cents apiece wholesale.

The violet situation is more unsatisfactory this season than ever before. The acreage was small, to begin with; it has been hard to get pickers, and, for the last month, the supply has been still further reduced by a prolonged spell of frost. Shipments have been practically stopped the last week, and the local demand has been curtailed by the poor quality of the offerings. A warm rain would help out wonderfully.

Various Notes.

Fred Bertrand, formerly manager for B. M. Joseph, and more recently engaged in war work, has accepted a position with the MacRorie-McLaren Co., as manager of its retail business. He has had years of experience in this line of work and his many friends in the trade wish him well in his new connection. Business at the MacRorie-McLaren establishment has held up well since the holidays.

Joseph Lagomarsino, one of the largest violet growers in this vicinity, says weather conditions have been unfavorable for the last month to such an extent that the crop is now in poor shape. He has not shipped flowers to far distant points for the last two weeks, on account of the quality being poor. The outlook is more promising this week, however, the long spell of frost having given way to a warm rain. From present indications there should be good blooms by the first of February, but there is no chance of an oversupply, as the acreage is much reduced this year. In this connection Mr. Lagomarsino points out that he has only seven acres of violets this winter, whereas in the last few years he has had up to twenty-one acres.

The Art Floral Co. has added two new men to its staff in the persons of A. Cuneo and Joseph Scatena. Both men are well known in the local trade. Until recently Mr. Cuneo was with B. M. Joseph, Grant avenue, and Mr. Scatena formerly was with the E. W. McLellan Co. for eight years.

Jack Lavazzola, with Avansino Bros., has been off duty for two or three weeks on account of illness. Henry Avansino reports business good, notwithstanding the scarcity and high price of flowers.

Peter Rosaia, until recently with the Art Floral Co., has joined the force of Pelicano, Rossi & Co. Around this establishment it is hinted that Frank Pelicano must have a way of making Scotch heather grow overnight. For days his associates claim he has been announcing that he had no more heather, but each day he managed to bring in enough to fill requirements.

V. Podesta, of Podesta & Baldocchi, has no complaints to make about the demand for cut flowers, but he is anxiously awaiting the time when prices get down to normal again.

In his twenty-one years' experience in the florists' business in San Francisco, John Biachinni, buyer for B. M. Joseph, claims he never saw prices so high as they are now.

Mrs. Copeland, proprietor of the Misses Hannon florists' shop in Sutter street, says that in addition to funeral work, her force is kept busy with table decorations, there being much entertaining in honor of the returning soldiers and sailors.

C. B. Clancey, a florist of Salem, Ore., has been visiting in San Francisco. He expresses surprise to find flowers so scarce in this market.

M. H. Ebel, one of the leading florists of Sacramento, Cal., was in the Bay district on one of his periodic visits this week. He is pleased over a banner holiday business and the outlook for the continuation of good times in the capital city.

Although there is a ready demand for roses and other cut flowers, J. A. Axell, manager of the E. W. McLellan Co., does not find his task altogether agreeable nowadays. Instead of the present shortage and high prices, he would prefer to handle more stock at lower figures. There are not enough flowers to go around and no matter how carefully the distribution is planned, he says, it is impossible to please everyone.

Mr. Enomoto, of Enomoto & Co., is shipping violets, but he cannot get enough stock to fill his orders. He also has more orders for roses than he can fill.

Domoto Bros. are bringing in a nice cut of freesias and hyacinths, which find a ready demand.

Louis Picetti, manager of the new store of Charles C. Navlet & Co., in Market street, off First, is more than pleased with initial business. Holiday sales, he says, were far beyond expectations, and the demand for cut flowers, plants, seeds, etc., has held up remarkably well since. M. M.

her son, Leo Willes, has arrived from France and is now in a hospital in New York.

William H. Patten, well known in wholesale circles here, is back home from Little Rock, Ark., where he has been living for the last six months. Paddy, as he is known to the local trade, has not yet made known his plans.

D. Bova, head of the Red Bud Floral Co., was all smiles at the wholesale market last week, due to the arrival at his home of twin girls left by the stork January 14.

Otto Bruenig, rose grower, Olivette, Mo., left January 16 for Richmond, Ind., to visit the establishments of the E. G. Hill Co. and the Joseph H. Hill Co. The new rose, Premier, will come in for a good share of his attention.

W. J. Pilcher, of Kirkwood, in addition to cutting a splendid lot of Columbia and Russell roses, is sending exceptionally nice calendulas and mignonette to the wholesale market.

The Mullanphy Florists' downtown store featured special window decorations last week, with resulting good business, according to Martin Seeger, manager.

Werner Bros., rose growers, at Clayton, Mo., are sending to this market a fine cut of Lady Stanley roses, which clean up at top prices.

The C. Young & Sons Co. is enlarging its seed department in preparation for the spring season, which will soon be at hand. This line is in charge of William Dee. The force is busy packeting seeds.

There was considerable work in the retail shops last week for the midwinter graduating exercises.

J. F. Ammann & Co., of Edwardsville, Ill., and Henry Baer, of Peoria, Ill., are consigning to this market an extra fine quality of carnations, which have the call of the buyers.

Moving pictures will be made of flowering plants and fruits growing at the Missouri Botanical Garden, to show their organic development. The films will be used for the education in botany of St. Louis school children.

Recent visitors included C. C. Chappell, of Little Rock, Ark.

The will of James Young, who died November 12, was filed in the Probate court here recently. He left $500 each to his sons, Charles and Walter, and the rest of his estate to his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Young, whom he named executrix without bond. The will was executed November 12, 1914. J. J. B.

ROCHESTER NEWS NOTES.

are offered at low prices in order to clear. Callas and Easter lilies move well. A few sweet peas find their way to the market. Cypripediums and cattleyas do not receive large call. Pink bouvardia clears well. Snapdragon, mignonette and daisies are not plentiful. The supply of greens is equal to the demand, but galax is uncertain.

In potted plants the supply is on the increase and includes good bulbous stock, as well as primulas, begonias, crotons and orange trees.

Club Elects Officers.

The Rochester Florists' Association held its monthly meeting and election of officers January 3 at the Musicians' Headquarters, with a good attendance. Hubert B. Stringer, who has held the office of president of the association for the last two years, was in the chair. The meeting was honored by the presence of Morris M. Cohen, of New York city, and J. J. Karins, representing H. A. Dreer, of Philadelphia, Pa., both of whom were elected members of the association.

The officers elected for the coming year were: President, Harry E. Bates; vice-president, George T. Boucher; secretary, Ambrose H. Secker; treasurer, James Sproat. A letter protesting against the order prohibiting the importation of plants, shrubs and bulbs from Holland and Belgium was read by the secretary and vigorous protests were voiced. James J. Karins, of Philadelphia, pointed out the various ways in which the new law would affect the trade of the country. He urged the club to write its congressmen asking that the order be modified. G. B. Hart, Edwin P. Wilson and Charles H. Vick were appointed a committee to draft the resolutions.

Various Notes.

Felix Alberts, manager for H. P. Neun, is confined to his home with a severe attack of lumbago, but is progressing favorably.

John Dunbar, assistant superintendent of parks, is recovering from an attack of the "flu."

H. J. H.

FORT SMITH, ARK.

Business has taken a slump since the holidays and things are quiet compared with the last three months. Funeral work has slackened also and the demand for flowers is not heavy at present. From October 1 to January 1 business was the best on record and prices, although high, were met without much protest. Wholesale prices made retail prices go up so fast and so high that a good many sales have been lost, but still there can be no complaint. Stock was scarce and plants sold extra well. The florists all had all they could do.

Building materials are still high and we know of no one who is planning to build. The prospects for spring trade look good, for we have been having zero weather and the gas supply has been low and fern stock lost as a consequence. Outside stock as well as stock in houses has suffered and for that reason a good demand is expected.

G. R.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.

Plant stock has been good throughout the season and this line clears readily. Cut flowers, also, have been of good quality, but high in price. The prices, however, have not prevented them from selling.

John Walker is at home again, after a few days spent in Columbus, Cleveland and other cities in this section, looking up bedding stock, which he says is hard to get.

H. H. Cade has returned from Cairo, Ill., where he spent a couple of weeks visiting his brother, H. W. Cade, a florist of that city.

William Meine, of the firm of Schmidt & Meine, is improving slowly from a serious attack of influenza contracted three months ago.

The Kay-Dimond Co. has had several large decorations lately and a number of smaller ones since the first of the year.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

EXCEPT for some shortage of help, the situation in the seed trade is fairly comfortable.

THE early catalogues are producing a good immediate response; orders are considerably ahead of last January, perhaps due to the less severe weather this year.

COMPARING the price of S. & S. C. stock with the cost of coated papers, and comparing the printing results obtained, a larger number of catalogues than ever before are found to have been printed on the coated papers this season.

AT a dinner at a famous London restaurant, December 18, with 190 persons present, the seed firm of Hurst & Son, Houndsditch, celebrated its seventy-fifth anniversary. The house has many connections in the United States.

THE Livingston Seed Co., Columbus, O., reports a brisk business in every department. The seed departments, both wholesale and retail, are getting into line, preparing for early sowings. Indications are that the season will equal last year's.

IT was on December 16 that the British government granted permission to the trade to import 10,000 cases of lily bulbs from Japan. In spite of the lateness of the season, it was expected to get the stock. England admitted no lily bulbs in 1917 or 1918.

SEED houses of Dallas, Tex., which report a satisfactory business for the year of 1918, are making plans for a larger demand in 1919. Local weather and soil conditions are regarded as favorable for crops of quality and the organizations of these concerns are in better shape for handling a large volume of business than ever before. Private laboratories for scientific analyses to test the purity and germinating qualities of seeds have been installed at considerable expense by several seed companies, to insure that seed shipped may be of dependable character. In view of the demands made upon the United States for food supplies for Europe, it is estimated that the increase in the seed trade will amount to thirty to forty per cent of last year's sales.

BARTELDES' FIRE LOSS.

Oklahoma City Branch Destroyed.

The destruction of practically the entire season's stock, with the building in which it was contained, at the Oklahoma City branch of the Barteldes Seed Co., occurred Sunday morning, January 19.

S. D. WOODRUFF & SONS

Orange, Conn. - 82 Dey St., New York City

Branches in COLORADO, CALIFORNIA and WASHINGTON. Established in 1865

The financial loss to the company is put at $125,000 by the local manager, Otto Bofinger, and it is thought to be fully covered by insurance, but the loss through the interruption of business just at the opening of the busy season will be large.

Details of the Loss.

The Barteldes Seed Co., the headquarters of which are at Lawrence, Kan., is the largest wholesale and mail order house in Oklahoma, the branch house building at 627 West Main street being 50x140 feet, three stories and basement.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it obtained such great headway that the entire building was consumed, the upper walls falling. The stock of seeds, although delivered earlier than last year, was not so large as a year ago, but its apparent total loss will create a local shortage in many lines. The stock included a complete line of farm, field, grass, garden and flower seeds, onion sets, etc. The catalogues had just been mailed.

The business of the Barteldes Seed Co. dates back to 1867. The officers are: President and general manager, F. W. Barteldes; vice-president, Max Wilhelmi; secretary and treasurer, J. Uhrlaub. In addition to the headquarters warehouse at Lawrence, Kan., the company has another branch at Denver, in charge of J. R. Kern and J. M. Wiesel As complete stocks were carried at all three places and only one is lost, Mr. Barteldes, who arrived at Oklahoma City the day after the fire, expects to be able to handle all orders with slight delay.

SEEDSMEN AND CANNERS.

One Must Know the Ropes.

The great annual canners' convention is on this week, greater than ever. It was advertised to be held at La Salle hotel, Chicago, but the attendance proved to be so large that the overflow spreads all over town, with much confusion resulting, so that any seedsman who does not know the trade pretty well has trouble meeting up with the canners he wants to see.

The canners are not hunting up the seedsmen this year; there is considerable reluctance to buy more seeds at this time, inspired by the knowledge that the big shortage predicted last year failed to eventuate and by the knowledge that the seed production in the United States last summer was the greatest in the history of the seed trade. The canners also are a little uncertain as to how far they should, themselves, go in the matter of acreage this year.

Seedsmen Present.

Most of the seed houses catering to canners' trade are represented, some of them by numerous salesmen and stenographic forces. Among those noted are:

John H. Allan Seed Co., Sheboygan, Wis., W. B. Lucas, D. D. Rowlands.

J. Bolgiano & Son, Baltimore, Md., R. J. Bowen, H. B. Robinson.

Alfred J. Brown Seed Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., W. A. Reed, F. A. Montelius.

INSPECTION OF SHIPMENTS.

Unauthorized Action.

The other day the Minnesota Supreme court was called upon to determine an interesting legal question concerning the liability of railway companies where a contract buyer inspects a shipment and then refuses to accept or pay for it, the shipment having been made under an order bill of lading. (Quinn-Shepherdson Co. vs. Great Northern Railway Co., 169 Northwestern Reporter, 422.)

The plaintiff shipped a car of seed wheat to its own order to a North Dakota destination, pursuant to previous negotiations for its sale to a seed company at that point. The bill of lading contained directions to "notify" the seed company, and also provided that there should be no inspection by the seed company before acceptance of delivery, except as such inspection might be expressly provided for by law or agreement.

A representative of the seed company secured access to the car in some manner and made an inspection, and then the company declined to accept delivery. The plaintiff, being compelled to sell at a loss, sued the railway company for reimbursement, claiming that the defendant had wrongfully permitted an inspection. Trial of the suit resulted in favor of the railway company and the judgment has been affirmed by the Minnesota Supreme court, which holds that the evidence fell short of proving that the railway company ever permitted an inspection. The higher court says, in part:

Liability of Carrier.

"It is quite clear from the evidence that the inspection of the wheat by the seed company was without the knowledge of the defendant. No consent thereto was given by its agents. The defendant cannot be held liable for an inspection gained by secret or stealthy entry into the car. Such seems to have been the method adopted by the agents of the seed company. The only evidence claimed to support the theory that the defendant wrongfully delivered the wheat to the seed company is found in the fact that, at the suggestion or request of that company, the defendant's agent caused the car containing the wheat to be switched onto the delivery track, the side track from which like shipments were usually unloaded. In our view of the evidence, that fact is wholly insufficient to require a finding that the defendant thereby intended to deliver the car unconditionally to the seed company.'' S.

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

James Davis, of the Zack Davis Co., Delaware, O., observed that the proposed pure seed law doubtless would help the seedsmen in the smaller towns, as well as the old established houses in the big cities. Incidentally he mentioned receiving an order the other day which makes interesting reading, especially as the goods were to be shipped direct to the farmer. It reads thus:

70 bu. timothy,
24 bu. medium clover,
3 bu. mammoth clover,
40 lbs. redtop,
5 bu. alfalfa,
2½ bu. alsike,
40 lbs. pasture grass,
10 lbs. rape.

It furnishes evidence that, regardless of the high cost of seed, the far-sighted farmer, even as his fellow-worker, the florist, realizes a bright future for his crops. "He that sows little shall reap little, but he that sows plentifully shall reap plentifully." W. M.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

L. L. Olds Seed Co., Madison, Wis.—It might not be supposed, at first glance, that this is a 96-page book, for the paper used, though of good quality, is so thin as to be a thorough preventive of bulkiness. The company draws attention to the endeavor to keep the illustrations free from exaggeration.

Watkins & Simpson, Ltd., London, England.—"Foreign and Colonial Wholesale Catalogue of Vegetable and Flower Seeds," ninety-four large pages, well illustrated and clearly printed on extra-quality paper, and bound in a strong, green cover, embossed in gold. The prices of a few of the items are not quoted, on account of late and uncertain harvest. Enclosed is a separate list of "colored pictorial pockets."

Griswold Seed & Nursery Co., Lincoln, Neb.—Twenty-ninth annual catalogue of seeds, bulbs, plants and general nursery stock, with a notably comprehensive list of implements and supplies; eighty-eight pages, in a lithographed cover, which shows some of the products in their natural colors.

John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis.—An exceptionally elaborate and attractive catalogue, containing 164 pages, in a colored cover of handsome and unique design. Many of the illustrations also are colored. Large stocks are offered in the various lines—seeds, plants, nursery stock, implements and sundries.

Suburban Seed Co., La Grange, Ill.—Illustrated 48-page catalogue of farm, vegetable and flower seeds—seeds, says the company, that are "bursting with energy." Fertilizers, remedies and miscellaneous supplies also are offered.

New crops of most of the important items are now ready and the balance are expected shortly. Do not delay ordering your supply of the kinds that should be sown early, such as Ageratum, Alyssum, Antirrhinum, Centaurea, Cobaea, Dracaena, Heliotrope, Moonflower, Lantana, Lobelia, Maurandia. Petunia, Pyrethrum, Salvia, Thunbergia, Verbena, Vinca, etc., etc.

We call the special attention of Florists to the following:

NEW SCARLET SAGE

"America" or "Globe of Fire"

This is without doubt the finest Scarlet Sage ever sent out. It is the earliest to come into bloom, and flowers continuously till the end of the season, and what is equally as important, it is absolutely uniform in growth, about 15 inches high with the brilliant scarlet spikes thrown well above the plant making a total height of about 2 feet. The seed we offer is our own saving.

J. D. Long Seed Co., Boulder, Colo.—"Long's Decidedly Different Seed Catalogue, Condensed Edition for Busy People," thirty-six pages, illustrated. After all, says Mr. Long, in his entertaining "Short Talks" at the end of the book, "this condensed catalogue is the whole works." Some parts of it, he adds, have been "warmed over," while other parts have been written especially for this year.

W. E. Marshall & Co., Inc., New York, N. Y.—"Marshall's Seeds," a 96-page, illustrated catalogue, in an unusually artistic and pleasing cover, the colors of which are pink, white and two shades of gray. Nursery stock is offered, as well as the more strictly regular seedsmen's lines, and the list of tools and other equipments is so comprehensive as to occupy about thirty-five pages.

Wm. Henry Maule, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.—"The Maule Seed Book for 1919, a Guide to Successful Gardening," illustrated, 176 pages and colored cover. The first section of the book, containing 112 pages, is devoted to vegetable and farm seeds. The second section, distinguished by its pink color, treats of flower seeds, bulbs, plants, nursery stock and supplies.

Beckert's Seed Store, Pittsburgh, Pa.—Two catalogues, general and wholesale, both accurate, well illustrated, and in every respect excellent samples of catalogue-making. The general list is entitled "Beckert's Victory Garden Catalogue," and consists of sixty-four pages, in an appropriate and handsome colored cover. The wholesale book, containing twenty pages, bears the title, "Beckert's 'Reason Why' Catalogue for Market Gardeners."

Royal Palm Nurseries, Oneco, Fla.—"The Beautiful Grounds Book," sixty large, clearly printed, well illustrated pages, in an attractive cover which is decidedly suggestive of the tropics. At the beginning are directions on landscaping and ornamental gardening. The nursery stock and other plants listed are largely of a tropical or semitropical character, but many of the varieties are suitable also for general cultivation.

Aggeler & Musser Seed Co., Los Angeles, Cal.—A 112-page, illustrated catalogue, in a colored cover of distinctly patriotic design. The front cover bears a picture of a member of the Woman's Land Army of America. The lady is attired in a suitable uniform and is seated on the handles of a cultivator.

Seed Book," ninety-six pages, illustrated. The introductory pages contain instructions on "The Making and Care of Hotbeds and Coldframes"; also a timely article on "Peace Gardens vs. War Gardens."

Peter Henderson & Co., New York, N. Y.—"Everything for the Garden," a 184-page book, comprehensive as heretofore, and compiled in the distinctive, especially interesting Henderson fashion. Many of the illustrations are colored. The picture on the front cover is, as usual, of a historic nature, and this time the subject of it is "The Lee Mansion, Arlington, Va." The back cover shows the customary Henderson wheelbarrow-load of vegetables, but between the handles is a lady instead of the well known man. Overarching the lady is a rainbow which is inscribed, "The Hope of the Nation."

J. K. Alexander, East Bridgewater, Mass.—Two illustrated, well printed catalogues, wholesale and general, offering dahlias, gladioli, irises, phloxes, miscellaneous hardy plants and general nursery stock. About fifteen of the total eighteen pages of the wholesale list are devoted to Mr. Alexander's specialty, the dahlia. The general catalogue contains sixty-four pages, about two-thirds of which are occupied by the dahlias, with cultural directions and somewhat detailed descriptions.

Howard M. Gillet, Lebanon Springs, N. Y.—"The Gladiolus Beautiful," a neat little catalogue, with brief cultural directions.

Beulah Seed House, Beulah, N. D.—"Homegrown Seeds and Plants," an illustrated catalogue; sixteen pages and cover. Special attention is given to vegetable plants.

Barteldes Seed Co., Lawrence, Kan.—An illustrated 128-page catalogue from the headquarters of the company, which also has branches at Denver, Colo., and Oklahoma City, Okla. The lists are especially comprehensive, including many varieties of tree seeds and large assortments of nursery stock, as well as the ordinary lines of seeds, tools and supplies.

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

The demand for stock is steady. The supply continues the same as last week. Shipping business is good.

Rose receipts clean up regularly. The carnation cut has shortened since last week. Easter lilies are in good supply and excellent callas and rubrums may be had. The list of bulbous stock includes Paper Whites, yellow narcissi, freesias and Dutch hyacinths. Sweet peas find a good market. Snapdragons sell well and stevia meets with a fair demand. Other offerings are violets, orchids, lily of the valley, calendulas, wallflowers, forget-me-nots and baby primroses. Greens of all kinds are plentiful.

Martinsville, Ind.—Nixon H. Gano started in business here about eight years ago, with little capital. He has done well. Not only has he developed a fine property and business, but he has bought a good wheat farm at Davidson, Saskatchewan. He now plans to sell his greenhouses and business and to remove to Canada, purchasing two more sections adjoining his present farm.

Delaware, O.—J. H. Cunningham notes the big advantage in the mild weather, during which decorative material and deliveries need little protection. Last year at this time there was anxiety lest the goldfish in the aquarium in the store might freeze, it was so difficult to obtain the necessary heat. Now everything is as agreeable as one could desire, under conditions which will continue to improve.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

President, J. R. Mayhew, Waxahachie, Tex.; vice-president, J. Edward Moon, Morrisville, Pa.; secretary, Charles Sizemore, Louisiana, Mo.; counsel, Curtis Nye Smith, 19 Congress St., Boston, Mass.; treasurer, J. W. Hill, Des Moines, Ia.

BURLAP prices are now down more than fifty per cent below the prices quoted last August.

A. G. RUGGLES, state entomologist of Minnesota, in his report to Governor Burnquist, records the destruction during the year 1918 of 650,000 Berberis vulgaris, in the effort to eradicate the shrub that harbors wheat rust. Of this number, 50,000 were plantings in cities and towns and at country homes, and the rest were in the nurseries of the state.

THE Douglas Nurseries, Waukegan, Ill., have been sold to Lee McDonough, of that city, who will continue the business. Since the death, years ago, of Robert Douglas, who established the nurseries, his sons, Charles and Thomas, conducted the business, with the assistance of their mother, who will now remove to California, where she has relatives. The first location of these nurseries was between North avenue and Sheridan road, south of Glen Flora avenue. Twenty years ago the stock was lifted and removed to the tract now occupied on Grand avenue. When Thomas Douglas died, his widow took his place in the work and displayed considerable technical understanding of this line.

ILLINOIS NURSERYMEN TO MEET.

The Illinois Nurserymen's Association will hold its second annual convention in Chicago, at the Hotel La Salle, February 5 and 6. A splendid program has been prepared and this promises to be even better than the first convention, last year, of this organization, which all the nurserymen attending, it will be remembered, said was an exceptionally valuable and profitable convention.

A. M. Augustine, Sec'y,
Illinois Nurserymen's Association.

WESTERN MEN IN MEETING.

There was one of the largest gatherings of the trade in the history of the organization when the Western Association of Nurserymen opened its twenty-ninth annual meeting at the usual place, the Coates House, Kansas City, January 22. There is a distinctly better feeling in the trade as the result of increasing demand, better prices, an easing labor situation, etc., and it is reflected in the larger attendance. The general situation seems to be that the members and others present have ornamentals to sell, but are short on fruit trees. President W. C. Reed and Secretary George Holsinger have prepared a program of short talks covering the various phases of present conditions and prospects. J. R. Mayhew is present representing the American Association of Nurserymen.

CALIFORNIA NURSERY NOTES.

Some damage was done by fire at the Japanese nursery of Tokuma Makito, Fruitvale, Cal., a few days ago, which spread to a moving picture theater and caused a total loss of $10,000.

J. C. Scroggs & Co., nurserymen, have opened salesrooms at Third and I streets, Sacramento, Cal., under the management of George W. Sayles, well known nurseryman. The stock includes fruit, shade and ornamental trees.

The stock of the Placer Nurseries of the Silva & Bergtholdt Co. is being shipped daily from the baling sheds at Newcastle, Placer county, Cal. It is understood this company handles from 150,000 to 200,000 trees annually.

FRUIT GROWERS AT ROCHESTER.

The joint convention of the Western New York Horticultural Society and the New York State Fruit Growers' Association which was held at Rochester, January 15 to 17, culminated in the formation of the New York State Horticultural Society. The election of officers took place during the last session, at which U. P. Hedrick, of Geneva, N. Y., was made president. After the secretary's report was given, on the first day, John Hall concluded by saying that he was not up for reëlection. He has held that office for the last thirty years. W.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE.

One of the reasons why the horticultural trades make progress less rapidly than they should is found in the divergence of interests and opinion. A case in point is the quarantine to become effective June 1. Some of the nurserymen cannot see why their opposition to such a stringent order is ignored by the authorities at Washington. Probably the reason will be found in the fact that other members of the trade support the action of the Federal Horticultural Board. As a case in point, among others, the Elliott Nursery Co., Pittsburgh, is one of the members of the trade issuing circulars criticising the quarantine and urging that congressional action be sought. On almost the same day that the Elliott Nursery Co. sent out its circular, A. H. Hill, of the Dundee Nursery Co., Dundee, Ill., addressing the Massachusetts Horticultural Society on "The Culture of Conifers," predicted that the day is soon coming when American growers will produce the stocks for American needs and that the money now sent to Europe to purchase nursery stock will be kept at home and aid in the upbuilding of American horticulture.

Until the trade is agreed upon facts and a policy, there seems little chance of getting consideration at the hands of the authorities.

GOOD BUSINESS THE RULE.

"The nursery business has been good during the last summer and fall," says C. G. Marshall, of Marshall Bros. Co., Arlington, Neb. "We have more business booked for next spring's delivery than in former years at this season. The general shortage of stock, especially of fruit trees, is causing anxiety among the nurserymen in this section more than anything else at present. Indications point to a heavy business for next spring, with a number of varieties of fruit stock out of the market."

Worth More Than It Costs

The Government recognized the Trade Paper as essential, as the War Industries Board gave publishers priority in the matter of coal and transportation, putting them next to industries engaged in direct war work.

The war is over, but good trade papers still are essential, worth more than they cost. Here is how:

We wish to compliment you on your good work during the last year; it's sure worth while. The florists' business would be a dead issue without a paper like The Review. Please discontinue our ad for hotbed sash, as it has done its work.

WAHPETON FLORAL CO.
December 29, 1918. Wahpeton, N. D.

I thought I could get along without The Review, as I have another trade paper, but I find I can pay for The Review several times over on the saving I make by having The Review's larger Classified list to select stock from, so I am sending my subscription for another year.

T. R. GORTON,
December 3, 1918. Norwich, N. Y.

Please discontinue our Classified ad and give us credit for the balance due us, as we will advertise again in a few weeks; the response to the ad was so heavy we are completely sold out much sooner than we expected.

THE MARION BROS. CO.,
December 28, 19 8. Circleville, O.

Discontinue my ad on freesia bulbs for the present, as my stock is cleaned up. I am very much pleased with the results received from the ad in The Review.

D. A. MADEIRA,
December 30, 1918. Salinas, Cal.

How many florists do you think there are who do not read The Review?

DETROIT, MICH.

The Market.

Business continues steady, with plenty of funeral work to keep all hands busy. Cut flowers are not abundant, but no actual shortage is felt. Plants are not in good supply, although a few nice cyclamens are to be had. Potted hyacinths have made their appearance in the windows of some of the more fortunate florists.

Roses are scarce, but the few available include such varieties as Columbia, Ophelia and Hoosier Beauty. Some of the stock tends to be weak of stem, but the blooms are good. Russell roses and Beauties are not of the best quality.

Other flowers arriving are freesias, Paper Whites, snapdragons and calendulas, all of which are picked up as the boxes are opened. Carnations are the most plentiful of all, but are not in oversupply.

Various Notes.

John Breitmeyer, son of Fred Breitmeyer, of Mount Clemens, has received his discharge from the army. Army life appears to have agreed with Mr. Breitmeyer, as he is the picture of health.

Miss M. Flick, of Fort Wayne, Ind., was in town looking over the local flower shops recently.

Choice azaleas are to be seen in J. F. Sullivan's store on Woodward avenue.

E. A. Fetters, president of the Detroit Florists' Bowling Club, intends to start up the bowling matches soon, so as to be in readiness for the S. A. F. convention when it meets in Detroit this summer. H. T.

Indiana, Pa.—S. S. Daubenspeck has nine acres of land on which he intends to grow vegetables for the spring trade. He also has a greenhouse and plans to build another next summer.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

TO REMOVE TAR FROM PIPES.

Last September we painted our hot water pipes under the gutter with gas tar to keep them from rusting. The tar seems to be dry, but when the water in the pipes is heated to 160 degrees the tar gets soft and gives off fumes which are spoiling the lettuce crop. We have tried whitewashing the pipes, but this does not help much. Scraping the tar off is slow work. Is there anything we can put on the pipes to keep the fumes from escaping? We did not know when we put on the tar that the fumes from it would be injurious to plant life, but we have found it out since. J. H. S.—Ia.

It is known that gas tar must not be used where plants are grown under glass. Even when tar is applied to the posts or gutters, serious effects are noticeable, and when it is used upon the heating pipes it will be impossible to grow plants with any degree of success. Worse yet, there is no known way of treating the pipes that will prevent the giving off of the poisonous gases, except the removal of every atom of the tar.

The only way to correct the trouble is to burn off the tar, and care must be taken to do a thorough job and still not to injure the piping. It can be done easily and quickly by taking down all pipe that has been coated with the tar and building a fire of old posts, or other refuse, three or four feet across. In this fire the pipes should be held until the tar has been burned off.

By inserting smaller pipes eight or ten feet long in the ends of one of the tar-coated pipes, it will be possible for two men to burn off the tar without injuring the pipes. The pipes should be turned and moved back and forth in the fire to prevent overheating.

While we have never used coal for the purpose and would prefer wood, in case the latter is not available it is probable that soft coal could be used successfully and safely for maintaining the fire.

When treating pipes of large size, the work of holding them may be lessened by placing two short pieces of pipe on either side of the fire at right angles to those to be treated, upon which to rest them. These supporting pipes may be arranged to act as rollers to aid in moving the pipes back and forth through the fire.

A LEAN-TO HOUSE FOR VIOLETS.

Please state the number of feet of 2-inch piping that will be required to heat a lean-to house 7½x100, attached to the side of another greenhouse and facing north. Hot water heat will be used. The house is five feet high from the ground level to the gutter. The wall is formed of ship-lap siding. The rafters are eight feet long and the upper ends of the rafters are sixteen inches above the gutter of the adjacent house. So the entire measurement of the glass on the roof, from the eave of the lean-to to the gutter of the old house, is nine feet four inches. The lean-to will be used for violets and other cool-growing stock and will not need a higher temperature than 40 degrees in zero weather. The exposed portion of one end is glass, except the three feet next to the ground, and there is a glass door in that end. W. M.—Mich.

To heat a violet house 7½x100, with one exposed wooden wall and with nine feet four inches of glass in the roof, we would use about 250 square feet of hot water radiation. For this the main flow pipe from the boiler should be 2½-inch and the main return should be of the same size.

The exact location and arrangement

Help Save the "White Coal of Industry"

The boiling hot water resulting from condensation in your steam lines is worth money. You have paid for it in terms of coal. It contains valuable heat units. It is the "White Coal of Industry"—it should not be wasted.

And it need not be wasted. The Morehead Back-to-Boiler System will save it for you by returning it to the boiler at temperatures as high as 400 degrees Fahrenheit. It reduces coal consumption an average of 20%. At the same time your steam will be "drier" and more efficient; your production speeded up and profits increased.

of the piping will depend upon the location of the boiler and the benches. If the boiler is at the end of the house where the door is located, we would run a 2½-inch flow pipe on the wall next to the adjoining house. At the farther end, after taking off a 2-inch return to be carried back on the same wall underneath the flow pipe, we would carry a 2-inch main across the end of the house and then connect it with a coil of two 2-inch returns to be carried on the exposed wall of the house to the end near the heater, where they should be united with the other return and connected with the main return.

In case the glass door is in the opposite end of the house from the boiler, so that it is not possible to carry the supply pipe across the farther end of the house as suggested above, we would run a 2-inch flow pipe upon each side wall, and at the farther end of the house connect each flow with a 2-inch return pipe to be caried back under its own flow pipe. If the location of the benches is such as to permit, we would carry the flow pipes about one foot under the plates or gutters and run the returns a foot or two lower. Give both flows and returns a drop of one inch in twenty feet.

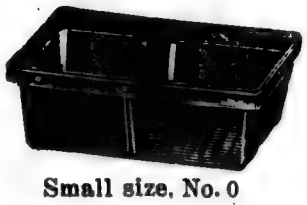
The Market.

We have had during the last week ideal growing weather, beautiful, bright days, with crisp, cool nights. But the demand still keeps ahead of the supply, even with increased receipts of stock. The last week has been the busiest in many months, not only in funeral work, but in all lines. Our bank clearings show that Knoxville has more money than ever before and the people are certainly spending it and the florists are getting their share. Stock of all kinds continues to bring the best prices, and never before was so much artificial stock sold. One firm alone sold as many as fifty prepared wreaths per week and then was not able to meet the demand. Cyclamens continue to be in demand and the few shown are good. A trip through the market garden section makes one feel that spring is here, with lettuce and other spring vegetables looking fine. The gardeners are preparing for large crops this spring.

Various Notes.

A. J. McNutt reports flowers scarce. Even with additional supply, he does not have stock enough for the demand. Mrs. Ella Angus, who has been in Mr. McNutt's employ for several years, retired from the florists' business several days ago. She was considered one of the best designers in the city.

H. Cheeseman, with Ralph M. Ward & Co., was a caller on the trade this week. He reports that the demand for stock of all kinds has never been greater.



K. P. B.

Columbus, O.—T. J. Ludwig was fortunate when he secured a leading optician as a neighbor. On the one side, running one-half the depth of the store, is a succession of devices showing natural flowers and floral works of art. On the other are a number of tables with chairs, for those interested in optical goods. The optician finds the optics of his patrons ever have a natural disposition to focus on the attractive floral display presented. Mr. Ludwig incidentally mentions that he never saw eyes open wider than around the holidays, when carnations were priced.

MR. F. A. ZENKE, Chicago, Ill.:

Dear Mr. Zenke, — Nothing pleases me more than to acknowledge that you were right when you praised up "New Plant Life" to me, and there couldn't be a better proof of it than my asking you to forward five more gallons just as soon as you can.

The results obtained were most satisfactory to me: stunted, small bedding stock after about ten days began to show new life and kept on improving. With the existing lack of help, instead of giving thousands of 3½-inch Geraniums a final shift, three light doses of "New Life" were applied and I am more than pleased with the outcome.

Sincerely yours, FRITZ BAHR.

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

The demand for stock has increased during the week and has swept the market clean. The supply of roses is still short of requirements. Carnations and narcissi clean up well and there are not enough Easter and calla lilies to meet the demand. The first tulips of the season arrived recently and were taken at once. Violets have been moving well, also, and calendulas and other novelties likewise. Boxwood is again on the market.

Various Notes.

Many flowers were used for the funeral of H. Edwards, a prominent business man of this city. The wholesale houses were cleared, in fact, and all the downtown florists kept busy for this event.

Harry Flickinger, of the West Side Greenhouses, Barberton, O., was in town this week on business. W. F. B.

GLEN COVE, N. Y.

The January meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held in Glen Cove, with President Adler in the chair. Two applications for active membership were received. Thomas Henderson, Thomas Carter and Thomas Twigg were the judges for the monthly exhibits. The following awards were made: Competition, six ears of field corn, first to William Milstead; exhibition, six ears of corn, for which the thanks of the society were tendered one exhibitor. A beautiful vase of Carnation Laddie was exhibited by John F. Johnston, which was awarded a certificate of culture. It was voted to send a letter of condolence to Alexander McKenzie, a member of the society who recently lost his wife. A letter of condolence also was voted sent to the widow of the late Theodore Roosevelt. All present stood at attention in token of respect, when this resolution was passed, and in appreciation of the honor conferred upon the society in numbering as one of its members so distinguished a man. Words fail to express our sense of loss in his death.

President Adler presented to Robert Marshall the medal of the National Association of Gardeners for the most meritorious exhibit at the fall show. Several of our members in the service have been heard from recently and all are looking forward to the time when they can be with us again.

Competition at the next meeting, to be held February 12 at 7 p. m., will be for fifty single violets, twenty-five carnations and one pot of cyclamens.

Harry Goodband, Sec'y.

Gladiolus: Mrs. Watt has been grown from Massachusetts to California, and has made good with every florist who has given it a trial. Resembling the American Beauty rose in color, but more brilliant, it will occupy the same place among gladioli as does the American Beauty among roses. Unexcelled for forcing, and because of its distinctive beautiful shade and strong upright growth, it meets the need of every florist.

MESEMBRYANTHEMUMS

Mesembryanthemums, the large and true flowering variety. As the mesembryanthemums are related to the cactus family, you must bear in mind that they should be treated somewhat similar to the cactus. Keep them a little on the dry side and also a sunny situation for best results, by this you can get them to bloom much better. Extra strong 2½-in., ready for 4-in., for specimen plants, or put 2 or 3 of these in a hanging basket. I have them drooping from 2 to 3 feet, come and see them. Price on the extra large ones, $5.00 per 100; 2-in. strong and branchy, $3.50 per 100; R. C. very choice, $2.00 per 100, $18.00 per 1000. I will guarantee my stock to be extra choice. Louis P. Faulk, R. F. D. 3, Box 63, Bellevue, Pa.

Mesembryanthemums, the large, pink blooming kind, fine for hanging baskets, porch boxes and vases. Fine 3-in., $5.00 per 100; 2½-in., $3.50 per 100. Large stock plants, lots of cuttings on them, $8.00 per 100. Unrooted cuttings, 90c per 100, $8.00 per 1000; rooted cuttings ready later, $1.50 per 100, $14.00 per 1000.
C. V. Frueh, R. F. D. 2, Lima, Ohio.

WOOD LABELS

LABELS FOR NURSERYMEN AND FLORISTS.
Benjamin Chase Co., Derry Village, N. H.

Sioux City, Ia.—The J. C. Rennison Co., Inc., occupied quarters on the first floor of a building at the corner of Pierce and Sixth streets, which was destroyed by fire, with all its contents, January 19.

Columbus, O.—S. F. Stephens & Son have found wax flowers invaluable during the shortage of the natural article. Being adjacent to Greenlawn cemetery, they furnish much of the floral work, both in plants and flowers. A grand crop of gladioli was harvested. Part of the land was irrigated by the Skinner system and showed the results of the improved method of cultivation in the extra-sized bulbs, in contrast to crops from a part worked the old way.

What Is a Standard Section? Who Makes It Standard?

Ask any ten growers their opinion of the right width house and best arrangement of walks and benches, and six of them will come pretty close to agreeing. The other four will have very strong convictions that the other six are dead wrong.

Based on what the six think, we went to work to design Standard Houses combining in their manufacture stock sizes and shapes, and in a manner to eliminate all waste. Then we bought the material in large quantities, manufactured it and put it in our warehouses. Thus we have several widths of houses standardized; the length is only a question of more or less standard parts. Standard drawings, standard parts enable us to manufacture in quantities and sell these standard houses at lowest prices and insure a quick delivery.

These sections are in widths from 40 up to 79 feet. Each one works out to the greatest economy.

They are all shown in our Handy Hand Book. Each section is accompanied by a good big interior of a house built that way.

With this book before you, it's almost as good as seeing the actual houses. Mayhap it's even better, for you don't have to ask any questions, as each question is already answered before you ask it.

Send for this Handy Hand Book. Study out your house, then let us get together and talk it over.

ADVANCE CO., RICHMOND, INDIANA

—take that Second step!

The government has taken the first step toward putting every florist in the country in a position to realize more out of his efforts than ever before—it has done this by canceling all restrictions on construction, for which materials of all kinds may now be bought, sold and shipped. The second step is——up to you.

Already the tide of business is turning. Are you preparing to get and handle your share? Then you're interested in one of two things or both—

—construction or —reconstruction.

THINK!

48 SIZES

It's our business to give you plans, estimates, and specifications on anything you want in the way of a greenhouse or greenhouse supplies. So let's take —that Second step!

We're ready—are YOU?

Mention The Review when you write.

Why You Should Order Your Greenhouse Material Now

Because—

We are not very busy yet.

Your estimate and order will receive the very best of attention; you will get the personal care that is impossible to give to every individual order when a business is "rushed off its feet," as we are sure to be this summer unless all indications fail.

The prices of material have come down somewhat, but we don't anticipate a much greater drop, if any.

The sooner you get your greenhouses built the sooner you will begin taking in profits. The wise man is farsighted and can tell a good thing before he sees it.

For the last four years florists have not built as many greenhouses per year as they have in previous years. Stock is scarce and the demand large. The florists are this year again going to spend a lot of money for general publicity work; this will mean a still greater demand for flowers. Why not be prepared to handle this business?

Get your order in. Beat the other fellow to it.

Get started now by writing us for estimates.

A·B·C TRADE MARK "WATCH US GROW"

AMERICAN

GLADIOLUS BULBS

We are offering Gladiolus bulbs to florists that, for quality and price, have no competition. Our Gladiolus Bulbs are strictly up to size and guaranteed American grown. We contract in advance with large gladiolus growers, who supplied us this season with over 1,000,000 bulbs, which are all delivered to us and in our possession, properly stored, with the best facilities to insure proper curing, which is the essential part of handling Gladiolus Bulbs before planting.

Florists who have visited our place have stated that we have in our possession the largest stock of high quality Gladiolus Bulbs they have ever seen. One western grower, after inspecting our bulbs, purchased from us 78,000. A large Chicago grower was so well pleased to see the high quality we offer that he placed an order with us for 53,000 bulbs, and both these orders have been filled.

We hope, if you are a buyer of Gladiolus Bulbs, that you will send us your order, and we will guarantee to satisfy you. If not, we will refund your money on return of our goods.

A·B·C TRADE MARK "WATCH US GROW"

READY FOR IMMEDIATE SHIPMENT

Our prices on Gladiolus Bulbs are reasonable, considering the quality of goods we send out, and prices for our "none better" stock cannot be compared with inferior Gladioli.

We are still selling Gladiolus Bulbs according to standard sizes. Our first size runs 1½-inch and up, and our second size, being 1¼-inch, differs very little from first size offered by other dealers. If interested in 1⅜ and 1⅛-inch size, write for prices.

Our Terms: 30 days, or 2% cash. Unknown correspondents please send cash with order.

Delivery: F. O. B. Benton Harbor, Mich. Packing will be charged at cost. 100 of a kind at one-tenth of 1000 price.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

CARNATION MEN MEET AT CLEVELAND

The Cleveland florists, keen competitors and wise coöperators, never are so happy as when entertaining one or another of the national trade organizations. This week they have with them the American Carnation Society, of long standing reputation as one of the most active bodies affiliated with the S. A. F.

FIRST of the trade organizations to hold a national meeting after the war, the convention of the American Carnation Society, its twenty-eighth, was planned as a celebration of democracy's victory, but it can not be said that the affair possesses any of the characteristics of a jubilation; it is, instead, a meeting of a band of quiet, earnest men actuated by an interest in common, the wish to keep abreast of the latest developments in the business of growing carnation blooms for market.

Cleveland, most centrally located of the convention cities so far as this trade is concerned, is within an overnight's ride for four-fifths of all the florists in the United States, but the attendance from outside trolleying distance is confined to a few dozens of the carnation specialists; the wheelhorses of the society are there, from east and west, reinforced by the publicity committees of the S. A. F. and members of the board of directors on the way to Friday's meeting at Detroit, but the rank and file of the growers who get their bread and butter out of the carnation are at home, helping with the work in the houses.

The Attendance.

The attendance of those who signed an out-of-town address on the register is several times as large as at Boston in the distressful conditions of last January, but it is considerably short of the records of ten to fifteen years ago, when it was possible to fill a special car at Chicago for a carnation convention as far away as New York or Boston or vice versa.

That the attendance is not so large as the leaders of the society, or the Clevelanders, had hoped does not imply a decline in the interest taken in the carnation. Rather, it is because of increased knowledge and improved channels of information, factors with which our other trade organizations also have to reckon—florists in large numbers no longer travel long distances to attend trade conventions; a large percentage of those who are there have order books in their pockets.

But in the affairs of the Carnation Society it is to be considered that most of the growers still are shorthanded, that most of them are working harder than usual, that traveling under present conditions of service scarcely is a pleasure and that the time since the war closed is too short for word to have gone out about novelties of outstanding merit soon to be disseminated. Indeed, the directors of the society, because of present conditions, departed from precedent in the premium list, which was reduced to a few special classes and some for home use, while no program was arranged for the business meetings.

Optimists All.

Everything was under one roof, that of the Hollenden hotel, the exhibition staged at 1 p. m., January 29, when the judges began work; the public admitted by cards issued by the Cleveland Florists' Club at 8 p. m., when the first business session opened. The annual dinner is to be the closing feature, occupying the evening of January 30.

These carnation specialists are not only optimists, they are enthusiasts. A year ago, amid the difficult conditions which then prevailed, they could see nothing wrong with the carnation which was not also wrong with all other flowers; today they assert that the carnation is the leader of them all, the most popular and highly prized flower on the list, supporting their claim by pointing to the fact that the demand last autumn carried and has kept the price of carnations relatively higher than the price of any other flower that is in large supply. When the growers talk about prices, recent and present, it is with a satisfaction they make little attempt to conceal; in their view the expected has happened, right has triumphed, the carnation at last has come into its own. But when a bunch of them rub up against a retailer—then sparks fly! The retailer says that it is harmful to the trade to push prices of flowers above the point where the public begins to protest as it pays, and that it is particularly unwise with carnations, always the people's flower. No matter what stand you take, you can get a debate on that subject.

Novelties.

Interest centered, perhaps, in the novelties. For the first time in many years, not even one new variety of carnation is being disseminated this season—nobody had foreseen the end of the war in time to be ready. Indeed, most of those who are cherishing high hopes for some pet were not even in position to exhibit in quantity.

Gude Bros. Co., Washington, have a new light pink named Democracy, of which they are growing 25,000 plants. It was shown in vases and on the retailers' tables and looked good from every point of view. The owners state that none of the flowers cut this season have sold for less than $16 per hundred, while at retail the price has been from $3 to $5 per dozen.

Baur & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, showed Ruth Baur, a flesh pink seedling to be disseminated next season. It recently was illustrated in The Review and looks good.

Joseph H. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., entered a new dark red, called Topsy, which will have a future if, like the original of that name, it "just growed" is reported of it after a bad winter.

Peter Fisher, Ellis, Mass., sent Red Cross, a red variety which commands instant attention because of its originator.

Strout's, Biddeford, Me., came to the front with the first seedling of C. S. Strout's many years as a carnation specialist. It is yellow, called Sunshine, and was seen last year at Boston. It is still making friends.

The Awards.

There were about 4,000 blooms in the show, counting fourteen classes. The judging was late. The awards were:

One hundred blooms, any variety—Joseph H. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., A. C. S. gold medal, on Laddie; S. J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass., A. C. S. silver medal, also on Laddie.

Fifty blooms, any undisseminated variety—Strout's, Biddeford, Me., S. A. F. silver medal, on Sunshine, formerly Seedling No. 809; Jos. H. Hill Co., S. A. F. bronze medal, on Topsy.

One hundred blooms, any undisseminated seedling—Baur & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, Dorner gold medal, on Ruth Baur, formerly No. 414.

Fifty blooms, any novelty to qualify for Dorner medal contest in 1920—Strout's, on Sunshine; Peter Fisher, Ellis, Mass., on Red Cross.

Fifty blooms, any seedling for certificates of merit—Strout's, on Sunshine, scoring 89 points; Strout's, on White Delight, scoring 85 points.

Twelve blooms, for preliminary certificate—A. J. Stahelin, Redford, Mich., on No. 8 A, scoring 85 points; A. J. Stahelin, on No. 20 L, scoring 85 points.

One hundred blooms, any variety disseminated prior to July, 1918—Jos. H. Hill Co., on Laddie.

Fifty blooms, any variety disseminated prior to July, 1918—Jos. H. Hill Co., on Laddie.

Vase arranged for effect, 100 to 150 blooms—S. J. Goddard, silver cup offered by the Chicago Feed & Fertilizer Co., value $75.

Fifty blooms, not less than five varieties—Strout's, silver cup offered by Hitchings & Co.

Fifty blooms, any white—J. F. Ammann Co., Edwardsville, Ill., first, on White Enchantress; Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., Pittsburgh, second, on Matchless.

Fifty blooms, any light pink—J. F. Ammann, first, on Enchantress Supreme; George Brenkert, Denver, second; Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C., third, on Democracy.

Fify blooms any dark pink—Cleveland Cut Flower Co., Cleveland, first, on Mrs. C. W. Ward; Bauer & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, second, on Rosalia.

Fifty blooms any red—Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., first, on Belle Washburn.

Fifty blooms any other color—Baur & Steinkamp, first, on Pocahontas.

Sweepstakes in the preceding five color classes for fifty blooms—Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., on Belle Washburn.

Honorable mention was awarded as follows: To Rose Premier, exhibited by E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.; to Carnation Red Cross, exhibited by Peter Fisher; to vase of mixed seedlings, exhibited by Joy Floral Co., Nashville, Tenn.; to Hamburg chrysanthemums, exhibited by W. F. Kasting Co., Buffalo; to vase of Carnation Laddie, exhibited by J. M. Gasser Co., Cleveland.

Retailers' Exhibits.

The Cleveland retailers never fail to make a show a success. If there were nothing else, the displays of the Cleveland florists would be sufficient to attract and please the public.

The new Gloriosa-pink carnation, Ruth Baur, was used effectively on a table decorated by Knoble Bros. With the carnations were yellow freesias and schizanthus. The exhibitor also put up a large vase of Ruth Baur and staged several novelty baskets.

A. M. Albrecht made his centerpiece of Mrs. C. W. Ward carnations, with corsages of the same.

Enchantress was used for the centerpiece of the Smith & Fetters table, with flat and colonial corsages.

The J. M. Gasser Co. made a big centerpiece of Rosalia carnations, acacia and eupatorium.

Democracy, the new light pink carnation of Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C., was used for the centerpiece of the table of the Jones-Russell Co.

C. M. Wagner made his table decoration in baskets with the dark red carnation, Bernice.

Miscellaneous Exhibits.

The American Bulb Co., Chicago, had a display of bulbs of gladioli, in twenty-seven varieties.

Carl Hagenburger, Mentor, O., staged vases of white lilac and Purity freesia. He also showed for the first time a new yellow freesia, both cut sprays and plants in pots. Of course, the exhibit included the two Mentor solanums, Cleveland and Yellow Queen.

W. F. Kasting Co., Buffalo, showed two vases of the only chrysanthemums now grown by Charles F. Guenther, Hamburg, N. Y. They are Hamburg Late White and Hamburg Late Pink. The blooms are large and clean.

Temperley's, Indianapolis, showed for the first time plants of the new red Chatelaine begonia, named Christmas Gift.

H. W. Sheppard, Cincinnati, staged for the Hills, of Richmond, a big exhibition basket of Rose Premier, which was a center of attraction.

Fred H. Lemon & Co., Richmond, Ind., had a table of plants of Primula malacoides rosea in fine flower.

Sidelights.

Chicago was after the 1920 convention like a dog chasing a bone; the delegation was armed with a big banner and invitations from the Florists' Club, Horticultural Society and Commercial Association.

The Cleveland newspapers, as usual, were extremely liberal with their notices, looking to Ella Grant Wilson for their inspiration.

AS MR. STROUT SEES SITUATION

PRESIDENT STROUT'S ADDRESS.

[The following is the address of Charles S. Strout, president of the American Carnation Society, read at the Cleveland convention, January 29, 1919.]

It has been our privilege to meet in convention in this delightful city of Cleveland on former occasions. It is my pleasure to bid you hearty welcome to this twenty-eighth annual convention.

We are all conscious that the last year has been the most difficult year we have faced since our society was formed. The conditions produced by the great war found us in a field of uncertainty, in which many of us were doubtful as to whether we should plow and set our plants to grow, or whether we should retrench and wait a more favorable time. The problem of Hamlet, "To be or not to be?" was ours. The air was filled with rumors of a coal shortage. Dame Rumor said the florists' business was to be shut down as a nonessential. To meet the situation, the American Carnation Society and the S. A. F. sent a delegation to Washington and, partly as a result of their arguments, the dictum of the fuel administration was that growers using more than forty tons a year should be allotted fifty per cent of the average amount used for the last three years; those using forty tons or less, the full amount. Private growers were denied the use of coal.

A Test of Intensive Culture.

The fuel shortage has not been an unmixed evil. To illustrate, one of our well known growers reduced his glass one-third, yet produced 30,000 more blooms than the previous year in the same period with all his glass. This he brought about by careful, intensive work and conservative use of fuel.

The spirit of patriotism among our younger men led them into the army or navy; the draft laid its hand upon some, and a labor shortage added its problem for many growers. Among those who entered the service of Uncle Sam were our then president, W. J. Vesey, Jr., and David Ward, one of our judges.

Like all other lines of business, our trade was affected by the scarcity of supplies and prevailing high prices. Difficulties of transportation made the delivery of express companies uncertain. We were beset on all sides and, to add to the story, the high percentage of sunless days made the last year an exceedingly difficult one.

A League of Interests.

In spite of all, however, this has been one of the most profitable seasons for florists. The old law of supply and demand has led to higher average prices, and the phenomenal amount of sickness created a quick demand for all we could offer. The circle of clients has been largely increased by the advance in wages produced by special war work in shipbuilding establishments, ammunition factories and mills. This increased demand has enabled both grower and retailer to secure reasonable prices and profits, and brings to our minds once again the question as to whether or not we can bring about a minimum and maximum price, in the interests of both grower and retailer. These are days of coöperation; a league of interests should help us solve this question.

The fact that florists the country over have generously donated flowers to Red Cross drives and campaigns for the Y. M. C. A., K. of C. and similar organizations indicates the spirit of patriotism and the opportunity for service outside our regular field of business. There are several growers of whom I know in New England who have contributed flowers which have netted $1,500 each for such work.

Removal of Restrictions.

The first part of November brought the glad tidings of the signing of the armistice and the removal of restrictions on travel, and with it our energetic secretary took up the plans for this convention. You are all well aware that the railway administration had frowned on gatherings similar to ours. Traveling was discouraged in every way, and our plans had been more or less tentative. Thanks to the executive ability of Mr. Baur and the interest of the local committee on arrangements, there is every indication of one of the most successful anniversaries we have had.

It has seemed to me that the phenomenal circumstances under which we have labored the last year called for review for permanent record.

Believing it will meet with the approval of this society, I suggest to you that steps be taken to furnish fitting recognition of the members of the society who have entered the service of the United States. What form this recognition should take I think could readily be determined by a committee appointed for the purpose.

Two Kinds of Reconstruction.

As an aid in reconstruction and as a mark of our respect and sympathy for our brave allies, I would suggest that this society correspond with French floral societies and offer them carnation stock to replace that destroyed by the ravages of war. I am sure individual growers will be happy to send stock for this purpose.

I further recommend that the American Carnation Society go on record as urging carnation growers in groups or sections to try for more uniform prices and more accurate grading of stock.

Well grown carnations are worth the average price paid this season, and, all things considered, should command a better price than has been paid in the last few seasons. But the extreme prices, high or low, demoralize the market and react unfavorably on all branches of our business. Growers and retailers can improve the present conditions and perhaps the American Carnation Society can aid in the matter.

MR. BAUR'S BUSINESS

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

[The following is the report of A. F. J. Baur, secretary of the American Carnation Society, presented at the Cleveland convention, January 29, 1919.]

The last year has been a memorable one for the carnation industry. On account of the uncertainty in business generally, with the restrictions imposed by the government in the early part of the year and the release from all restraint toward the close of the year, there has been a chaotic condition running through almost the entire twelve months. The depression caused by the restrictions was reflected clearly in the lack of enthusiasm among the craft and this naturally affected the interest shown in the activities of the trade societies. At the time of the Boston convention, in January, 1918, conditions were at their worst, resulting in a convention which was almost entirely local, and while our New England members staged a splendid exhibition, the benefits accruing from a large and enthusiastic attendance were lacking. Receipts fell off, while prices on everything needed by the society advanced, causing a depletion of the treasury that gave more or less concern. The printing of the annual report had to be deferred, pending the collection of sufficient funds, but, thanks to the generosity of our president and a number of our New England members, who contributed some $60, the report appeared only three months late.

Returning Prosperity.

It is gratifying to note that since the great revival of business, due to the return of peace and the extraordinary demand caused by the influenza epidemic, our members are showing a quickened interest in the affairs of the society. Receipts have increased to such an extent that the year's total receipts are about normal, but still not enough to cover the increase in expenditures. It is hoped that the saving effected in the coming year's expenditures may be sufficient to put the treasury back to normal.

During the last year we have collected:

Membership assessments	$628.00
Advertising	150.20
Miscellaneous	96.00
Total	$874.20

All of the foregoing amounts were turned over to the treasurer and his receipt was taken therefor. The books of the secretary and treasurer were audited by a public accountant and found correct.

Coöperation with S. A. F.

A complete list of our members was submitted to the S. A. F., which reported that 223 of our members are also members of that society, entitling us to representation on its executive board. President Strout has been appointed to represent our society on that board during the year 1919. A change was made in the conditions for filling this office, enabling the vice-president to serve in case the president is unable to serve.

The National Flower Show, which was to have been held in St. Louis, Mo., last spring, was postponed indefinitely. The preliminary expenses incurred on account of this proposed exhibition, less the profits from the convention held there in August, were $5,984.95. Ten per cent of this amount is charged up against our society and remains a liability until the Fifth National Flower Show is held, after which a final accounting is to be made. The S. A. F. has agreed to carry this liability until that time.

Difficulties of the Directors.

The summer meeting of the board of directors was postponed till November, in order to gauge better the conditions that would likely prevail at the time of this convention. The influenza epidemic prevented a meeting at that time and the meeting was finally dispensed with altogether, the arrangements for this convention being made by mail.

On account of the unsatisfactory express service and the scarcity of stock, the board deemed it inadvisable to attempt an exhibition of the same magnitude as in former years. The premium schedule was modified in such a manner as to encourage the staging of the new varieties, with a few classes for the standard sorts. This list was later augmented by a number of open classes, for which the Cleveland Florists' Club agreed to stand sponsor. This change is intended only for this year's exhibition, in the hope that a return may be made to normal conditions during the present year.

Celebration of Peace.

Our convention being the first meeting of national scope since the signing of the armistice, the board invited the S. A. F. to join us in a peace celebration at our banquet. This invitation was accepted and arrangements have been made to carry out the idea. This society may take just pride in the fact that a number of our members went into the military service and we should give thanks to a Divine Providence for their safe return. No casualties among our members have been reported up to this time.

There were submitted during the last year, for registration, three seedlings and one sport. No registrations were sent over from Europe.

To the trade press is due our thanks for the publication of all matter sent to them. They have been of material assistance to the society during the last year.

Dalton, O.—As a side line to his market gardening business, W. A. Mumaw grows asters and sweet peas outdoors. He markets the flowers in Massillon and Canton, O.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

TENNESSEE ASSOCIATION.

Midwinter Meeting.

The fourteenth annual convention of the Tennessee State Florists' Association at the Hotel Hermitage, Nashville, Tenn., January 28, provided a program replete with interesting and valuable features.

The address of Karl P. Baum, on "Why All Retail Florists Should Become Members of the F. T. D.," should result in increased interest in this organization on the part of southern florists.

Robert C. Kerr's paper, read at the evening session, on "The South and the Part She Will Play in the Future Flower Market," included a discussion of the subject of credits and collections.

The program of the convention follows:

MORNING SESSION, 10:00 O'CLOCK.

Call to order by President Oscar Geny, Nashville.
Invocation, Rev. T. C. Ragsdale, Nashville.
Minutes of the last meeting, G. M. Bentley, secretary-treasurer, Knoxville.
Proposals of membership.
Deferred business.
Report of committees.
New business.
Bills and communications.
Addresses of welcome, Hon. William Gupton, mayor of Nashville; A. J. Dyer, president Commercial Club, Nashville.
President's annual address, Oscar Geny, Nashville.
"Can We Assist Each Other in the Matter of Securing and Holding Expert Help—Growers, Helpers and Firemen?" H. G. Bramm, Bristol.
"How I Produced Seedling Carnations," Rolfe F. Smith, Nashville.
"How Can We Develop Landscape Work Throughout the Smaller Cities and Towns?" Open discussion.

AFTERNOON SESSION, 2:00 O'CLOCK.

Election of officers.
"Growing Plants," C. H. Tritschler, Sylvan Park, Nashville.
"Mums," Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J.
"Why All Retail Florists Should Become Members of F. T. D.," Karl P. Baum, Knoxville.
"Can We in Combination Arrange to Purchase a Satisfactory Line of Pots and Save Money?" T. H. Joy, Nashville.
"Making Our Home Surroundings Beautiful." Open discussion.

EVENING SESSION, 7:30 O'CLOCK.

"The South and the Part She Will Play in the Future Flower Market," R. C. Kerr, Houston, Tex.
Round table in charge of members.

Exhibits and Demonstrations.

Decorations for the convention were in the hands of the Nashville florists and consisted of cut flowers and potted plants. Several of the largest concerns in the country were scheduled to exhibit. The demonstrations and displays featured devices for spraying, insecticides and other equipment.

THE PROSPECT FOR STOCK.

A central western grower interested in the special items mentioned sizes up the situation as follows:

Cannas.—Stocks are scarce and will be a short item early in the season.

Carnation cuttings.—These will be the shortest item on the whole list.

Geraniums.—A short crop, but many growers secured, out of the gardens, ample supplies for their home needs; still the market will consume every available cutting or plant.

Gladioli.—Never has the demand been so heavy so early; many are being forced. The demand will be far greater than the possible supply. Prices may advance sharply.

Peonies.—Next fall will see a veritable boom. The short crops will give the peony a big demand and price next June and a big demand for roots will result.

Almost every item is in under supply. The heavy demand at present prices will serve to stimulate the whole field.

CLUB ROOT ON SNAPDRAGONS.

I am sending a root of a snapdragon plant and hope you can tell me what the trouble is. My plants appear healthy, but occasionally one wilts and then dies. The lumps on the roots are all I can see wrong with the plants. Do you think the trouble is in the soil? It is the same soil which I have used for chrysanthemums. S. M.—Kan.

The contorted roots of the snapdragon plant show that it is infected with the disease commonly called club root, a disease which often attacks members of the cabbage family, turnips, wild hedge mustard and some other vegetables and flowering plants. Too much acid in the soil is usually the cause of this trouble, for which no cure is known. Affected plants will continue to wilt and die and I would advise pulling up and burning your snapdragons and planting some other crop in its stead. Before doing so, give the beds or benches a liberal dressing of air-slaked lime and fork it in well. This will help to sweeten the soil. If you leave diseased roots in your soil, the disease will make trouble another year. C. W.

Shamokin, Pa.—Joseph Harris & Bro., whose greenhouses are at Springfield, have more than a local reputation for the window displays at their store, 112 East Independence street. Traveling salesmen tell them they are the finest decorations seen in any flower store in the United States.

ORCHIDS

Cypripediums.

I have never known a month when cypripediums have found so ready and profitable a market as the one through which we are now passing. One great feature with them is that it is not necessary to cut them as soon as they open, as they will keep many weeks, or even months, on the plants in perfect condition. While cypripediums lack the brilliant coloring of cattleyas, they are fascinating flowers and the care of the better known sorts is so easy that no one possessing a greenhouse need be afraid to essay their culture. Fortunately, we are not dependent on importations for keeping up our stock of these useful terrestrial orchids, as they increase in size rapidly and are easily propagated by division. By far the most useful of all the lady's slippers is Cypripedium insigne. There are many varieties of this, and the yellow forms, once scarce and high-priced, are now reasonable in price. C. insigne Sanderæ is still the best, but C. Sanderianum, C. Laura Kimball and others are beautiful. All true cypripediums succeed well in a winter minimum of 50 degrees to 55 degrees. They will stand more heat, but if grown in the cooler temperature the flowers possess more substance. As these cypripediums pass out of flower, any dividing, surface dressing or repotting that may be necessary can be done. For compost I find a mixture of fern fiber and fibrous loam, with sphagnum and broken charcoal added, suits the insigne section. Other cypripediums, such as C. Harrisianum, C. villosum and C. Leeanum, probably the next best commercial cypripedium after insigne; C. Lawrenceanum, etc., succeed well in a compost of fern fiber, charcoal and fresh sphagnum. Cypripediums enjoy a closer and moister atmosphere than cattleyas. In an arid atmosphere, thrips, red spider and other pests are sure to attack them. There is good money in cyps. Their culture is easy and all possessing them should take good care of them and, when occasion offers to procure more of them at a reasonable cost, embrace it.

Dendrobiums.

The season for dendrobiums has arrived. Of course there are usually some members of this interesting family in bloom, but for the next two months or more, the many varieties of D. nobile and that showy variety, D. Wardianum, will be at their best. Keep the plants cool and dry until you are sure the nodes or swellings on their pseudobulbs will produce flowers and not growths. D. nobile is an old orchid, introduced as long ago as 1836, according to M. Andre. It is one of the orchids which change their odor during the periods of the day. The scent resembles grass in the early morning, honey at noon and primroses in the evening. On a clear day it is certainly delightful. While one of the oldest varieties of orchids, D. nobile remains one of the best and a specimen plant carrying 100 to 1,400 blooms will outclass any cattleya which is placed beside it. All the dendrobes like heat and moisture while making their growth. The nobiles then need cooler and drier treatment to produce a satisfactory crop of flowers. We are dependent on the East Indies for all our dendrobiums, phalænopsis, etc., and will miss them indeed. D. nobile can be propagated easily, however, by laying its pseudobulbs, when mature, in pans or flats of sphagnum and packing them down. If placed in a warm house and occasionally sprayed, young plants will start from many of the joints. These can later be potted in a mixture of sphagnum and fern fiber, which suits dendrobiums better than a compost of fern fiber only. Young plants succeed splendidly in sphagnum only.

Odontoglossums.

In the winter all the odontoglossums should have a clear house and full sunshine. The foliage of the beautiful crispum section will take on a bronze hue and become much hardier. These plants will come through the torrid summer months much better than those kept in a north house where no sun reaches them in midwinter. The flower spikes on all odontoglossums should be protected by a wrapping of cotton wool as a protection from shell snails, which lurk in the moss and eat the spikes of odontoglossums and oncidiums with avidity. Give the plants a fair supply of moisture now and spray them on all clear days. The pretty, pure white, sweetly scented Odontoglossum pulchellum majus is now in bloom. It has been commonly called the lily of the valley orchid and its spikes are splendid for use in choice bouquets or other floral work. It is of easy culture. It likes a little more heat than the crispum section and does well at the cool end of the cattleya house, where also O. citrosmum and O. grande succeed well.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

MUM MIDGE.

We are sending you a sample of the soil in which our mums were grown, also a few of the mums attacked by the red fly. Do you consider this soil suitable for growing mums? Do you know of anything we can use to get rid of the flies? H. G. E.—Wash.

The soil submitted is good enough to grow mums, but the shoots enclosed were badly infested with mum midge. If the whole planting is as badly infested as the stock sent, I would suggest that you destroy and burn your entire stock of mums and start in with new stock.

Midge is a pest so well known that it is, perhaps, hardly necessary to go into details describing it. The midge lays its eggs in the tissues of the leaf and the larvæ hatch out immediately and soon begin reproducing in their turn and this process continues indefinitely. When specimens are so badly infested as the leaves submitted, the growth of the plants is stunted.

Midge can be eliminated by persistent use of fumigants. Fumigate with tobacco dust, or some other tobacco preparation strong enough to kill the flies, every other night for four or five weeks during the winter months. The plants come out entirely clean after the nightly fumigation, which kills the flies as they hatch out. The best thing for fumigating is tobacco dust, on account of its long-continued smoking. I imagine this midge will pass along in a year or two, as in the case of the mum rust and other ills to which mum plants have been heir at different times.

One trouble about the mum midge is that it will reproduce outside in Shasta daisies and plants of a like character. In fact, the Shasta daisy acts as a host plant for this pest when there are no mums around for it to feed on. A working knowledge of this pest, its habits and host plants, is necessary in order to eliminate it.

We have found that stock grown in the greenhouse and afterwards used for propagating is more liable to be infested with insects and diseases such as this than stock planted outdoors and used for propagation purposes, since the greenhouse plants have used up nearly all their vitality in flowering the previous fall, and are less able to resist these diseases and insects. C. H. T.

Torresdale, Pa.—George B. Morrell reports that he had fine results from his advertisement of lettuce plants, selling 37,000.

Arkansas City, Kan.—L. E. Flindt and W. H. Magner, proprietors of the A. C. Floral Co., will open a downtown retail store February 1 on Summit street.

"FOLLIES OF 1919"

DRACÆNA CANES ARE BARRED.

Plant Quarantine Shuts Them Out.

The full extent of the injury inflicted on the florists' trade by the import quarantine ordered to go into effect June 1 is not yet realized by the rank and file, but every day new features are developing which add to the alarm with which the quarantine now is viewed. As a case in point, an importer who recently has brought large quantities of dracæna canes from Trinidad and Brazil asked the Federal Horticultural Board how this item will be affected by the quarantine. He was told that the importation of dracæna canes must cease June 1. Here is the letter of Lester E. Palmer, who is in charge, for the board, of plants and plant products under restriction:

We have your letter inquiring whether dracæna canes may be permitted entry after June 1, next, as scions or as exempted nursery stock. In reply thereto I regret to advise you that on and after June 1 next, the importation of dracæna canes will be prohibited.

I note your understanding that one reason for the prohibition of plant importations is to encourage home production. In this connection it should be said that Quarantine No. 37 with regulations was formulated by the board for the sole purpose of protecting the agricultural and horticultural interests of this country from dangerous plant diseases and insect pests.

The second paragraph of the letter "is to laugh;" that is, it would be funny if it were not so great an injury to a business shown, in the War Industries Board's census published in last week's Review, to represent an annual turnover of more than $46,000,000.

One of the Follies.

When imported dracæna canes have no roots or tops, but are merely living sticks ranging from one foot to three feet in length and from one-half inch to two inches in thickness, according to variety. They are usually packed in moss or fiber to retain their vitality, though occasionally packed in sand, according to variety and distance shipments have to travel. When received by the growers, the canes are laid in the propagating greenhouse benches in pure sand, and as the young growths appear cuttings are taken and rooted and grown on into plants. The canes are thrown out when they have served their purpose in producing cuttings. Since none of the varieties produced from these canes can grow outside of greenhouses in any part of the United States, there is no likelihood of injurious insect pests or diseases being introduced through them.

The Federal Horticultural Board already is on the defensive in the matter of this too far-reaching and unwarranted quarantine. The members are said to reply that the protest is only by importing houses, whose business is injured. If this is the case, the protests of florists will be numerous enough when they fully realize what has been done to them.

LILY BULBS WITHOUT SOIL.

Scheepers Finds Another Joker.

John Scheepers, of New York, wants to know how lily bulbs are to come safely from Japan if they are not to be permitted entry except when "free from sand, soil or earth," to use the language of the quarantine order.

It is probable that most of those interested in Japanese lily bulbs, which includes practically every florist in the United States, have failed to note that the quarantine order prohibits the continued use of the only method of packing lily bulbs which has been found safe.

"Lily bulbs," says Mr. Scheepers, "are harvested without the original soil in which they are grown, being attached or adhering to the roots, but as soil is known to be the only safe material as applied to imports of lily bulbs, particularly those from Japan, where the long voyage is likely to extract the moisture and growing quality if packed in vegetable packing material, the regulation should be so modified as to permit the continued use of dry soil, which has so far been unknown to be infected with any pests or plant disease. If absolutely necessary, however, this soil could be treated by some process of sterilization that would in any event destroy any insects or diseases that may be present."

Publishing Trade Secrets.

Mr. Scheepers points out another feature of the quarantine order which is distasteful to dealers: "Each case," of the few items permitted entry, "must bear a label giving name and address of exporter, name and address of importer and number of permit. This means that you are forced to advertise to everyone, throughout the districts through which these cases must pass, the name and address of your supplier, often a secret source that you have sought for years to obtain and now to be given publicly to all interested."

The more the trade studies the quarantine the more unnecessary and distasteful it seems to become.

It can be undone by the signature of the Secretary of Agriculture.

HYDRANGEAS IN THE SOUTH.

With the scarcity of lilies and the impossibility of holding Dutch bulbs for Easter, except in a few of the northern states, French hydrangeas will have a peculiar value this season. Those potted up in the late fall are making good roots now and may be given a rather warmer night temperature, say 56 degrees. Syringe them freely, but do not overwater.

In a short time, when the roots are more plentiful, they will need lots of water. They probably will make Easter all right in the temperature stated, if the house has a good exposure. Besides, they can be pushed during the last six weeks if there is any fear of their being late. Unlike lilies, they will keep a long time, often coming into flower in a cool, shaded house, if a cool house can be found in the south so late in the season. The way this winter is going, it seems as if the difficult part will be to hold them back. Give them plenty of manure water from the time the flowers are seen until they show color. This will increase their size and intensify the different shades. L.

LILIES FOR EASTER.

Those growers who can have a few lilies in bloom for the coming Easter will be fortunate, as they are sure to get good money for them. The prediction is being freely made that these flowers will bring at retail this Easter $1 per bloom and they will be worth all of it and more too. The weather so far this winter has been so warm and genial that one hardly knows how to advise to bring them in at the right date. Our own plants are still in a cool house, in a night temperature below 50 degrees. If I only were certain of a brand of weather such as we are having now, I could trust them to come right just where they are, with possibly a week or two of a higher temperature near the finish. A late Easter, however, generally means a late spring, and we are liable to have much colder weather in March. As Easter comes April 20 this year, I would rather push the plants a little toward the finish, as it is almost impossible to hold them when open at that late date. The varieties this year are Harrisii and longiflorum. The Harrisii lily does not stand so high a forcing temperature as our old friend giganteum, so it is safe to reckon on seeing the bud six weeks before the flower is needed. If present appearances count for anything, this lily is making a strong bid for winning returning favor. So far I do not believe we have thrown out over one per cent as showing disease. Be careful not to overwater the plants. Knock one out here and there occasionally and note whether the roots are nice and white. The pots may be filled up now with a rich compost, which will give them the additional nourishment required. Space the plants as they need it, that the bottom foliage may be perfect. L.

Delphos, O.—Walter Trentman considers this one of the best average seasons in his long experience. The extra prices paid for flowers have been offset by the saving in fuel.

Defiance, O.—Christ Winterich, said to be one of the first, if not the first, to boost the cyclamen as a house plant, is more than pleased with the record shown on his wholesale and retail slips. He predicts next season will equal, if not surpass, the present one.

MAKING HISTORY.

Annals of Fighting Florists.

As the great world war and the issues arising out of it pass into history, among the returning troops many talented, youthful annalists are bringing home vivid, first-hand accounts of the stirring events which crowded so thickly one upon another during the several campaigns of the titanic struggle. The audiences of these young spellbinders never tire of listening to their thrilling tales of the tremendous adventures through which they have passed. As each returning patriot is welcomed back or writes letters home, the story of his experiences abroad will be learned with intense interest by all who know him. Send the good word in to The Review to be passed along, that the trade may know of the doings of the boys numbered among its members who have given such a good account of themselves overseas, the florist-fighters who have helped to make the name of "Yank" one to which our cousins across the water take their hats off.

Photographer in Air Service.

After nine months of training, six at Rockwell Field and three at the School of Aerial Photography, Rochester, N. Y., Bertram A. Pemberton, formerly employed by the Wilson Floral Co., of that city, was sent overseas. He is 24 years of age and was born in New South Wales, coming to this country eight years ago. The accompanying portrait shows Mr. Pemberton in his flight uniform. He returned last week.

French Bulb Grower Free.

Not many American florists enjoy the personal acquaintance of John Drevon, of Ollioules, France, where the Paper Whites and Romans come from, but large numbers feel a friendly interest because of their dealings with his firm, Drevon-Tegelaar & Co. Word has just come that Mr. Drevon has been released from a German war prison and is back at Ollioules, well and ready for business. He was one of the French army which turned the Germans back at the Marne, in October, 1914, and he was taken prisoner at that time. He has spent the last four years as a prisoner of war at Dillingen, his sustenance being sent him by friends in Holland.

Florists Wear Croix de Guerre.

Private Raymond W. Reilly, the brother of Mrs. T. Cavanaugh and Miss Cecelia Reilly, of J. M. Johnston's, Braddock, Pa., and also of Miss Essie Reilly, of Randolph & McClements, has been transferred from the 328th Infantry to the Fifth Division headquarters of the Army of Occupation, recently stationed in Luxemburg, but now thought to be in Germany. Mrs. Cavanaugh's husband, Lieutenant Cavanaugh, is also in Luxemburg, with the 111th Infantry. Each of these men is the proud, although modest, possessor of the Croix de Guerre, Private Reilly having captured his through a scouting trip to Bertram A. Pemberton.

No Man's Land, July 4, 1918, when he was the only one of a party of seven to return. E. E. S.

Advance Man Returns.

R. E. Jones, who is known to everyone who attends the conventions of the trade societies, and to a good many others, has resumed his duties in the Advance Co., Richmond, Ind., where he was the chief assistant of his father, J. E. Jones, before he joined the army. He liked the life in camps, but is glad to get back to selling ventilating apparatus.

"Jacky" Jacky Reads The Review.

Carl F. Jacky is a "Jacky," having been in the service of Uncle Sam at the Puget Sound Navy Yards since June, 1918. His interest in trade matters is unabated, however, and among the magazines forwarded to him by the home folks, The Review receives a good share of his attention. He states, in entering his subscription, that he keeps informed on trade lore even while at sea.

Well Deserved Honors.

Lieutenant Frank Dykestra has returned to Denver, Colo., from Camp Kearny, at Linda Vista, Cal., where he has been for the last eighteen months. He enlisted as a private and won his commission by hard work.

R. S.

A Hearty Welcome.

Another member of a patriotic Detroit family returning from war service abroad is welcomed back with rejoicing this week. Harry Breitmeyer, the son of Philip Breitmeyer, of Detroit, Mich., stepped off a transport in New York harbor the other day. Fortune favored the young soldier, for he met a familiar face at once, when Mrs. Gray, of the Breitmeyer forces, who was visiting in New York, happened along. Mr. and Mrs. Philip Breitmeyer left for New York as soon as they received news of the arrival there of their son.

Patriotic Pennsylvanians.

J. M. Johnston's shops at McKeesport, Braddock and Homestead, Pa., are literally 100 per cent patriotic, each contributing to the great cause with men and money to the limit. Word has just been received of the death of David Slagle, manager of the Homestead shop, who was killed in action September 6 somewhere in France, where he spent four or five months, following preliminary training at Camp Lee.

Mr. Walker, of the McKeesport store, recently was honorably discharged from service with the Medical Corps. Alfred O. West, also of the McKeesport sales staff, was likewise in the Medical Corps, having spent five months in training at Hoboken, N. J. Lieutenant Lawrence J. Weisenberger has returned from a year with the Quartermaster's Corps, in Philadelphia. Among others employed here are Elmer Thomas, a top sergeant with the Medical Corps at Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, who hopes to return in February, and Harry J. Kerber, now with the Headquarters' Company, 57th Engineers, in France, about to sail for this side. Mr. Kerber succeeded Mr. Slagle in the Homestead establishment, but was there only a brief time when he, too, was called to the colors.

Other Arrivals.

Among the recruits returned from the camps and from overseas within the fortnight are noted two Rochester boys, formerly connected with the trade, Bertram E. Pemberton, of the United States Aero Photographic Corps, who has just received his discharge and lost no time in returning to his former haunts in that city, and Clyde La Rocke, who has been visiting in Rochester, while enjoying a brief furlough. He is stationed at Mineola, L. I., and looks for an early release. Frank Thatcher, formerly of the staff of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., San Francisco, Cal., has returned from abroad and is at present stationed at Camp Merritt, at Tenafly, N. J. Another former employee of this firm who is awaiting discharge from the service is Peter Pagano. Mr. Pagano is now at the Presidio in San Francisco, having seen active service in France. Pelicano, Rossi & Co. hope to reinstate both these young men in the near future in the positions they formerly filled.

Oscar Carlstaedt, who went into the service from Indianapolis, has been mustered out and will soon be at work again at the commission house of Smith & Young Co.

Lieutenant David S. Boyle, formerly with the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, may reënlist after his discharge, which is expected soon.

Joseph Cousins has returned to the Joseph Heacock Co., having received his discharge.

BUCKEYE BULL'S-EYES

THE OUTLOOK.

The brief period of post-holiday quietude for florists is now well past and business has settled upon a firm and stable basis. The much dreaded time of reconstruction is gradually passing into history and the flower trade is not only holding its own, but is going at an unprecedented pace. It now can be safely predicted that the remaining months of the winter will be record-breakers and that the available supply of plants and flowers will be decidedly inadequate to meet the demands of the spring months. An army of 2,000,000 young men is slowly returning to its former place in civil life, which is sure to accelerate all social activities. As flowers are constantly increasing in popularity, their use in this dawning time of joy and gladness may logically be expected to be more general and lavish than ever before. As the necessity for war gardens no longer exists, outdoor planting will be taken up again in earnest in the spring and the interrupted work of beautifying the home surroundings will be resumed with the impetus that comes only from the repose of peace and the greater diffusion of wealth. There never existed greater incentive to prepare bumper crops to meet this almost certain demand; and the florist who has the goods will be well remunerated for his foresight and industry. It is worthy of note that while almost every other industry is suffering a slight depression at present, the florists' business has escaped, and is in a healthy condition. Substantial reductions already have been made in the prices of boilers and structural steel is expected to decline. The price of glass is still prohibitive, but it must come down, which, with the plenitude of cheaper labor and the improved market for greenhouse products, should stimulate building. Mac.

FLORAL ART.

When the artist essays to paint a picture, the author to write a story and the architect to plan a house, they strive to make their work different from any other by imparting to it a certain individuality. Otherwise there would be little variety in their respective fields. Would it not be well for workers with flowers to give more heed to this general principle? Or will it be argued that they have not the time?

The successful florists of the day are men who recognize the importance of giving character and expression to their output. The same characteristics are manifest in the appointments of their stores, the personalities of their salesmen and their delivery outfits. They are well worthy of emulation.

The majority of florists, however, do not realize that they move within the realm of art. Their work is invariably performed hastily and with little variety. They are content with giving good value and fresh flowers and arranging them as desired. True, many of them are successful, but, having no set ideals, their business remains commonplace, possessing nothing to lend inspiration. Oftentimes new assistants, who understand thoroughly the rudiments of color harmonies by reason of superior training, are forced to give up originality in catering to the supposed requirements of a certain trade.

The smaller florists in particular are badly in need of training in the skillful and harmonious use of flowers. This was demonstrated at the time of the epidemic, when stock was extremely scarce. Their call for short roses and carnations was persistent, simply because of inability to introduce effective variety into their creations by the employment of materials in greater supply, and consequently much business was lost. Mac.

REPLANTING OLD SPRENGERI.

I have a bed, 5½x100 feet, of Asparagus Sprengeri, which we have constantly been cutting from for five years. The bench on which it is grown needs repairs, new bottom boards, etc. I have been told that after two years it is better to throw out the old plants and put in new, but it seems to me that we cut just as much after five years as we did after two years, or at any time. Can I take out the old plants, repair the bench and put the stock back to advantage, and how many of the old plants, if any, will I lose? I get many valuable ideas from The Review and shall be pleased with a suggestion on this subject.

L. P.—Mass.

At the end of five years' service it is doubtful whether the plants of Asparagus Sprengeri would be worth the labor of lifting and replanting after rebuilding the bench. It would seem better to prop the table up temporarily until the rush of spring work is over; then rebuild it and replant with young stock. Young plants of Sprengeri may be had for from $3.50 to $4 per hundred in 2¼-inch pots. Such stock potted on would make good planting material by the time you are ready to use it.

BRIEF ANSWERS.

F. C. S., Minn.—The effectiveness of the proposed method of heating hotbeds will depend on the location and depression of the hot water heater; your letter contains no information on these points.

J. E. S., O.—Without cold storage you should not attempt to keep cut ferns in quantity; order a case or so at a time from some one who has storage facilities. Keep them covered, damp and cool until used.

E. A. M., N. Y.—See The Review for January 23, page 18; December 26, page 14; December 19, page 16.

L. S. H., Id.—About the ribbon, consult your customer's wishes; about the greenhouse, go ahead, the business will increase each year.

G. B. M., Pa.—Canna roots may be started any time now; watch "Seasonable Suggestions."

C. C., Okla.—Bisulphide of carbon can not be used except to kill pests in the soil; so used it will not injure the plants.

E. F. B., Mass.—Carnations, 50 degrees; roses, 56 degrees; geraniums and miscellaneous stock, 45 to 50 degrees.

H. & S., Pa.—Auratum, see The Review for December 26, page 18. The heating capacity of a boiler depends not so much on its horsepower as on the conditions under which it works.

W. & S., O.—See leading article, issue of January 16.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The market continues to be notable for the small volume of business transacted, for its meager supply of flowers and for general apathy. The buying is of the hand-to-mouth variety; although buyers cover for regular business quite early in the day, they are obliged to shop around to pick up requirements should an exceptional order turn up. A retailer who might receive, say, an order, late in the day, for a casket cover calling for a quantity of flowers, finds difficulty in getting his material and not infrequently calls upon brother retailers for assistance. The public demand is light and proportionate to the prices now in vogue. The consuming demand is not expected to expand until retail prices become more nearly normal. The close relation of supply and demand, of course, is what is carrying the situation now, the short supply covering actual needs only.

Little relief is in sight. The supply of roses is, if anything, shorter than last week and many carnation growers are off crop. Thus there is small probability of a material decline in prices.

Carnations remain at 10 and 12 cents for the best grades, with left-over stock —and it is a little more in evidence now —going at 6 to 8 cents. The finer grades are most in demand and are none too plentiful.

American Beauty roses are not plentiful, but there are enough for the demand. Their price keeps up, along with other flowers, and the prospect of concessions is slim. Other roses are anything but plentiful, but little change in prices is noticed. There is an early clean-up each day, with an entire absence of speculative buying.

Orchids are plentiful and cattleyas move well within a range of 20 to 40 cents each. They are being largely used in funeral work, the cost of other flowers giving them an advantage in this respect. Oncidiums are on the scarce side, but are not in lively demand. Gardenias are fairly plentiful, but the acme of quality appears to have passed, really fine flowers not being greatly in evidence. Consequently prices cover a wide range.

Bulbous stock is in small supply and the offerings somewhat low in grade. Tulips are bringing $1.50 per dozen for the best and trumpet narcissi the same. Paper Whites are 75 cents per bunch. These prices are practically staple day by day, when the quality is of average character.

There is a plentiful supply of Easter lilies, but arrivals move well at 25 cents for the best. Lily of the valley continues in small supply without change in price, $2 to $10 being about the range. Some fine callas are arriving, the best of which bring $3 per dozen. Red lilies are to be had in limited quantity at 10 to 12 cents each.

There is a good supply of sweet peas, the best of which bring 4 cents and a few specials 5 cents. Fairy primulas at 25 to 35 cents per bunch, myosotis at 50 to 75 cents, and lilac at $2 per bunch all sell well. Other flowers, such as calendulas, bouvardia, wallflowers, pansies, buddleia, freesias and iris, move well at remunerative figures.

Various Notes.

A final meeting of the interests having in hand the preparation of the brief to the Secretary of Agriculture protesting against the action of the Federal Horticultural Board in establishing an embargo on importations of plants to take effect June 1, was held at the office of the S. A. F., 1170 Broadway, January 21. There were present: J. D. Eisele, Riverton, N. J.; F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y.; Winfried Rolker and C. B. Knickman, New York. P. M. Koster, Boskoop, Holland, representing the Holland Growers' Association, also was present. The brief, a lengthy document dealing with every phase of the question, was settled for due presentation.

The wife of Charles Lohr, the Mount Vernon florist, died January 22, of pneumonia, following influenza.

R. John Rogers, Hempstead, N. Y., well known as secretary of the recently defunct Growers' Cut Flower Co., 129 West Twenty-eighth street, is to open a flower and seed store on Main street, Hempstead, about February 1.

The new Hotel Pennsylvania, opposite the Pennsylvania Terminal, said to be the largest hotel in the world, was opened January 25. A flower stand is to be established in the hotel, but who will have charge of it is not yet made known.

Herbert Spavins, the Mount Kisco florist, was in town last week. He reports the outlook for business in his section as quite good. His particular concern at the time of his visit was securing geranium stock, which he finds to be inconveniently scarce.

Fred Krauss, for many years prior to the war assistant to E. F. Winterson, Chicago, was a caller in the market January 24. He had just returned from France, where he had been serving behind the front in a company of field artillery for several months, and appeared to be glad of the prospect of a return within a few days to Camp Grant, to be mustered out. During his short stay here he was stationed at Camp Merritt.

Paul R. Klingsporn, of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, was in New York January 23, looking over the wholesale market. He was of the opinion that market conditions were little different from those recently experienced in Chicago.

That the supply of good bulbs from Holland was exceedingly short last fall is well demonstrated these days at the New York Cut Flower Exchange, where there is a considerable array of empty benches during early market hours. The shortage in fuel supply also is considered partly responsible for this condition. A good deal of the glass out of use owing to the fuel restrictions is being used for the production of early vegetables, such as radishes, lettuce, etc. Tomatoes will also furnish a catch crop for many establishments.

C. E. Hays and his Daughter, Salem, Ills.

The party to leave for the Carnation Society's convention and exhibition to be held at Cleveland this week is not expected to be large. Joseph A. Manda, David Ward, Roman J. Irwin, W. R. Pierson and John Young will be of the party. Mr. Young goes primarily to attend the meeting of the publicity committees January 30 and will leave for Detroit on the evening of that day, to attend the meeting of the directors of the S. A. F. January 31 and February 1. Mr. Manda also will attend the board meeting and Philip F. Kessler and Chas. H. Totty will leave on Thursday afternoon for Detroit for the same purpose.

Visitors last week: Geo. B. Hart, Rochester, N. Y.; Patrick Welch, Boston, Mass.; E. P. Tracy, Albany, N. Y.; Gus. Amrhyn, New Haven, Conn.

The next meeting of the New York Florists' Club will be held February 10. A good deal of interest attaches to the report of the dinner committee, which is expected at this meeting. J. H. P.

A spring flower show will be held March 28 to 30, at the American Museum of Natural History. In order that this exhibition may be a success, it will be necessary for all to put their shoulders to the wheel and do their bit. Cooperation is now the spirit of the age, and let horticulturists prove they are alive to this spirit by making this show a big success. All, whether members of the Horticultural Society or not, are invited to exhibit. Schedules are now ready for distribution and may be had by addressing the secretary at New York Botanical Garden, Bronx park, New York city.

George V. Nash, Sec'y.

DETROIT, MICH.

The Market.

Market conditions last week were discouraging. It was impossible to get stock even for special orders placed in advance. It follows that business was too much for the local market, but with out-of-town stock and good salesmanship, the many parties and weddings were nicely taken care of. Retailers report several large decorations and much funeral work as well.

Roses are exceptionally good, Ophelia and Columbia having large flowers and strong stems. Receipts of Hoosier Beauty and Sunburst, however, were weak in the stem.

Sweet peas are arriving and, with violets and freesias, they lessen the demand for short roses.

Plants are in steady demand. Cyclamens, primulas and a few azaleas are the varieties offered.

Various Notes.

A meeting of the S. A. F. committees was held January 23. They are to report at the next meeting of the Florists' Club.

Mrs. Gray, of John Breitmeyer's Sons, is attending the opening of the new Statler hotel in New York. It so happened that she met and entertained Harry Breitmeyer, who had just landed from a transport after war service in France. Mr. and Mrs. Philip Breitmeyer left at once for New York when the news of their son's arrival was received. H. T.

REAL BUSINESS NOW.

Like so many others who have become successful florists, C. E. Hays, of Salem, Ill., built his greenhouse for his own pleasure, but later began to sell plants and flowers. He made his start in 1909. The business increased until it outgrew its quarters and he was planning to build another greenhouse when war was declared. The death of his father, which occurred February 28, 1918, left him with land and other property and he is getting things into shape to build in the near future.

Woodstock, Ont.—James S. Wilson & Son cut 10,000 chrysanthemum blooms out of one house between December 14 and January 1, the wholesale price being from $20 to $60 per hundred. The varieties were Maud Dean, Dean Sport, Harvard, Golden Wedding and Rager. It constituted one of the most successful crops they ever have grown.

NEW ORLEANS.

The Market.

The month of January has been one continuous rush for all catering to the demand for floral designs. The locally grown bulbous stock is taken before it comes into full bloom and out-of-town shipments scarcely fill requirements. Only one local firm grows cut roses under glass and the cut is used in the retail store of this concern. The December frost killed nearly all the early outdoor-grown sweet peas, especially those ready to bloom, and only a few florists are growing them under glass, and this year the best crops will not be ready until the latter part of February. Large decorative plants are taking an unwonted rest. The usual social functions have not been resumed, to the dismay of the trade. No outdoor flowers of any kind can be cut at present and, with such untoward weather conditions, rainy, cold and cloudy, weeks may pass before any cutting may be done, even if February leaves the plants untouched by frost. Pansies, sweet alyssum and marigolds ordinarily are to be seen in bloom at this season, but none are in evidence now. It seems to the florists, at any rate, as if our southern winter is becoming more inclement every year that passes.

Wholesale and retail plant growers report a strong demand for all kinds of stock, especially flowering plants, with a marked increase in the shipping trade. The sale of bulbous stock for garden planting is still small, as compared with that of other southern cities. Although only the different varieties of narcissus bring satisfactory results planted outdoors, there is a great demand for this flower here, developed by timely and persistent advertising in the local papers.

Landscape gardeners are at the point of despair. They all have large stocks of fine bedding plants of all kinds on hand and hundreds of beds all over the city are ready for planting, and every florist in town is wishing and waiting for sunshine and dry weather to start things going.

Club Meeting.

The New Orleans Gardeners' Club held its annual meeting and election of officers at 419 St. Charles street, January 2, with a fair attendance. Treasurer J. H. Rinck reported the financial condition as satisfactory. Financial and Recording Secretary Richard Eichling stated that all meetings had been well attended, with an increase of three active members during the last six months and a total active membership of twenty-seven. On motion of Joseph Steckler, all the present officers of the club were unanimously reëlected for the coming year. They are: President, Paul Abele; vice-president, Henry Kraak; treasurer, J. H. Rinck; secretary, Richard Eichling. After the installation of officers, supper was served. The long table was decorated with roses and narcissi. Joseph Steckler acted as toastmaster. The arrangements committee consisted of Robert Reinecke, chairman; Otto Abele and Henry Kraak.

Various Notes.

Henry Kraak's range is filled with all kinds of plants and trees for the shipping and home trade. Judging by the orders being made ready for shipment, he is doing a land-office business and his cut flower trade also has increased greatly this winter. Frank Broker, his head gardener, is recovered from his recent illness and is about again.

J. A. Newsham has the finest stock of Phœnix Roebelenii and orchids in town. Both find ready buyers, his cattleyas being especially in request. As he is located near the principal cemeteries, his cut flower sales are enormous.

Max Scheinuk's place is steadily improving. It is well filled with strong, healthy plants of all kinds, including a large assortment of outdoor roses. He reports the best business on record in all departments.

The Metairie Ridge Nursery Co., Ltd., Harry Papworth, president, is a large and modern establishment. A large range of houses here is planted with Radiance and Red Radiance, Ophelia and Kaiserin. A seedling raised here, Climbing Radiance, of which there are 1,000 young plants, is bound to make a hit. All the roses grown here for cut blooms are strong and clean, with long stems and well set with buds. Most of them are disposed of at the retail store of this concern. Orchid-flowering sweet peas, snapdragons and an immense amount of bulbous stock are coming into flower. Climbing hybrid bush roses, as well as a house of Creole Easter lilies for Easter, look promising. Mr. Papworth reports the wholesale and retail business the largest in years.

Several sad events took place in the homes of some of our local florists during the latter half of this month. Peter Kaul lost his wife and daughter within one week. John H. Rinck lost his youngest daughter. Both have the heartfelt sympathy of their colleagues in the trade.

Abele Bros., whose greenhouses and coldframes are well stocked with all kinds of salable plants, report excellent business in all lines. One house of Creole Easter lilies looked promising and the Freesia Purity seen here is the best possible. Henry Cook had his usual fine stock of home-grown hardy evergreens and pot roses. A house of strong callas in bloom is worth noting. Sales both at the nursery and the store are better this season than for years. R. E.

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

Everything that comes into the market cleans up. Occasionally stock must be held over one day, but this is the exception rather than the rule.

The rose supply continues short of actual needs. Carnations are plentiful and find a good market. Easter lilies, rubrum lilies and callas are each in fair supply. The list of offerings in bulbous stock includes Paper White narcissi, yellow narcissi, freesias and Dutch hyacinths. Sweet peas have become plentiful. Other offerings are orchids, violets, snapdragons, calendulas, wallflowers, baby primroses, forget-me-nots and mignonette.

Various Notes.

Paul Naber, who was with C. E. Critchell before entering the service, has been mustered out of the army.

E. G. Gillett and C. E. Critchell are going to Cleveland for the meeting of the Carnation Society this week. The former will stop at Springfield, O., on his way to the Forest City.

The William Murphy Co. has been getting in Spencer sweet peas in quantities, which sell readily.

The list of recent visitors includes Mr. and Mrs. Frank Friedley, Cleveland, O.; Samuel E. Quint, Allston, Mass.; C. Meinann, New York city; Earl Mann and Fred H. Lemon, Richmond, Ind.; Albert A. Kramer, Dayton, O., and David S. Geddis, of the St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co., St. Louis, Mo.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

Cleveland is justly proud of "Mac," whose "Buckeye Bull's-Eyes" surely hit the mark and are fired from a rapid-firing gun. He has lots of ammunition in reserve.

William Honeysett, of Erie, Pa., observed that the proverbial bee aptly typifies the busy condition of their business right through the season, which has been a regular buzzer.

Secretary Williams, of the Cleveland Cut Flower Co., Cleveland, O., is of the opinion that, until the cost of material is considerably lowered, few houses will be built, even at the prevailing high prices of flowers, which, however, are uncertain and unsteady.

The Harvey Seed Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., lost a genial manager when C. H. Manly recently retired from the business to turn to the farm. The management is now in the hands of George B. Egerton, who was associated for many years with Mr. Manly.

The Wilson Florist Co., of Cleveland, O., has closed down its houses for the winter and will rebuild in the spring four houses, with an office and salesroom at the front entrance. "Meanwhile," observed James Woodruff Wilson, "we will depend upon the commission houses for our supply. Unfortunately, however, prices asked by them for carnations and roses around the holidays forced us to push sales on plants in preference. We were asked 15 cents apiece for carnations and roses. Christmas day carnations were offered at $40 per thousand, with no takers. It seems the commission men had no discretionary powers, but were forced to ask prices fixed by the growers. Now several of the retailers are trying to bring back the flower buyers who were frightened away. They may return. Much pickled stock was sent out. For instance, one dozen roses sold for $22 went to pieces as soon as they were placed. While we are endeavoring by means of publicity to educate the public to increasing use of flowers, it seems that, on the other hand, the goose which lays the golden egg is being killed. There must be a more sympathetic understanding between all concerned to bring about the desired results."

OBITUARY

Mack Richmond.

The passing of Mack Richmond, January 23, is mourned by many friends in the trade in and around Baltimore, Md., where he had been associated with leading florists for many years. Death was due to pneumonia.

Mr. Richmond obtained his first experience in his chosen vocation with William Fowler, at Clifton, Md. He was for seventeen years foreman for Halliday Bros., and at the time of his death was manager for William F. Cochran, at Woodbrook. He was a member of the Baltimore Florists' Club and at the funeral service, which was largely attended, the pallbearers were William Christie, William Lehr, Thomas Stevenson, John Halliday, Robert Halliday and John J. Perry. There were many beautiful floral pieces. He is survived by a wife and two daughters.

Mr. Richmond was a member of the S. A. F. and was superintendent of the trades' display when the convention was held in Baltimore in 1911. Tate.

George Schneider.

George Schneider, of Dayton, O., father of Frank Schneider, died January 22. He was a member of Company I, N. M. H. of D. V. S. C. F. M.

Harry P. Myers.

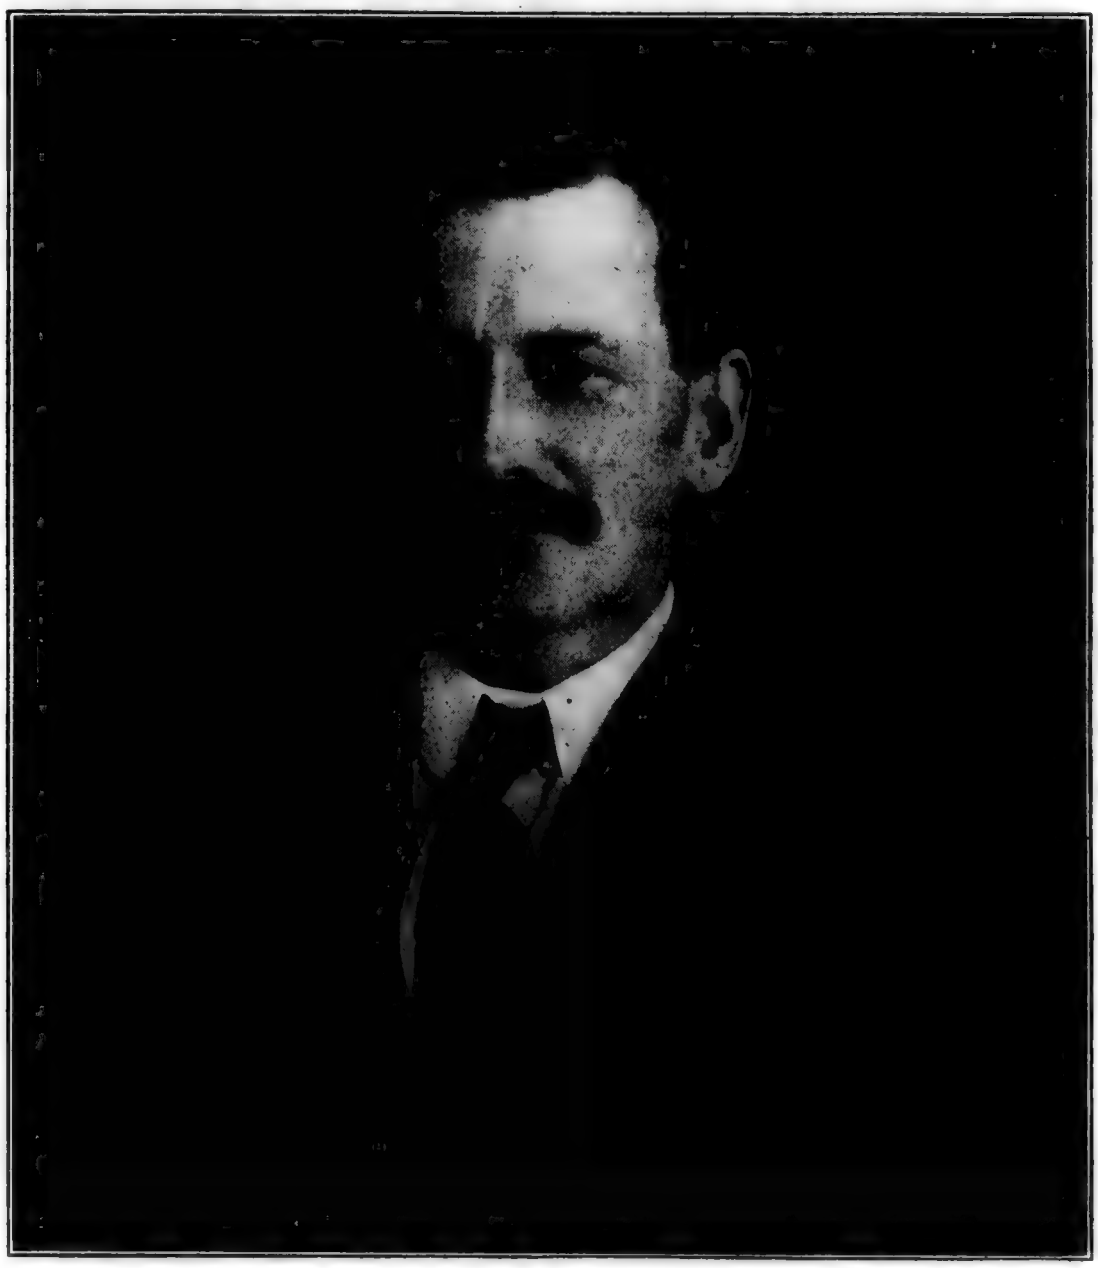
The death of Harry P. Myers, of Delphi, Ind., which occurred recently as the result of a relapse after pneumonia, is mourned by many friends. He had been in business at Delphi since the fall of 1910, first as a gardener and later as a florist. After the erection of a modern greenhouse, he became associated in a partnership with Edwin Baum in the florists' business exclusively.

Mr. Myers was born in 1887 and married in 1909 Miss Emma Eichhorn, who survives him, with their four children. Interment took place at Galion, O., the birthplace of the decedent. He was a man of exemplary character and his family have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

Charles Fox, Sr.

Charles Fox, Sr., died suddenly of heart failure, in a trolley car at Sixteenth and Market streets, Philadelphia, Friday evening, January 24. Albert W. Swan, of the S. S. Pennock Co., was in the car at the time and went to Mr. Fox's assistance.

Mr. Fox was in his eighty-first year. While it had been necessary for him to avoid excitement for many years, his general health had been excellent, apparently.



Charles Fox was one of the pioneer florists of Philadelphia. To the young men who are coming to the front today he was best known as the father of Charles Henry Fox, but to the leaders in the profession, the men who have passed the stages of struggle and made their mark, Mr. Fox was known as a man of sterling integrity, whose word was as good as his bond. Mr. Fox was of a cheerful, happy disposition and made friends everywhere.

Charles Fox was first known in Philadelphia as foreman for Hugh Graham, then the leading decorator at Eighteenth and Thompson streets. Later Mr. Fox opened a retail flower shop at Broad and Thompson streets, where he built up a good business and carried it on successfully for many years. Some years ago Mr. Fox sold his business to Richard Umphried, who now conducts it, keeping Mr. Fox's name on his sign. Mr. Fox, tiring of inactivity, returned later to help Mr. Umphried. Mr. Fox took great pride in his summer home at Ocean City, N. J., keeping his cottage and grounds in beautiful order.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held at his late residence, 1307 North Broad street, January 28. Phil.

Henry Holtcamp.

A veteran florist of Dallas, Tex., passed away January 12 in the person of Henry Holtcamp, who was born in 1837 and was therefore in his eighty-second year. The greenhouse business which he established is still conducted in his name and his late residence adjoins the range. He is survived by his widow, two sons, a daughter, two grandchildren and a nephew. Mr. Holtcamp was a member of the Methodist church. Funeral services occurred January 14. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Mack Richmond.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

Stock of all kinds is scarce and high, but such as is available is of good quality. Everything that could be made to bloom was forced for the holidays; consequently crops are off now. Roses and carnations are difficult to get in sufficient quantities to supply the demand, but prices are lower than a week ago. Roses are now running from 10 to 20 cents and carnations are 6 cents. Spring flowers are beginning to help out the situation, but the lack of bulbs is felt. Narcissi are selling for 5 cents, sweet peas from $1.50 to $2 and California violets for $2 per dozen bunches.

There has not been so much social activity as was hoped for following the close of the war. The Christmas holidays witnessed a number of dances and a few elaborate dinners, for all of which the florists had good orders, but since that time the social season has been quiet and decorating business has not been equal to that of pre-war times. It seems that it will take time for the people to get back to the spirit of entertaining after being engaged in war work for so long, but they will come to it in time.

Various Notes.

Mrs. Edith Roberts, of the Kellogg Flower & Plant Co., will leave January 27 for Los Angeles, where she will spend several months with her daughter, Mrs. D. R. Anderson.

Among recent visitors in the city were Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Moore, Claremore, Okla.; J. Hess, Omaha, Neb., and William Hasselmann, Independence, Kan. D. E. W.

Jefferson City, Mo.—Henry T. Schmidt has purchased a range of greenhouses here.

FUEL consumption this January has been only a small fraction of what it was in the initial month of 1918.

AT funerals we now see at least as many colored flowers as white ones, a change in custom greatly to the advantage of the trade.

THERE will be no large spring flower show in the United States, or elsewhere, this year. It is too soon after the close of the war.

THE S. A. F. committee on National Flower Show is expected to present, at the Detroit convention in August, plans for resuming the series of large exhibitions interrupted by the war.

ONE will be risking no reputation as a prophet if it is predicted that next spring's bedding season will be much heavier than in the last two years. It will be as well to get ready.

PLAN now to keep a record of the St. Valentine's day orders, the ones received from other florists and the ones sent for other florists to deliver, number of orders and total value. Send the record to The Review February 15.

DO not fear there will be little stock for Easter and spring. The trade is filled with energetic, resourceful men, and they are working up large blocks of plants of many kinds. We are confident there will be call for all.

W. E. WALLACE, Eaton Bray, England, who has many American friends, visitors to his place and acquaintances made on a trip here the year of our first national flower show, is planning another tour of the United States this summer.

THE help problem is steadily correcting itself through the cessation of war and war work. Especially in the eastern munitions centers there is plenty of unskilled labor to be had at moderate wages. Skilled help never was abundant in the florists' business.

ON the whole, the new year has started well and promises better.

A FLORIST should wear a smiling countenance; frowns and flowers do not go together.

LET'S let "the other fellow" have some business if he wants to take it at unprofitable prices.

SELL good stock and the customer comes back. Sell poor stock and you probably never hear of it again, unless there is a kick.

WE must not overcharge the public, but we must ask enough and pay enough to encourage the production of good stock.

IT may be well to say again that inquiries which do not bear the full name and address of the sender cannot receive attention.

THERE is every indication that greenhouse building and rebuilding will break all records, not in the size of the jobs, but in their number.

IF the average person were an accurate judge of values a good many people would go out of business. This will explain why your competitor is able to stick around.

PERHAPS no other day in the year, not even Christmas or Mothers' day, affords the opportunity St. Valentine's day gives for boosting the telegraph delivery department.

THE attention to complaints and claims is even slower than when the express companies were separately and privately operated. Nor has remittance on C. O. D.'s been accelerated, to say the least.

LARGE numbers of new people now are going into the florists' business, in the majority of cases in a modest way, growing outdoor stock for local trade. Greenhouses will come later for those who succeed.

A FEW florists may think that anything is good enough to work up in a funeral piece. It is not true. Listen to the comments made on the flowers after any large funeral and it will be plain that the only way to get away with it is to deliver the pieces with only the name of the purchaser.

AMONG other items the cut flower markets will lose through the operation of the approaching quarantine is Iris tingitana, the roots of which have come from Holland and the Island of Guernsey. But perhaps someone will in time develop an American supply of roots that can be forced.

FOR years the florists' trade has been becoming less and less attractive to intelligent, ambitious workers; yet it is a fine business. What we need is to raise our standards all along the line. Now is the time to make a start, each doing his part. Wages are up; keep them there. Prices are up; keep them there.

THE florists' trade is different from most lines of business in that there is no control over selling prices; the producer must sell his output within a limited time after it is ready or see it spoil, with the result that he takes as much as he can or as little as he must. It would be easier, far, if sales could be declined or production slowed up when prices are too low to be profitable.

DEMAND AND SUPPLY.

Apprehensions as to the effect on the trade of the war were scarcely formulated before prognostications were heard as to the difficulties which must be faced in the period of reconstruction following suspension of hostilities. But, as in the case of the dying father who told his sons that he had had a good deal of trouble during his long life, but that most of it was things that never happened, a good deal of this pessimism has not been justified by actual conditions. At any rate, the law of supply and demand has kept things moving and reports from every quarter are indicative of improved conditions rather than the contrary. This is one of the reasons for the optimism which characterizes the reports received from patrons of the Classified department of The Review. Another is that experience has taught them how to find a market for their crops at a trifling cost. We submit that there is nothing in the letters of these growers to indicate discouragement:

Please omit our geranium ad in the Classified section for a while. Orders are coming in faster than we can fill them.—Cherry Park Gardens, Fredonia, N. Y., January 13, 1919.

Kindly discontinue my ad in the Classified department for chrysanthemum stock plants. It is costing me too much in postage to return checks.—Max B. Schreiber, McDonald, Pa., January 11, 1919.

When you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty sure he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

An increase in both shipping business and city demand has caused a further shortage of stock. The market this week finds short and medium-stemmed roses extremely scarce, with long-stemmed stock, which was abundant last week, just about plentiful enough to go around. With this condition prevailing, a further shortage is predicted for St. Valentine's day. Many of the wholesalers have large advance orders for carnations and roses. The rose price holds up. A scarcity of Beauties continues, with prices stiff. Carnations are no longer abundant, there being just enough for the call, due to the increase in out-of-town orders. There is not as much stock coming in as there was last week, as the carnation crop is starting to shorten up. Everything cleans up, from the commonest splits to those of the highest grade, but prices are not advancing.

Valley is scarce and from present indications there will not be enough for St. Valentine's day, at which time an enormous quantity is used for corsage work. The demand for orchids has increased, but there is more than enough stock to go around. Plenty of violets are coming in to take care of immediate needs and no shortage of these is looked for. Easter lilies are scarce; likewise callas. A shortage of calendulas continues. Sweet peas in all lengths of stems are now arriving plentifully and there is enough to take care of the present call for them. The flowers are of fine quality and bring a satisfactory price.

Although stevia is about over for the season, there is still a little to be had. Paper Whites continue on the long side, but yellow narcissi remain scarce. The supply of tulips is increasing, but most of these have waiting orders before they reach the market; the same condition exists with jonquils. Plenty of Roman hyacinths and freesia continue to come and there is enough to fill all orders. The green goods market remains the same as in the last few weeks; everything is plentiful.

Henderson Buys Winterson's Seeds.

Winterson's Seed Store will be succeeded, February 1, by A. Henderson & Co., the deal having been closed January 28. Mr. Henderson says he will use his present quarters on State street only for storage until his lease runs out, May 1, and that all business hereafter will be transacted at the Winterson address. He has retained the services of John P. Degnan, long manager for Mr. Winterson, the understanding being that Mr. Degnan will devote the greater part of his energies to the development of the retail end of the business. A new lease on the first floor at 166 North Wabash avenue has been obtained.

E. F. Winterson states that he has received offers for the florists' supply and cut flower departments, located in the basement at the same address, and that he may take this opportunity to retire to his property at Highland Park, where he has a considerable planting of nursery stock.

Will Do Coöperative Advertising.

At last Chicago florists are to make a start in coöperative advertising in the daily newspapers. And, like Chicago, having decided to do it, it is to be done at once.

Since the Retail Florists' Association was organized a few months ago, frequent conferences have been held with the Wholesale Cut Flower Association. These resulted, at a meeting held at luncheon at La Salle hotel January 28, in the decision to raise a fund, both from the treasuries and by subscription, to be spent in advertising flowers to the people of Chicago. The details were placed in the hands of a committee consisting of George Wienhoeber, George Asmus and A. Lange.

The chief idea is to deal with gluts by letting the public know when flowers are plentiful, instead of letting the department stores tell it through their ridiculous sales, but the approach of a glut is not to be awaited; the advertising is to start early in February, in advance of St. Valentine's day.

President L. R. Bohannon, of the retailers' organization, states that it is the hope of both bodies that every florist in Chicago will join the retailers. The dues of active members, of whom there are twenty-five, are $25 a year, but associate membership may be had at $10 a year and all the money goes into the publicity fund. The idea is to get every retail florist to push his selling Barnard's Poultry Show.

To a stranger in Chicago, approaching West Madison and Franklin streets last week, the impression was given that some sort of a bargain sale was going on in that vicinity. The crowd going in and out and watching the windows of the W. W. Barnard Co. did not indicate a bargain sale or anything of the sort, but a novelty poultry show, the first of its kind to be held in this section of the country.

The main floor was filled with wire cages containing guinea pigs and rabbits as well as everything known in the poultry line. The windows contained ducks, several kinds of pheasants, proud peacocks and other birds.

Traffic on the sidewalks was impeded and the ushers inside the store were unable to handle the throngs of people passing in and out. The W. W. Barnard Co. is one of the country's largest dealers in poultry supplies.

interesting report, stating that while in New York last week carnations were selling at 10 and 12 cents, splits bringing 6 cents, and even at those figures stock moved without any trouble. He says 10-inch roses sold for 15 cents and 12-inch for 20 cents, while longer-stemmed stock was far higher than it is in the Chicago market. In Philadelphia Mr. Klingsporn says carnations brought 10, 12 and 15 cents last week and fancy Laddie sold for 20 cents. Roses were about the same in price as in New York. The only flowers that he saw on his trip that were lower in price than on the Chicago market were orchids. Mr. Klingsporn says he is glad he is located in Chicago, after seeing eastern conditions, and thinks that the retailers would feel the same if they made a visit to other large markets.

C. L. Washburn will leave Chicago about February 15 for Pasadena, Cal. Mr. Washburn will not go directly west, as he has planned going to New Orleans first, then to Galveston and San Antonio, Tex., and from there to Pasadena. At Pasadena he will meet his son, E. B. Washburn, on business matters, as the latter will start for Chicago at the end of February to take charge of the business of Bassett & Washburn during his father's absence. Mr. Washburn will be accompanied by his wife and will return sometime in April.

Among the growers who are vacationing are W. J. Keimel and Albert F. Amling. They are at Hot Springs, Ark. Mrs. Amling is with them.

Bonvallet & Co., the concern with which C. S. Clausen is identified, is preparing to plant about 800,000 gladiolus bulbs on about twenty acres at Wichert, Ill., for cut flowers.

To provide space for what is expected to be the largest spring business to date, the American Bulb Co., on the west side of Wabash avenue, has rented the basement of the E. C. Amling Co., just across, on the east side. The concern already has a large basement space in the Le Moyne building, but it is practically all occupied by gladiolus bulbs.

Peter Reinberg has added $200 per year to the S. A. F. publicity fund.

James G. Hancock, who is widely known in the trade, has gone into the insurance business with G. N. Wright & Co., 659 Insurance Exchange building. He writes everything, but specializes on accident insurance.

C. A. Samuelson, whose store is on motor row, has a special window decoration for automobile show week. The central piece is a limousine made of flowers.

Word has been received of the safe arrival at Orange, Cal., of E. C. Amling and his family party. They expect to be there about two months.

"We are picking a few now," says Henry Wehrman, of Maywood. "A few" last week was 40,000 sweet peas.

While F. M. Johnson was walking down the street in Washington, D. C., a few days ago he saw a Randall electric fountain playing in the window of the Marche flower store. Inquiry developed that it had been in almost constant service for two years.

spent thirty-eight of them in the flower business in Chicago.

Edwin Mallinson, manager for the Fleischman Floral Co., is back at his work after being confined to his home for a week under a doctor's care.

George Asmus celebrated his forty-seventh birthday anniversary last Saturday, January 25.

Fred Lautenschlager, of Kroeschell Bros. Co., left for Cleveland January 28, where he is attending the American Carnation Society meeting. Mr. Lautenschlager will not return home directly, but will stop at several Ohio cities on business.

Frank S. Ayres, for the last twelve years with C. W. McKellar, has resigned from his position and is now connected with Archie Spencer. It is reported that Mr. Ayres enters as a member of the firm.

The Wonder Plant Irrigator Co., which has offices in Chicago, has moved its factory from Denver, Colo., to this city. The factory is near completion and is located in Maywood.

Fred Krauss, whose sister reported last week that he had enlisted in the regular army, must have been preparing a surprise for the family. He was in New York last week on his way home.

Miss O. A. Tonner is confined to her home, under the care of a physician, with sciatic rheumatism. L. A. Tonner reports that she is getting along nicely and hopes to be at her desk the latter part of the week.

Visitors.

H. R. Marquardt, of the E. Welke Co., Milwaukee, Wis., was in the market at the end of last week on a buying trip.

Wm. Hennig, who has charge of the growing end of the business of Scholl Bros., Orion, Mich., was in town this week, piloted to points of trade interest by his relative, Wm. Hennig, the Blue Island florist.

L. A. Metcalfe, of La Crosse, Wis., was a recent visitor.

C. A. Richey, president of the Kahler Pottery Co., Omaha, a concern in which the Wilcox family, of Council Bluffs, is interested, was here this week on a trip introducing his line to growers.

R. E. Jones, of the Advance Co., Richmond, Ind., was here this week. It was his first visit since he was released from the service of Uncle Sam and, although it was a business trip, he enjoyed it greatly.

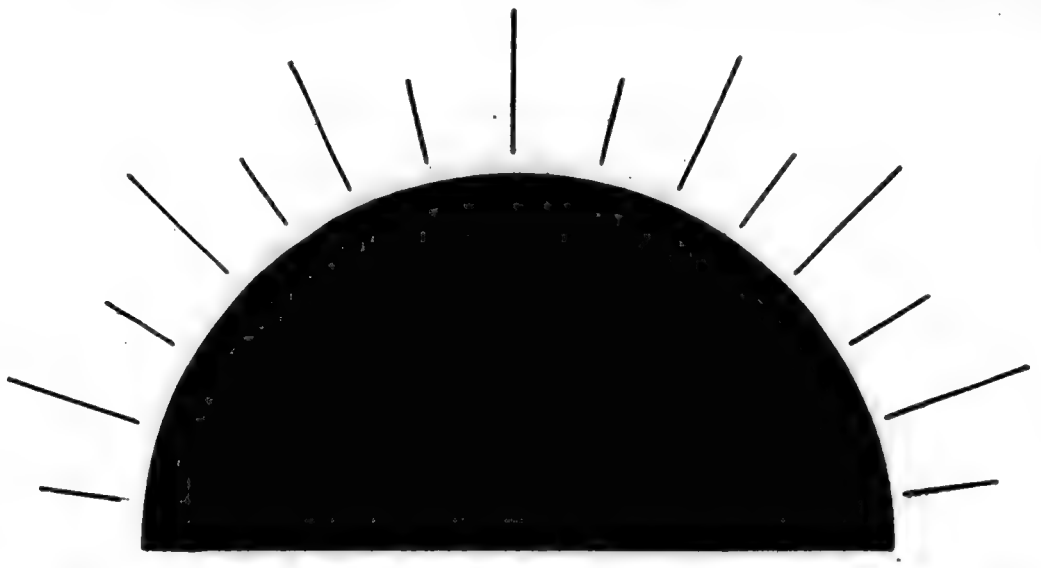
Blaine and Glen Wilcox, of J. F. Wilcox & Sons, Council Bluffs, Ia., arrived in Chicago the early part of the week to attend the automobile show. They were accompanied by their wives and went on to Cleveland for the carnation show.

Charles Robinson, of H. M. Robinson & Co., of New York and Boston, called on wholesale houses in this market the early part of the week. A. Strumph, of the same concern, accompanied Mr. Robinson.

W. R. Lange, of the Park Floral Co., St. Joseph, Mo., spent several days around the market this week.

O. O. Boston, of Tulsa, Okla., spent several days in the market last week. His trip was both for business and pleasure.

INDIANAPOLIS.



The Market.

Contrary to the experience of preceding years, January has been a good business month. Except for a slight flush in carnations, lasting but a few days, supply and demand have balanced and prices have been good. Carnations have stiffened in price since last week, the range being from $5 to $10. In general their quality is good and the demand strong. Roses continue scarce, while their popularity is increasing.

Narcissi are plentiful at $4 and $5, and move fairly well. Easter lilies continue scarce. Calla lilies are more ample, but move well at $2.50 and $3.

More small flowers are available and are good sellers. Sweet peas and freesias are good property and orchids are in evidence in window displays. Marguerites, mignonette, violets, calendulas and baby primroses are available. Greens are in limited supply. Fern leaves are of inferior quality and galax is hard to procure. Smilax, plumosus and Sprengeri are in short supply.

Inquiry is being made about stock for St. Valentine's day and from present indications supplies will be inadequate for the increased demand, as average daily business consumes the supply of cut flowers, while potted plants are in limited variety and quantity. Chatelaine begonias, cyclamens, a few ferns and Primula obconica and malacoides constitute the offerings in potted stock.

way to the Baltimore market, but there is nothing approaching a glut and prices hold up well.

Sweet peas are not so plentiful as the wholesale houses would like to have them. We hear a great deal of complaint about the buds dropping, and this is happening to such an extent as to make the supply short. Paper Whites, while far from plentiful, are coming in much better supply each day. The same may be said of freesias, the only bulbous stock to amount to anything that is yet to be seen. There is a fair supply of all miscellaneous stock, but it all goes so quickly that it is a hard matter to get a line on it.

There is little complaint from anyone regarding prices or the failure to get just what they want; everyone realizes it is a condition and not a theory they are facing this winter, and they are satisfied to do the best they can. One thing is certain; the shortage of stock, with consequent high prices, is making better business men out of a lot of florists.

Various Notes.

The other evening I had a long talk with George Black. He is enthusiastic over the next and only cotillion to be held here this winter. Mr. Black has had charge of the decorations for these dances from time out of mind and he says the one to be held on Washington's birthday is going to be the most elaborate he has ever done. He is working out some of the features now and when Mr. Black says this is to be the best, it means something, for I have been permitted to have a peep at many of them. This might be a good opportunity to throw out a hint to those retailers who are always busy for the cotillion. A lot of stock is going to be used, and this is the only chance they will have this winter and roses are scarce.

James Hamilton, of Mount Washington, is having a fine cut of roses these days. Last September Mr. Hamilton was in great perplexity. He had been unable to keep help during the summer and the weeds were up to the glass in his rose range, so he decided to let this range go for the winter. His son was released from the army September 15. They were going over the place together when his son said it was a great pity to let this range go, as there was were about to leave when one of the going to be a great demand for roses this winter. "Well," Mr. Hamilton said, "what is the use of talking, when we cannot even get a fireman?" Here is where youth counts. The young man asked, "Can you get the coal?" He was answered, "Yes." "Then we will fire ourselves," he said. We have not seen Mr. Hamilton at any club meetings this winter; his is the early watch. If any of my readers are lonely these long winter evenings and do not mind sitting in the boiler pit, they can journey out to Mount Washington, and I am sure Mr. Hamilton will be glad to have their company. I saw some of the Radiance roses they cut at Christmas and they brought 40 cents each. There are other similar cases. But why talk about them? You cannot keep anyone who was raised in the florists' business down long. They may be "badly battered," but when the gong sounds you will find them "still in the ring."

William Lehr told recently of a case he had seen on his late visit to Philadelphia. His party had been out all day and they reached the last place on their list at dusk. It was a large range where some of the best roses in the Quaker City are produced, but it was late and they could find no one. They party noticed the sound of machinery in one part of the range. They walked back and a blackened individual, in overalls and jumper, came up from the boiler pit. What was their surprise to find it was the proprietor himself! He was burning buckwheat coal and was obliged to use a forced draft. Mr. Lehr said it sounded like a heavy freight going up a steep grade.

Next summer, when "the boys" get together on some of their outings, they will have as many reminiscences to relate as the boys who have been "over there." Tate.

the stores was reported excellent. Shipping trade from outside points, with the local demand, cleaned up daily receipts except violets and sweet peas, which have been coming in heavy supply all the week. The retailers say that since prices have become normal again, the cut flower business has gone back to its proper proportions.

Roses have increased in supply, but the demand absorbs the daily consignments. Russell, Columbia, Ophelia and Stanley have the call in the fancy grades. Short-stemmed roses are in large demand, but only a few come in. Carnations have been off crop, but are beginning to arrive and large receipts are expected by the end of the week. Enchantress has been the best seller all the season, but the reds have dragged. Bulbous stock is coming in larger supply as the days go by. Last week saw a busier market in Paper Whites, lilies, freesias, Romans and valley than for some time. Sweet peas are coming and the large arrivals have caused the prices to fall to 75 cents and $1 per hundred. Violets are arriving in quantities in excess of requirements and prices accordingly have been cut to $5 and $7.50 per thousand.

There is a good supply of greens to meet the large demand.

Various Notes.

The publicity committee of the Florists' Club held an important meeting January 21 at headquarters, which was called to talk over advertising for St. Valentine's day. It was well attended and considerable space was contracted for in the daily papers for February 9 and 11.

The St. Louis County Growers' Association doubtless will call off its meeting scheduled for February 5, as its date conflicts with that of the florists' Victory banquet, which the growers will attend in a body.

Carnations

We don't think there is anything better shipped out of this market in Carnations than what we can furnish. They are increasing in supply, but with the big demand for them we expect no surplus, and it is advisable to place your orders as early as possible.

Spencer Peas

We are getting now the best Spencer Peas we have had so far this season. Order them in advance and you have every assurance your order will be filled. They have been scarce, but one grower assures us of a steady supply from now on.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The cut flower market is exceedingly active, with prices firmer than a week ago. At that time carnations were a trifle weak for a day or so, with indications that prices would decline. Now they are in demand at good prices for everything perfect. The splits sell, but at a lower figure. This recovery in carnations shows the strength of the market, because the crop is heavy. Roses, on the contrary, are in light supply, with prices unchanged. Beauties are still to be had; they are likely to continue on the list throughout February. There are a few more Russells and a fair supply of the standard varieties in red, yellow, white and pink, more of the last-named color, probably, than of all the others combined.

There are two outstanding features of the market this week. One is the plentiful supply of Cattleya Trianæ. This flower is so plentiful that prices on it are down. So low they are, in fact, that it is claimed cattleyas are the only flower within reach of the curbstone merchants, a funny condition of affairs.

The other feature is the large supply of Freesia Purity. To California we owe this really splendid stock, which many of our growers are sending into town. Made-in-America freesia is pushing the imported Paper White narcissus aside. It is selling so well as to encourage the belief that it has a great future. So far the market seems inclined to pay the extra cost of production, although Paper Whites are also bringing good prices. There are a few Roman hyacinths. Miscellaneous flowers are a trifle more plentiful. Greens are scarce. The favorable weather has encouraged business.

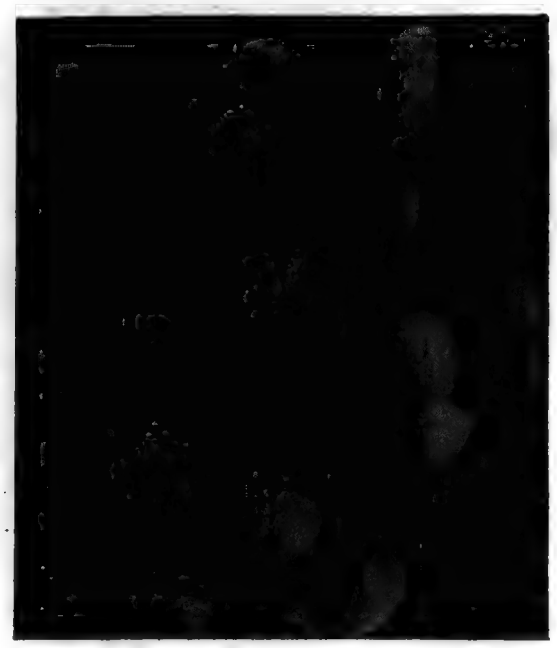
Roelofs.

The model range of the Joseph Heacock Co. represents to Philadelphians the highest degree of perfect equipment and thorough cultivation. It stands as a monument to the ability and enterprise of the man who planned it. Built nine years ago, with small additions since, Roelofs is today a thoroughly modern place; its products stand in the front rank of the Philadelphia and New York markets.

Saving that the wise counsel and genial personality of the head of the house are missing, the management of Roelofs is unchanged. The men who were active in its management nine years ago are still active. They have carried the place successfully through the war and the epizoötic and there is every indication of continued prosperity.

The Killarneys have been the mainstay of Roelofs for nine years. It is probable that they will be reduced gradually, although they are still so good that there are Killarney cuttings in the sand, evidently intended for replacing some of the original stock. Robert Jamison feels that nine years is long enough for a rose planted under glass for winter blooming, even when it is in a ground bed.

Richmond is doing splendidly. The flowers now coming on, the next after-Christmas crop, are for the most part borne on long, strong stems without a pinch. Richmond is found most profitable; its success is usually linked to a pinched crop for Christmas. This season, owing to the "flu," the crop came in too soon, but the market was so good that it did not make the difference that it would have made in a normal season.



Hadley was disappointing early in the season. Now it is making up for lost time, with not so much heavy wood as last year, but a wealth of medium-stemmed buds on all the plants. Dear little Mrs. Aaron Ward is not behaving as usual, courting dismissal. Ophelia, on the other hand, is producing freely. Columbia is a pleasing sight. The plants, 6,000 in number, show that there has been a heavy cut. The flowers are larger and carried erect on long, heavy stems.

James W. Heacock said that Premier will be added to the list of varieties to be planted at Roelofs next season. Mr. Heacock was interested in a tractor that was being overhauled to be in readiness for use on the farm in the spring.

Culture.

A jar on one of the counters of the S. S. Pennock Co. last week contained several bunches of Freesia Purity that were remarkable. They may be best described as the equal of the finest Paper White narcissi in respect to the size of the florets, length of stem and quality of foliage. They exceed Paper Whites in delicacy of fragrance and in refinement. Such stock has undoubtedly been seen in other wholesale houses. This instance is given to show what culture is doing to Freesia Purity both in the fields of California and in the greenhouses here.

Callers at the office of Clarence U. Liggit were amazed and delighted by the specimens of Primula obconica that chanced to be there. They were in 4-inch and 5-inch pots, so perfectly grown as to leave absolutely nothing to be desired—large, shapely plants, with clean, perfect foliage, unusually large flowers of exquisitely soft shades of color. They were an inspiration to anyone who cares for plants.

Various Notes.

The M. Rice Co. has received letters from three former employees now in the service. Lieutenant David C. Boyle writes that he soon is to be discharged and that he has not yet decided whether he will reënlist in the army. Frank Smith, formerly foreman of the order department, writes from overseas that he hopes soon to be home again, while Frank Fierstein, formerly foreman of the basket factory, who has seen heavy fighting in the trenches, writes of his safety.

Paul R. Klingsporn, manager of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, has been revisiting the scenes of his youth. We are proud of Mr. Klingsporn, who has made good out there.

The sudden death of Charles Fox, Sr., has cast a gloom over the floral world in this city, where Mr. Fox was highly esteemed by everyone.

James W. Heacock, Carl A. Corts and Robert Jamison visited many of the places near New York recently. They were especially pleased with the fine condition of the model range of Duckham & Pierson, at Madison, N. J.

Philip Scott, of Buffalo, has been here.

William Vogt, an old-time florist of Camden, N. J., met a tragic death at Seventeenth and Diamond streets, when he was hit by a motor.

Joseph Cousins, who was honorably discharged from the Naval Reserves, has returned to the Joseph Heacock Co.

William Swayne, of Kennett, was in town January 25. He brought a choice assortment of specialties to William J. Baker.

The Philadelphia Wholesale Florists' Exchange is receiving new-crop Russell from William A. Leonard, of Lansdowne. Manager Deutscher also announces that a new carnation grower of ability has been added to the list of shippers.

The Florists' Club Jersey dinner at the Hotel Adelphi will take place at 6 o'clock on the evening of February 4, before the regular meeting.

Emil H. Geschick has a fine crop of carnations.

springlike weather of the last few weeks already has started vegetation hereabouts into growth.

The first jonquils are coming in from New Galilee, Pa., and selling readily to the retail trade at the rate of $6 per hundred. Narcissi are coming in larger quantities also, and are readily moved. Carnations are more plentiful and sell at $6. The local florists are trying to create a demand for violets, but without marked success. Fine blooms are coming in from Rhinebeck, but the prices remain low for this one-time popular flower.

Various Notes.

The McCallum Co. has removed its basket factory from the third and fourth floors of the building at 137 Sandusky street to the old Third Ward schoolhouse, on the North Side. The intention is to occupy the entire building and double the force of workers for the purpose. The former quarters of this work will be devoted to the new artificial department, which is to be in charge of C. C. Phillips, while the north side establishment will be under the management of Earl M. Schiltz.

P. G. Harris has returned from a week's visit in New York city, the trip combining business and pleasure.

Joseph M. Johnston, of McKeesport, spent the last week in Chicago, stopping en route on a three months' trip, which included the Mardi Gras season in New Orleans and visiting Los Angeles, San Francisco and other points along the Pacific coast. Meanwhile his McKeesport store is under the capable management of Robert J. Walker, James Reger and Joseph M. Johnston, Jr. Miss Hilda Rathgib is a recent addition to the staff, while Miss Minnie Hoser has just returned from a three months' illness.

Charles Dougherty, of McKeesport, Pa., is confined to his home as the result of a general run-down condition from overwork during the recent strenuous season. The Dougherty establishment is "a family affair," presided over by Mrs. Dougherty and her daughter, Miss Lillian Dougherty, with the addition of a delivery messenger.

John H. Orth, another McKeesport florist, spent a few days in Harrisburg last week, attending the inauguration festivities for Governor William C. Sproul. Meanwhile the store, as usual, was under the care of Mr. Orth's sister, Miss Orth.

Mrs. Christine Gibson Caldwell is a recent addition to the Braddock Floral Co., whose presiding genius is Herman C. Bucheler.

Mrs. Albert C. Miller, of Duquesne, was in the city a few days ago consulting a specialist regarding an abscess in the head, resulting from an attack of influenza six weeks ago. Her two children, who were ill at the same time, fortunately are convalescing nicely. Mrs. Miller is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Elicker, the veteran florists of Homestead, whom Mr. Miller succeeded in business. The Market.

Thus far business for January has exceeded all expectations. Most of it has been in funeral orders, which have included a number of large pieces of good quality. Counter trade also has been so good that it has kept the local trade busy finding stock to meet the demand for cut flowers. Numerous small social affairs for soldiers and sailors who have returned called for flowers for table decorations.

The weather has been unseasonably warm nearly all winter and this has helped us, for the amount of coal consumed thus far is small compared with that used last winter. It also has facilitated delivery, since it has seldom been necessary to use extra coverings, whereas last winter it was difficult to prevent plants and cut flowers from freezing during delivery. Last year the roads frequently were blocked with snow, making transportation difficult, but the few little flurries this season have melted immediately.

Carnations are in good supply and in great demand, probably because the prices asked for them are more reasonable than those put upon some of the other flowers. Roses are still high in price and some of the trade report that the supply is short of requirements. Easter lilies are not plentiful, but those received find a good market. A few callas may be had. Among the spring flowers, which are moving well and are in good supply, freesias, Paper Whites and sweet peas were noted. The cut of violets is increasing, but stevia is gone and few snapdragons or calendulas are seen.

Various Notes.

James E. Beach reports a number of orders booked for funeral work recently. His roses are off crop, but he is cutting excellent carnations and narcissi.

John Reck & Son had a narrow escape from having their store wiped out by a fire which occurred recently in the building in which they are now located. Some parts of the structure were badly damaged, but Mr. Reck reports that no great damage was done to his quarters. This concern had moved from the building in which it had been located for a number of years to temporary quarters at the corner of Main and Golden Hill streets, as the old building is being demolished. Although the new store is on a good corner and is attractive, Mr. Reck intends to return to the old site as soon as the new building is erected and ready for occupancy.

Julius Reck says all available stock is cleaned up as soon as it is cut. On account of the cloudy weather of the last few days, flowers have not been blooming as they should.

Robert Hawkins tells us that cut flowers are now available in larger quantities and that there is a brisk demand for them. The high prices still hold. Funeral pieces are in large demand and a number of large designs were made here recently.

The Park Flower Shop is cutting violets and carnations of excellent quality. Notably fine Spencer sweet peas with long stems are being displayed by this concern.

The New York Florist is displaying a good variety of cut flowers this week.

James Horan & Son displayed fine cinerarias and primroses in their window recently. Counter trade and funeral work keep all hands busy, but the scarcity of flowers has caused inconvenience here. I. L. B.

The Market.

The closing week of January finds the cut flower market in good condition. Practically everything coming in cleans up at satisfactory prices and the outlook is most encouraging. We are having phenomenally mild weather, in marked contrast to that of a year ago, and the drain on the fuel piles has been much lighter than usual. Florists who had the courage to plant all their houses are in the best position, as they can now secure all the needed fuel. Those who closed down entirely now wish they had foreseen what was coming. If all had done so, however, prices might not be so good.

Roses continue scarce and prices average better than a week ago. During the last few weeks white roses fell as low as $8 on one or two days for short-stemmed stock, but they started the present week at $12. Everything in the way of roses is soon picked up. Carnations maintain last week's prices. Good flowers sell well at an average of $6, with fancies at $8. Violets are not abundant, but sweet peas of splendid quality are coming in more freely. There is a fair supply of both callas and lilies. Prices on both hold up well. A few Guernsey trumpet narcissi are coming in, but no Dutch stock is yet in flower. Paper Whites sell easily, likewise freesias.

Snapdragons appear only in small lots as yet. Of miscellaneous flowers noted there are forget-me-nots, wallflowers, calendulas, Iris tingitana and pansies. Cattleya Trianæ is in fair supply. Cypripedium insigne is over but a variety of other cypripediums and other orchids are available. Flowering plants continue scarce.

Club Meeting.

Installation night of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club attracted 250 members and ladies January 21 and the meeting was full of vim and enthusiasm, a happy augury for the new year. Resolutions on the death of Andrew Masson were adopted and the new members elected. Announcement was made of the big union meeting of various agricultural and horticultural interests to be held February 11 to 14 in Horticultural hall and it was reported that on the day set apart for the club W. H. Elliott would lecture and various members make fine displays of plants and cut flowers.

On motion of S. J. Goddard it was unanimously voted to hold a flower show February 18, the date of the next club meeting, and $50 was appropriated toward the premium list. Mr. Goddard said further contributions would be procured and all seasonable plants and flowers would be scheduled, as Boston has had no flower show this winter. The proposed show is to be open to the public free of charge. All present voted to help make this a big show and the president appointed S. J. Goddard, Peter

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

The market remains practically the same. Business is normal. Supplies are short, but the slight advance in prices has kept conditions balanced. Roses and carnations continue to furnish the bulk of the stock, with the forerunners of the bulbous stock making their appearance to help relieve the situation.

Although there was a slight fall in temperature during the week, weather conditions thus far this winter have the growth of outdoor bulbs. Already in many of the estates, hyacinths are popping their heads above ground several weeks ahead of time, and extra heavy beddings of leaves have been spread to prevent their destruction by belated frosts.

Various Notes.

Charles Smith is making heavy daily shipments of wire wreaths from his factory on Valley street to Boston parties. He placed orders recently for new machinery that will more than double his factory capacity.

Irving J. McCoid, who has been in service in the south, has been discharged and is back with his father, David McCoid, of Halsey street.

"Watch this window grow," reads an attractive card in the corner window of Macnair's store at Chestnut and Broad streets. The window is filled with narcissus bulbs in pans and dishes of all kinds, the blades breaking up through a bed of moss.

Timothy O'Conner has been on a visit to New York and Philadelphia on business.

Mrs. W. P. Carpenter, of the Union Station flower stand, who has been on the sick list, is convalescing.

The houses of the late Richard L. Hogan, Eaton street, are understood to be in the market for sale.

George L. Stillman, of Westerly, was in New York last week, where he had a large exhibit of corn at the New York Poultry Association exhibition, at Madison Square Garden.

The case of Horace M. Williams against the Everett Forestry Co. was heard before Judge Rathbun in the Superior court last week and the jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

Charles S. Macnair has been elected a member of the Providence Chamber of Commerce.

Johnston Bros. had the decorations for the recent Brown-Taft wedding, one of the largest social functions so far this season.

The will of Wilbur A. Fiske was probated in the Municipal court last week, Mrs. Flora C. Fiske being appointed executrix under personal bond of $80,000.

Joseph Smith has been elected financial secretary of the Rhode Island district organization of Zionists of America.

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Our Slogan.

A close examination of the advertisement clippings which come to our promotion bureau shows that a large number of florists who use the advertising columns of their local newspapers have not incorporated our slogan, "Say It with Flowers," into their copy.

We wonder whether they realize the value of a slogan or trade-mark which, through the expenditure of large sums of money, has been publicised. Only the other day a discussion was reported in a prominent publication as to the probable value, from the sales standpoint, of the well known mark applied to certain syndicated productions of California citrus fruit, "Sunkist." The most conservative estimate, as evolved from the discussion, was $1,000,000, while many placed the valuation at amounts nearer the $10,000,000 mark. Why? Because this mark has been thoroughly impressed upon the public mind and thus has become an investment of inventorial value.

Our committees last year spent nearly $50,000 to establish in the same way our slogan, "Say It with Flowers." Without the slightest doubt this slogan was driven home with force greatly in excess of what our really small investment might have been expected to generate. This year our campaign fund will not only maintain the impression created last year, but at least double the force.

Yet we find florists advertising liberally in the newspapers who are not using the slogan which has cost so much to publicise and has proved so effective, which they are privileged to use without cost, although we do recommend that they use the uniform script, as furnished in the electrotyped headlines our promotion bureau supplies at prices barely sufficient to cover the foundry charges.

We are sure the florists who neglect to use the slogan do not realize their loss by the omission. The more the public sees of it the better it is for our business.

It focuses public attention upon an important reason for buying flowers, the expression of sentiment. And who shall say that this reason is not the keystone in the foundation of the retail florists' business?

We have a folder describing a series of little aids to a direct drawing down of benefits from our advertisements in thirty-three magazines and shall be glad to mail a copy to anyone on request.

Make Up the Fund Now.

Our 1919 fund is mounting, but ought to mount faster. The committees have been seriously handicapped in their plans for magazine publicity through uncertainty as to the funds at their disposal. Magazine space, in many instances, must be booked months in advance and the committees could hardly be expected to incur responsibility themselves, although, as a matter of fact, in their faith they have done it. Florists who have not subscribed can help the campaign work greatly by making early subscriptions. We cannot do much in the dog days, but much can be done now and in the fall. Help us to meet our problems with money in hand, so that we can get still better results than we are getting.

Give now and give generously, for the more you give the more you will get.

Business during the month of January has not been active. Prices continue firm, however. The demand for out-of-town shipments is light. Mild, springlike weather has been the rule for the last ten days and has made stock more plentiful. The buying is not heavy. Roses are in fair demand, but they have shortened up in supply until they are scarce. The stock that arrives is in splendid condition and is offered at good figures. Most of the stock arriving is in medium and long grades. Ophelia, Sunburst, September Morn, Russell, Maryland and the Wards sell best. Red varieties, such as Francis Scott Key, Hoosier Beauty and Richmond, are in fair supply, but the colored roses are not in demand at this time. Carnations, of which the supply was heavier, dropped slightly in price this week, but are picking up again. Red carnations are plentiful, but there is small demand for them. Orchids are not moving rapidly. A good supply of bulbous stock is arriving, which consists chiefly of Paper White narcissi and freesias. Good jonquils, Romans and tulips are seen, but the supply is limited. There are few calendulas. There does not appear to be any life in the violet trade this season. The demand is pitifully small. Good quality stock arrives and sells for 75 cents per hundred Sweet peas are unusually scarce. Mignonette, daisies, bouvardia, baby primroses and other novelties, though not at all plentiful, clear well. There is, however, a demand for potted flowers, of which the supply is moderate. Good potted bulbous stock sells readily. Pussy willows are in good supply and are of exceptionally good quality. The supply of galax leaves is not large and the same can be said of leucothoe. Asparagus plumosus is also scarce.

Various Notes.

E. Kendig, of the Rosery Flower Shop, has just returned from a business trip to Buffalo and Cleveland.

Harry E. Bates, president of the Rochester Florists' Association, is desirous of having the members work together more than they have done in the last few years. He is working out a program for the season which each member should feel it his responsibility to support. A publicity committee will be appointed at the next meeting and other important work will be outlined.

Arthur M. Newborn is making up a number of sprays and wreaths of prepared and dried flowers and grasses, which find a ready sale. He reports that his output for the month of December was far in excess of anything he had anticipated. Business in this line keeps up remarkably well.

Horace J. Head spent the week-end with friends out of town.

H. E. Wilson's windows have a spring-like appearance these days. Large basket arrangements of bulbous stock combined with malacoides, as well as dainty baskets of cut flowers, make an attractive display. He has fine Delight carnations on hand, which sell readily.

Glass and art-ware table bowls filled with narcissus bulbs and pebbles, in which cut narcissi, violets and Mexican ivy are placed, attractively tied with bows of ribbon, constitute the window decoration at the store of J. B. Keller Sons.

George T. Boucher reports that he has two large decorations booked for the near future, which will require a large quantity of blooming plants and ferns. He has just received some beautiful cybotium ferns, which are on display in the windows.

The Japanese witchhazel shrubs are in full bloom at the parks. Indications are that if the weather does not continue cold, there will be others in bloom.

Bertram E. Pemberton, of the U. S. Aero Photographic Corps, has arrived home this week, having received honorable discharge. Clyde La Rocke, of the United States Motor Transport Corps, is home on a five days' furlough. He is stationed at Mineola, L. I., but expects to be discharged in a short time. H. J. H.

OMAHA, NEB.

The Market.

Weather conditions have been unfavorable in this section for the last three weeks, with cloudy skies the rule. However, temperatures have been mild; in fact, the mercury has not been down to the freezing point since the first of the year.

Stock is scarce and there has been a great demand for everything. Carnations are selling at from 4 cents to 6 cents and are scarce. Roses still are high, ranging from 6 cents to 30 cents. Paper White narcissi are bringing 6 cents on the market and we are disposing of them even at this high figure. Sweet peas are becoming more plentiful and the price range is from $1.50 to $2 per hundred.

Various Notes.

Weddings and social affairs are coming into their own again, as shown by reports of orders for decorations last week. John Bath had a nice decoration for the Fine Arts Society at the Fontenelle this week. Lee L. Larmon had a large decoration for the Cadillac Motor Co., for which he used palms and baskets of flowers.

Frank Swanson, of the South Side Florists, reports wedding decorations last week which he says reminded him of old times.

Oscar Herman, of Council Bluffs, is short of stock, but has a good crop coming on and expects to be cutting a number of roses within the next two weeks.

The J. F. Wilcox range, Council Bluffs, is getting ready for a big run on spring bedding stock and this con-spent practically a lifetime in Sioux City, he expects to do good business there. F. R. S.

Akron, O.—The Heepe Co. keeps up an attractive window display, despite the scarcity of first-quality stock. The early closing arrangement works splendidly here. The force works Saturday until 9:30 p. m., but the store is closed all day Sunday, except in case of special business.

Rochester, Minn.—Emil Rieple will open a flower shop to be supplied with stock from his greenhouse just west of the city. He intends to locate in the building north of the State bank building formerly known as the Savoy cafe. He expects to be ready for business by February 10 and has bought a large display refrigerator of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Medford, Ore.—Maddox & Bonney have bought the business of Pierce the Florist.

BLACK FUNGUS OR MOSS.

Kindly tell me what is the best method of preventing seed-boxes from becoming covered with a black fungus or moss. This growth prevents the seeds from coming up, or, if they have come up, it makes them damp off.

C. N.—Cal.

This trouble may be caused by insufficient light, or by too much water, or by a combination of the two.

Try removing the moss or fungus from the surface of the soil and then dusting the soil with air-slaked lime. It is possible, however, that the boxes are decaying and that the fungus may be propagated in the decayed wood. As a preventive for such a condition it is well to give the interior of the trays or boxes a good coat of whitewash before sowing the seeds. W. H. T.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

The retailers all over the city have been simply swamped during the week with funeral work. On every other corner one met someone delivering funeral pieces. Stock has become more plentiful with the addition of several varieties of bulbous flowers, including gladioli. The few daffodils now on the market make little showing, but by the time these lines appear they will be coming in more freely. Roses are still on the short side and both the quantity and quality of carnations leave much to be desired. The greenhouse-grown stock now selling at $6 and $8 per hundred is not so good as some of the field-grown stock of other seasons. Recent showers and warmer temperatures at night may work an improvement in them. There is little change in the greens situation, but plumosus is improving in quality daily.

Various Notes.

Robert Newcomb has been in town this week. It seems he is on the road again, after his turn at indoor work.

Two palls of orchids, one after the other, were included in the funeral orders prepared by the F. Lichtenberg forces last week.

Thomas Wright, now thoroughly recovered, says he will replant practically the whole of the roses at his greenhouses this year. He will tie to a few standard varieties only. He is not keen for novelties.

J. Rolleri is showing a line of bulbs of various sorts in the windows of the Athletic Club Florist. He says there is a steady demand for them. Cut flower business also is brisk here.

Dan MacRorie, of San Francisco, was a visitor here last week.

The store of the Broadway Florists is one of the busiest in town. Much out-of-town work is done here.

R. Overstreet is well satisfied with the start he has made at the Marcell Flower Shop.

J. Dieterich is cutting large quantities of Erica melanthera, of which he holds possibly the largest stock in the neighborhood. He reports also a carload of kentias sold to an eastern concern and several large local orders. Apparently he is not worrying over import restrictions.

The amount of sickness among the principals and assistants in the florists' business was never so great as at present. Fred Howard said recently he had none of the regular office staff on duty, as all were sick, and a large percentage of the sales people as well. A. W. Howard, of the landscape department, reports big things coming along in this line. H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

The abatement of the influenza epidemic, with an increased supply of carnations, freesias, violets and other varieties of flowers, has eased up the situation here, but there is still room for improvement, the demand being in excess of the amount of flowers brought in from day to day. Rain last week has helped out the violet crops wonderfully, both in regard to supply and quality. Unless it turns decidedly cold again, there should be plenty of violets within a week or ten days. Outdoor daffodils are beginning to arrive, and constitute welcome additions to the daily offerings. There has been a limited amount of greenhouse daffodils, but they sold for $1 a dozen, so they did not materially relieve the shortage of flowers. Freesias are the most plentiful article and they clean up readily at slightly lower prices than were obtained a week ago. Carnations have declined further in price as a result of the increased supply, few bringing more than $1 a bunch now, whereas all good stock cleaned up at double the price a few days ago. The increased demand for funeral work has made the white and pink varieties stronger than the red of late. After the whites and pinks are cleaned up regardless of quality, often fine red blooms remain. Roses are scarce in comparison with the demand and prices show no signs of weakening. Not much improvement in the supply is expected for another month or six weeks. Most of the roses show good quality, however. Beauties leave nothing to be desired and Russells are especially fine, the stems being almost as long as those of the Beauties; Columbia, Ophelia, Hadley and various other varieties are equally good. Orchids are shown freely in the florists' windows, which is a sufficient proof that the supply is equal to the demand. In greens for decorative purposes, wild lemon seems to have replaced huckleberry to a considerable extent.

Various Notes.

A meeting of florists has been called to consider plans for a big banquet in honor of members of the trade who have served their country. A number of the local boys already have returned and, with prospects favorable for others to be released from camp in the near future, there is a desire manifest to show them a cordial welcome.

A. J. Rossi, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co.,

WE ARE keeping our word and living up to our motto. This is proved by our being able to fill our holiday orders with good stock when others failed.

presided at a luncheon January 22 given by the Downtown Association, in honor of the Grizzlies, the California regiment just returned from France.

Pelicano, Rossi & Co. were pleased to receive a visit from Peter Pagano, formerly on their staff, who is now at the Presidio in this city awaiting his discharge from the army, after serving in France. Word has been received that Frank Thatcher, another member of this firm's staff, also has returned from overseas and is now stationed at Camp Merritt, N. J. Frank Pelicano says they hope to have both men back at their old duties in the near future.

Mark Ebel, leading florist of Sacramento, Cal., was in town a few days ago, bringing word of busy times in that city.

J. A. Axell, manager of the E. W. McLellan Co., says his firm is still hampered by not having enough roses to fill orders. He does not look for greatly increased supplies for another month or six weeks. M. M.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Flowers continue scarce. Carnations are wholesaling at 8 cents and all other flowers are relatively high in price. The supply of roses, perhaps, comes nearer to filling requirements than carnations. A few chrysanthemums are still coming in, chiefly Maud Dean, which sell at good prices. There is an increasing amount of freesia and Paper White narcissi, which aids materially in relieving the pressure on other flowers. Some excellent home-grown calla lilies are being shown. Orders from outside the city indicate that a scarcity of stock exists also in the sound cities and in eastern Washington. Numerous orders have reached the city from points which cannot be called Portland territory.

Club Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Portland Floral Society, January 21, 1919, was well attended, in spite of stormy weather.

The quarantine on imported stock was discussed at some length, but no definite action could be taken until more information is secured as to exactly what the act provides. A copy of the act will be read at the next meeting and discussion will follow.

No definite action has yet been taken in regard to the annual rose festival, but a decision will be reached in a few days, when the florists and growers will know what part they will take in the event.

After the meeting was adjourned a collation was provided by the refreshment committee and too much praise cannot be given Mr. Van Kirk, the chairman, for the manner in which he carried out this part of the program.

Various Notes.

Julius Broetje has been bringing in excellent freesias. Jean Robinson is also supplying a fine grade of freesias. The first locally grown Paper White narcissi were seen at the store of Clarke Bros. They were being sold at $2 per dozen. Paper Whites from California could be used only in design work by this firm.

J. Koida has been cutting fine Maud Dean chrysanthemums, which the local stores are glad to get at 50 cents each, wholesale.

ST. LOUIS NOTES

Mrs. H. G. Berning wishes to announce through The Review that the Lady Florists' Club will meet February 4 at the Y. W. C. A. hall and that all lady florists are invited to attend.

Miss Gussie Malloy, who has been visiting relatives in the east for the last six months, has returned and is back at work at Grimm & Gorly's Washington avenue store.

The sympathy of the trade is extended to Alexander Waldbart, whose son Richard died January 20 at the age of 28 years, leaving a wife and two sons. Funeral services were held from the home of his father, on Etzel avenue, January 23.

John Connon, former head of the Connon Floral Co. and now a resident of Twin Falls, Id., paid a visit to friends here last week.

W. S. Wells, until recently with the Missouri Botanical Garden, left last week to make his home in northern Wisconsin, taking with him the good wishes of his many friends in the trade.

The Maryland Florists is the name of a concern which will open its doors February 1 at Boyle and Maryland avenues. This is the former location of a prominent west end flower shop. The new establishment will be under the direction of Messrs. Schaeffer and Etietz.

Pierre Schneider, of Webster Groves, and W. J. Edwards, of Kirkwood, are cutting freesias of fine quality.

The next meeting of the Florists' Club will be held at C. A. Kuehn's wholesale house, 1312 Pine street, the afternoon of February 13. The trustees are planning for a carnation exhibition of new and old varieties.

The Kirkwood violet growers expect large crops for St. Valentine's day. Bright days and cool nights of late have brought out these flowers and the wholesalers have had to cut the price considerably below the last quotations in order to dispose of the cut.

Fred Seibel, former park gardener at Jefferson Barracks, has received honorable discharge from the army and has bought the range of Fred. W. Pope, at 3307 Pennsylvania avenue, and is restocking the houses.

Invitations have been issued for the victory banquet at the Planters' hotel February 5 and all arrangements have been completed by the committee in charge. Every florist in St. Louis and vicinity has been invited and a splendid program will be provided, including good speakers and entertainers and music for dancing. Acceptances should be in the hands of the committee not later than February 1. Additional tickets can be procured by addressing the committee, as stated in the announcement. J. J. B.

BOSTON NOTES.

Fisher and H. H. Bartsch a committee, with power to add to their number.

On motion of W. N. Craig it was unanimously voted to send vigorous resolutions condemning the quarantine on plants and bulbs from abroad to C. S. Marlatt, D. F. Houston, and all senators and congressmen from Massachusetts, to supplement resolutions adopted by the club in February, 1918.

William J. Stewart, a charter member of the club, and its first president, who has held continuous membership since its organization in 1887, was enthusiastically elected to life membership.

The treasurer's report showed a substantial gain in assets for 1918. The secretary's report stated that seven members had died during the year and only twelve new members had been admitted. Awards made at the various meetings totaled sixty-seven as against fifty in 1917. No less than forty members had joined some branch of the service during the war, two had been killed in action and a number of others wounded or gassed. The largest attendance in 1918 was 223, the smallest forty-nine, the average attendance 112. Prospects were bright for a large increase in membership and attendance during 1919. William H. Judd reported on the efficient work done by the executive committee in 1918.

Officers were installed by Past-president William D. Davis as follows: President, A. K. Rogers; vice-president, C. P. Sweetser; secretary, W. N. Craig; treasurer, S. J. Goddard; executive committee, James Wheeler, James Methven, W. H. Judd, W. H. Golby, H. H. Bartsch. President Rogers announced the following committees for 1919: Exhibits: W. H. Judd, chairman; Robert Cameron, Kenneth Finlayson, James Donald, James Methven, S. J. Goddard, William Downs, F. E. Palmer, Richard Calvert, A. E. Miles and W. C. Rust. Entertainment: George W. Hamer, chairman; John Richardson, John Miller, A. J. Wollrath, P. J. Farley, J. L. Russell, Duncan Finlayson and Frederick Cave. Welcome: J. F. Briry, chairman; A. F. Hills, R. E. Montgomery, Frank Murray, W. J. Collins, Edward Rose.

Following the regular business, an excellent entertainment was furnished by Miss Bessie Ferguson, Jeannette Shaw, Mary Stewart and Alice Dee, in fancy costume dances. Readings by Miss Linda A. Rogers and vocal selections by Miss Lidderdale and Mr. Murray all were vigorously encored. After the audience had joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner," adjournment was made and a collation served, after which an excellent orchestra furnished music for dancing, which was enjoyed until midnight.

Various Notes.

J. T. Butterworth has a remarkable crop of spikes on his Cymbidium insigne at present. There are over 100 plants of this beautiful orchid. Many other varieties of cymbidiums are to be seen here, all in vigorous health. New tiered benches of cypress have been built recently in the orchid houses here by George Butterworth and the thousands of cattleyas, dendrobes, lælias, cypripediums, odontoglossums, miltonias and other orchids are in splendid condition. Many rare hybrids are included. To Cattleya Miss Williams a large section of one bench is devoted. In another house a batch of Lycaste Skinneri, including the pure white variety, was flowering profusely. The yellow forms of Cypripedium insigne seem to grow like weeds here. Mr. Butterworth is one who does not believe in any feeding for orchids. He has certainly worked up a splendid collection, which are a great credit to him.

Arnold Janiten has retired from the firm of Janiten & Wollrath and is looking for a suitable location to start another plant factory for the Boston market. The firm will be known hereafter as Wollrath & Sons. The houses at Clematis Brook are filled to overflowing with roses, French hydrangeas, spiræas and pelargoniums for Easter trade. Other varieties are grown in smaller quantities. One or two benches of Laddie and Rosalia carnations are carrying a fine crop.

A. A. Pembroke, of North Beverly, is having special success with Carnation Good Cheer this season. It nets fancy prices. Several benches are devoted to Lady Northcliffe, which is in heavy crop. There are nine long benches of Pink Delight, which succeeds splendidly here. Matchless and White Benora are grown as whites. Mr. Pembroke's new improved sport from Benora carries immense flowers which for some time realized $20 per hundred this season. Rosalia and Rosette are other varieties grown. Fine sweet peas are growing on the posts in the carnation houses and a crop of Godfrey callas proves useful.

BROWN BULB RANCH, - Capitola, Cal.

winter fruits and vegetables is being prepared by the Gardeners' and Florists' Club for the exhibition to be given in Horticultural hall February 18. As the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will hold no winter or spring show, this exhibition should appeal strongly to the public. A number of novelties will be staged and in the way of orchids one exhibitor will display a fine group of phalænopsis.

The local delegation to the Cleveland convention, whose names were given in The Review of January 16, left January 27, taking a number of exhibits with them.

The W. W. Edgar Co. has potted over 12,000 cold storage lilies and hopes to have a large proportion of these in flower for the Easter trade. This concern has large batches of roses, hydrangeas, spiræas, genistas and other plants coming along also.

Prof. M. G. Kains, of Columbia University, New York, had a large audience January 25, to enjoy his illustrated lecture on "Home Garden Fruits." Numerous questions were asked the lecturer, who held the interest of his audience for two hours. Leonard Barron, of Garden City, N. Y., speaks on "Gardening After the War" February 1.

The New England Nurserymen's convention at the American House has brought many visitors from a distance to Boston this week. The sessions have been well attended and proved most interesting and practical.

Penn in his window display this week had some fine specimen azaleas grown by R. & J. Farquhar & Co. Included was a beautiful specimen of A. Kæmpferi. Penn had his usual Burns window last week, and continues a beach scene at Palm Beach, Fla., this week.

Dolansky & McDonald, who have had quarters for some time below the Boston Coöperative Market, have taken the commodious store vacated by the Waban Rose Conservatories on Winthrop square and have given the new quarters a complete overhauling. They are now ready for business at their new stand.

James Wheeler is having great success this season with Carnation Aviator and will plant it largely next season. Benora and Pink Delight are well grown by him. Matchless is the leading white, but will be planted less next season. Rosalia and Ward will both be given a trial another year.

Neal E. Boyle, of Malden, has a most promising sport from Stanley rose, which he is registering under the name of President Wilson. The flowers are of a vivid rose-pink color and are much more freely produced than those on Ophelia. The foliage is unusually fine. Mr. Boyle planted out a small batch of own-root Stanleys. Compared with several benches of grafted plants, the own-root stock was weak. Killarney, White Killarney, Ophelia and Hoosier Beauty are other sorts grown and all seemed to be in prime condition. W. Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

JANUARY weather has been highly favorable to the mail order seed trade, and there is a general disposition to look on January increases as so much net gain.

AT last week's canners' convention the official action was in the direction of hip-hurrah encouragement to the industry to go ahead strong, but the individual opinion was less confidently optimistic and there was no rush to buy seeds.

A. HENDERSON & Co., Chicago, have bought the business, stock and contracts of Winterson's Seed Store, also of Chicago, and will combine and develop the two businesses at the address of the latter, 166 North Wabash avenue.

AN Oklahoma City editor urges the passage of a pure seed law by the legislature now in session as a necessity to protect the interest of the farmer, arguing that the principle which underlies pure food legislation applies equally to the sale of seeds.

GEORGE TEGELAAR, of Drevon-Tegelaar & Co., Ollioules, France, who married the daughter of a well known Chicago florist, and calls that city home, returned last week from an outing with Mrs. Tegelaar on the east coast of Florida. He is on his way to New York to open a permanent office for his firm. John Drevon, the French member of the firm, has just been released from a German prison; he was captured in 1914.

A MILLION PACKETS.

The Everette R. Peacock Co., Chicago, has begun the work of putting up a million packets of vegetable and flower seeds.

PACIFIC COAST SEED NOTES.

A bill to regulate the sale of seeds and requiring seed dealers to guarantee the quality of seeds was introduced in the senate of California a few days ago by Senator Rigdon. The measure would create a division of seed inspection under the jurisdiction of the state horticultural commissioners.

Owen S. Trott, representing London garden and flower seedsmen, has been making a tour of the seed-growing districts of California. He says practically all of Europe is now depending upon this state to supply the seeds that formerly came from Germany.

The Fancher Creek Nurseries, Fresno, Cal., again have purchased the crop of walnuts from a certain large tree in the yard of Mrs. Rachel Lyman, at Yuba City, Cal., for use as seed for nursery stock. This tree is said to be one of the largest walnut trees in the state and is forty years old. M. M. and an uptown retail store. "The warehouse is being equipped at once to take care of the garden-seed and small-field-seed business," writes Manager Otto S. Bofinger. "An entire new stock is being shipped there from Lawrence and we expect that this department will be ready for business soon. Carload and heavy field-seed business will be handled for a while from the grain elevator.

"We have large stocks at Lawrence, so that we can supply our Oklahoma City store with entire new stocks without delay. All seed stocks in the burned warehouse were totally destroyed.

"Unfortunately the entire mailing list, both wholesale and retail, was lost. Therefore it is necessary that our customers write for price lists. Wholesale price lists and retail catalogues were not burned."

RECOVERY UNDER CONTRACT.

Provisions of Agreement.

In the recent case of Masters vs. Burrell, 176 Pacific Reporter, 316, decided by the Colorado Supreme court, it appeared that the plaintiff contracted to grow five acres of Long White Spine cucumbers and deliver the seed to be cleaned therefrom to the defendant, who agreed to pay 20 cents a pound therefor. The defendant furnished the stock seed and reserved the right to reject the crop, should he find it to be unfit for seedsmen's use. On maturity of the crop and delivery of the seed, the defendant resisted liability for the agreed price on a ground indicated in the following extract from an opinion handed down by the Supreme court, affirming a decision in the plaintiff's favor:

"The defendant further contends 'that, as a matter of law, the plaintiff was not entitled to recover.' To support this contention, counsel quotes that portion of the contract which provides that the defendant 'may refuse to accept the crop' if, in his judgment, the same is in any respect 'unfit for seedsmen's use,' and also quotes from the contract the following clause:

" 'No payment is to be made for any seed which you (meaning the defendant) do not consider sufficiently pure, clean and dry for seedsmen's use.'

Circumstances Alter Cases.

"After discussing the validity and effect of such provisions, counsel next states that the evidence in this case shows that the defendant notified the plaintiff that the seeds were unfit for seedsmen's use and that he would not accept them.

"From the foregoing situation the defendant draws the conclusion that he had the right to refuse to accept and pay for the seed delivered. The conclusion, however, is not warranted by the pleadings and the evidence in this case. The contract provided that the plaintiff was to grow the seed from 'stock seed to be furnished' by the defendant. The plaintiff's reply, while admitting that the plaintiff failed to deliver pure and unmixed seed, also alleged, in effect, that the plaintiff's noncompliance with the contract as to the character of the seed to be furnished by him was due to the fact that defendant furnished impure and mixed stock seed for planting. The plaintiff introduced evidence to support this allegation, the jury found such evidence sufficient, and we cannot say that the same was insufficient to support the verdict. This being true, and the other issues also being found in favor of the plaintiff, it follows that the plaintiff was entitled to recover. If the plaintiff failed to deliver pure and unmixed seed, to the satisfaction of the defendant, such failure was due to the act of the defendant in the latter's failure to furnish to plaintiff pure and unmixed stock seed for planting. The defendant is not now in a position to escape liability on account of the plaintiff's noncompliance with the contract as to the character of the seed to be delivered."

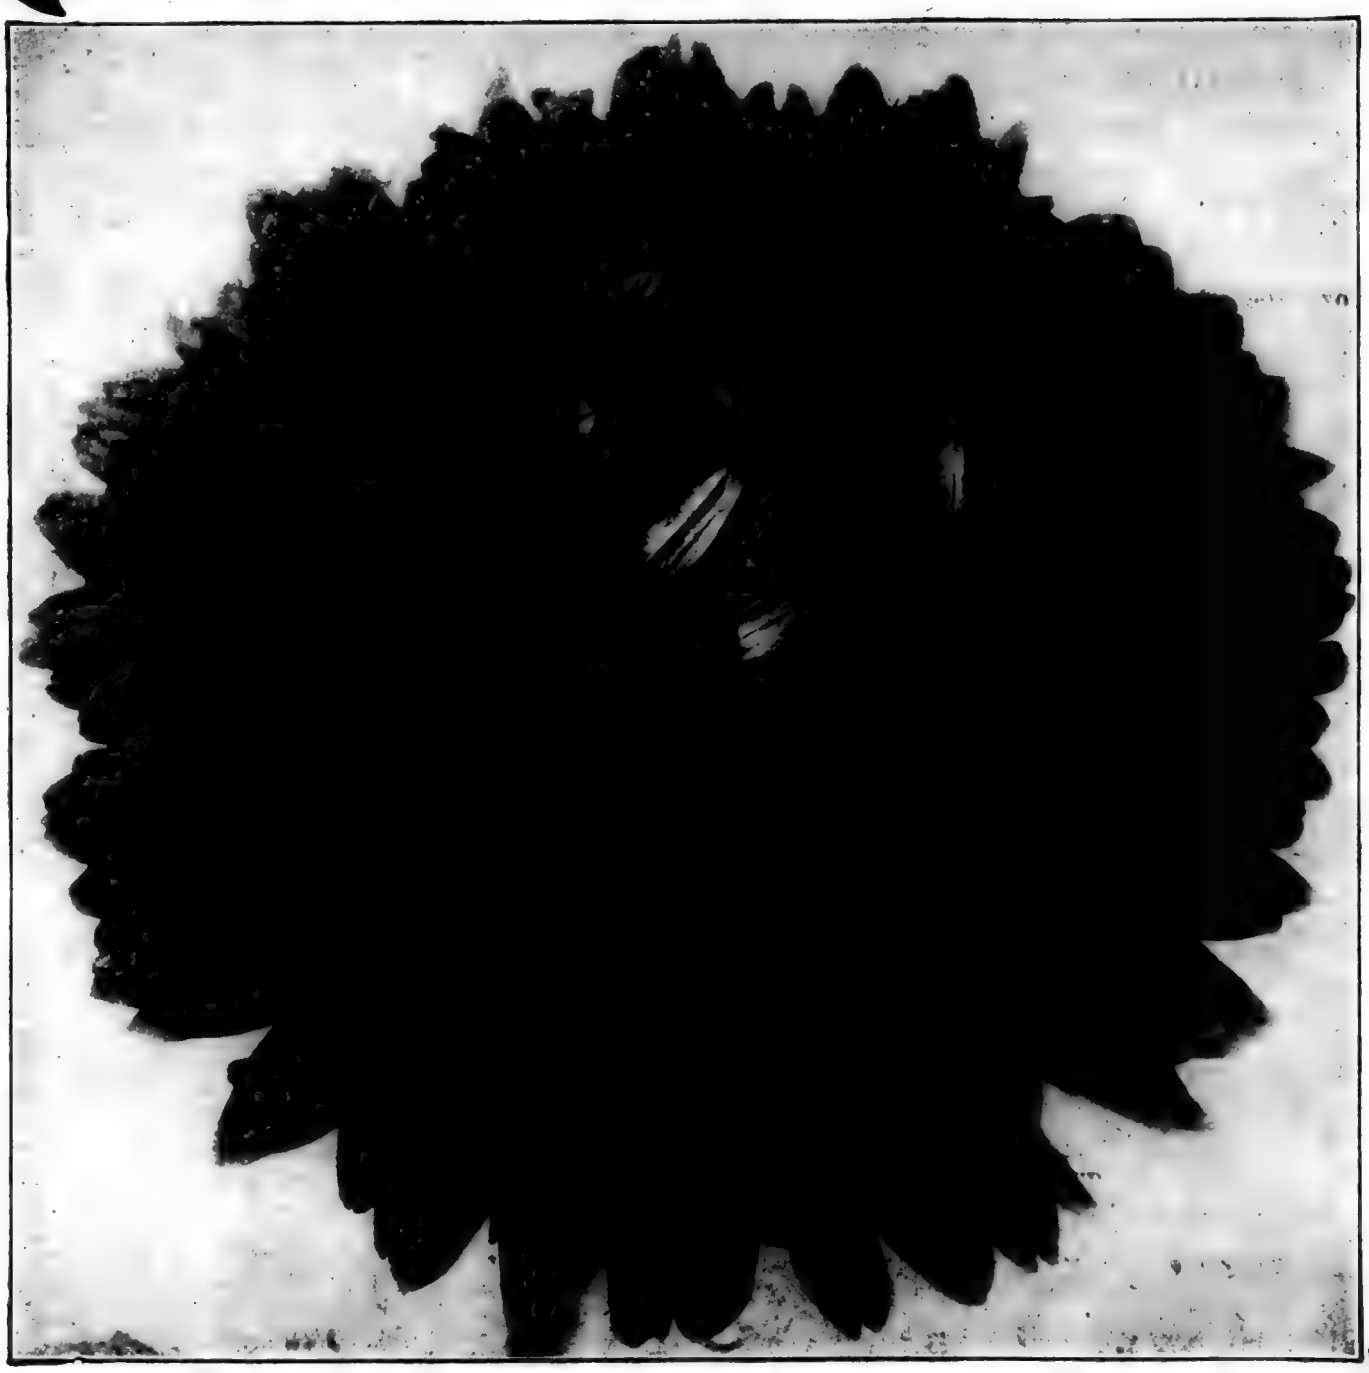
CONTROLLING ANTHRACNOSE.

The anthracnose diseases of cucumber and other vines overwinter both in the fields where diseased crops are grown and on the seed saved from such fields. Disease-free seed can be secured by soaking the seeds for five minutes in a one to 1,000 solution of corrosive sublimate and then washing fifteen minutes in running water. The germination is not injured by this treatment.

Seed treatment can be done most advantageously and with the smallest outlay of time and labor by commercial seed dealers, seed growers, pickle companies, or other wholesale seed handlers while the seeds are still in large quantities, and before they have been distributed to retailers and planters.

Seed treatment is a comparatively simple operation and can be done in

VICK'S FAMOUS ASTERS



THREE GLORIOUS NEW VARIETIES

Just at this time, the dawn of a new era of peace, and just when the world has been released from the stress and terror of war and is ready to find fitting expression for the joy and hope in beautiful flowers, we are very fortunate in being able to offer three new varieties of Asters of exceptional merit. Never have we offered at any time three more attractive varieties than HEART OF FRANCE, SILVERY ROSE and PEERLESS YELLOW. These are just what every florist needs to make his offerings for the coming year most attractive and unique.

Prepare to fill the demand for flowers, which has already been indicated by the splendid trade in carnations this past season, by having the best and most beautiful Asters ever produced in your market. It is the florist with the proper perspective who will take advantage of the opportunities ahead, that will reap a rich reward and will be enabled to serve his fellowmen in a very real fashion. Plan to make this year the best and brightest ever experienced.

We have introduced more new distinct varieties of Asters than all other American Seedsmen combined.

We are now the largest growers of high-grade Asters in the world.

HEART OF FRANCE ASTER

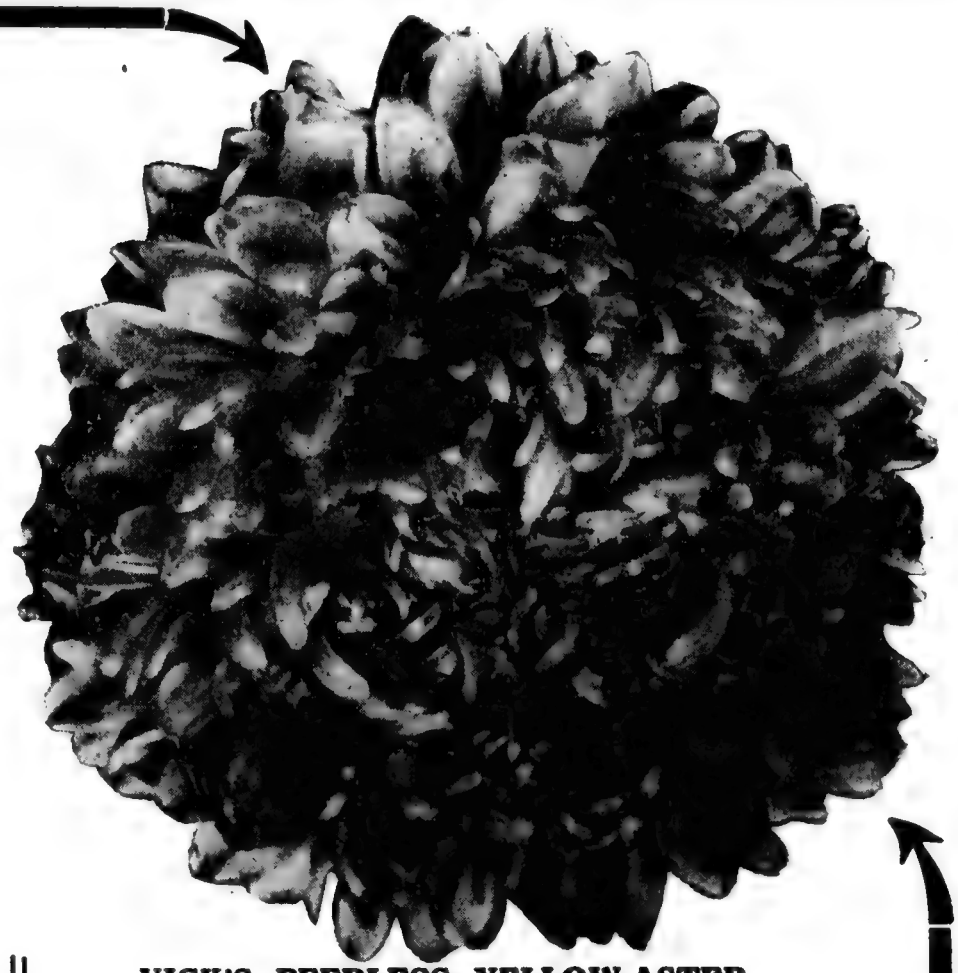
The most glorious rich, red aster ever introduced. All others have somber shades of blue or too much yellow in the color pigments. Heart of France opens red as the purest ruby, deepens with age and retains its remarkable beauty to the very end. The petals appear strikingly changeable, showing now a glow and sheen quite unique, now a soft warm velvety texture. In any light, natural or artificial, Heart of France is startlingly beautiful and will command instant admiration. The flowers are large and full with never a trace of hollow center. The plants are of branching type and very robust habit. The stems are long and strong and have very few laterals. The plants begin to bloom quite early in the season and open fully with the mid-season varieties. They retain their brilliancy and luster for a longer period than almost any other color. This will be a tip-top variety for florists as well as home gardeners, for the reason that the flowers and stems are so large and vigorous and their shipping and long keeping qualities are such as to make it a winner for almost any purpose. Heart of France will surely supplant all other reds and near-reds of either branching or upright types because of its marvelous beauty and other satisfactory characteristics. In packets only 25c; 2 for 40c.

VICK'S SILVERY ROSE ASTER



Here is another robust, long stemmed, large flowering new variety. Every petal is a combination of deep lilac rose, almost cerise, very delicately threaded with white. Do not get the impression that this is a striped variety. The threads are so tiny as to give the petals a silvery sheen. Even the slightest change in light will shade the petals from a rich glowing rosy cerise to a silvery rose. The plants are very vigorous. The stems are unusually long and the flowers very large. All these distinctive and excellent qualities are sure to make Vick's Silvery Rose very popular with the cut flower trade. In packets only 25c, 2 for 40c.

VICK'S PEERLESS YELLOW ASTER

The most satisfactory yellow yet produced. Every flower will come a beautiful chrysanthemum yellow. The flowers are remarkably full and ball shaped, with centers deeply covered with curled and twisted florets. The plants are of branching type and very vigorous. It is not unusual to find a plant with from twenty to thirty good flowering stems sufficiently long and with flowers of ample size for extra fancy cut flower purposes. So numerous and large are the flowers that the plants are completely covered like a golden dome. It is certainly a winner in its class and color. In packets only 25c, 2 for 40c.

VICK'S SEED FARMS

Situated in one of the garden spots of America, where quality, hardiness, and productiveness predominate,—over six hundred acres devoted to growing high grade vegetable, farm and flower seeds. Our farms constitute one of the show places of Rochester and Western New York with their vast expanse of beautiful flowers, of which we grow many other kinds than asters. Flowers, vegetables and farm crops are grown under conditions that produce seeds of the most desirable type. Every effort is made to keep up the standard of excellence that the name Vick implies.

Caution—The highly poisonous nature of corrosive sublimate (mercuric chloride) should be kept in mind throughout the entire process of seed treatment.

In practice the following procedure has been found advisable and is recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture: In order to dissolve the mercuric chloride rapidly, an equal quantity of ammonium chloride should be used. Purchase one pound each of mercuric chloride and ammonium chloride for every 500 pounds of seeds to be treated. Make up a concentrated stock solution of a strength of one to twenty by dissolving one pound of each in two and one-half gallons of water. This stock solution is diluted to one to 1,000 by adding two quarts to twenty-four and one-half gallons of water. Stir thoroughly before using. Metal containers can not be used for the mercuric chloride solution.

Place the seeds in loosely woven bags, fifty pounds in each. The bags should not be over three-quarters full, to allow for swelling of the seeds and to facilitate stirring. Immerse the bag of seeds in twenty-five gallons of the one to 1,000 bichloride solution and agitate vigorously to secure thorough wetting of the seeds. Remove the bag promptly at the end of five minutes and immerse at once in running water and stir thoroughly. Wash about fifteen minutes. Dry the seeds as rapidly as possible. Forced drying by an air blast is much to be desired.

The bichloride solution may be used only twice, since its strength is reduced by use. Make up a fresh dilution from the stock solution for every two bags of seeds.

Guard against reinfection of the treated seeds. Bags to be used for treated seeds should be soaked in the one to 1,000 bichloride solution for at least five minutes, rinsed and dried. This can be done most readily by using these bags

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

C. W. Brown & Son, Ashland, Mass.—A 12-page catalogue of gladiolus bulbs, including fourteen of the company's own production. Gladiolus seeds also are offered.

Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa.—A 6-page, illustrated folder, a little more than half of which is devoted to cannas, principally of the "Swastika Brand," while the rest of the space is occupied by roses, "Oak Brand" shrubs, vines and perennials.

S. M. Isbell & Co., Jackson, Mich.—A comprehensive, illustrated catalogue of seeds and such other stock as seedsmen carry. The book is bound in an attractive, lithographed cover and contains 128 compactly printed pages, besides two colored inserts.

Sluis & Groot, Enkhuizen, Holland.—General catalogue of flower seeds, arranged in alphabetical order; printed in English, but with the prices in Holland currency; a clearly printed, businesslike book, without illustrations.

Weeber & Don, New York, N. Y.—A well made, attractive catalogue of seeds, bulbs, plants, roots and supplies; 104 good-sized pages, in a particularly tasteful, colored cover, printed by the offset process. At the beginning are three pages of novelties and specialties in flower and vegetable seeds. Among the prominent items of stock are the "Bonnieseed" lawn grass and other grass seed mixtures for various purposes.

W. W. Wilmore, Denver, Colo.—Two catalogues, general and wholesale, offering dahlias and other stock. The general catalogue consists of sixteen pages, in a plain but strong and neat cover, and is well illustrated. Page 1 is devoted to the one new dahlia which is believed to have surpassing merit; then follow "new and extra choice dahlias," "dahlias that made Denver famous," etc. At the end are gladioli, phloxes, peonies, miscellaneous perennials and hardy vines. The trade list is condensed to four pages.

Chris. Reuter, New Orleans, La.—Illustrated catalogue of seeds, bulbs, plants, roses, nut trees, general nursery stock, tools and sundries; eighty large pages, clearly printed on a good quality of paper and bound in an original and striking cover of the offset style, showing New Orleans as "the central distributing point" of the south, with the Reuter establishment as "the magnet of reliability" which is attracting trade from all directions.

Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O.—An illustrated, 176-page catalogue, carefully and systematically arranged, especially with reference to the division of the stock into separate classes or departments. A large stock is offered in many distinct lines, about in the following order: Vegetable and field seeds, garden implements, flower seeds, greenhouse and bedding plants, field-grown and pot-grown roses, hardy perennials, ornamental shrubs, fruit-bearing stock, nut trees, ornamental trees. The prices are quoted according to the cental system.

Beacon, N. Y.—President Benjamin Hammond, of the American Rose Society, was honored by his fellow townsmen in being elected chairman of the meeting held January 23, called for the purpose of formulating plans to give a hearty welcome to the home-coming soldiers and sailors. The weather was particularly inclement, but the interest felt in this project brought out a good attendance and Mr. Hammond presided at a discussion of plans and appointed committees to make arrangements for the parade and other festivities which are to signalize the event.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

President, J. R. Mayhew, Waxahachie, Tex.; vice-president, J. Edward Moon, Morrisville, Pa.; secretary, Charles Sizemore, Louisiana, Mo.; counsel, Curtis Nye Smith, 19 Congress St., Boston, Mass.; treasurer, J. W. Hill, Des Moines, Ia.

THE exporters in the horticultural trades in England, France, Belgium and Holland all are taking action to bring the American quarantine to the attention of their respective governments. Interesting international developments seem likely to ensue.

IT develops that the Dutch steamer, Rotterdam, one of the largest and newest afloat, which was laid up in 1916 because its owners would not risk it on the submarine-infested sea, on its first trip across is bringing, in addition to a quantity of Dutch nursery stock and gladiolus bulbs, a number of American troops, taken on at Brest.

ASSEMBLYMAN FRANK GRASS, of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., who exports forestry seeds collected from timber areas of Wisconsin and adjoining states, numbered among his clientele one William Hohenzollern, late of Potsdam, Prussia. Just what the indebtedness of this customer is Mr. Grass does not state, nor what he considers the prospects of settlement. But he would like to collect $500 from the estate of the late Nicholas Romanoff, another of his patrons, for consignments of seeds delivered before the war to the estates of the czar in Russia.

THE Fruitland Nurseries and the landscape engineering business of the P. J. Berckmans Co., located in the environs of Augusta, Ga., have been purchased by Sigmund Tarnok, who also has leased the nursery lands belonging to R. C., L. A. and P. J. A. Berckmans, with the option of buying. The charter of the first-named concern expired by limitation March 13, 1918, and the stockholders decided not to ask for a renewal but to close up the affairs of the corporation. This action was not due to business embarrassments, as the company has enjoyed excellent success throughout the half century of its existence. Mr. Tarnok is a native of Switzerland and has been in the United States five years. He is well qualified both by education and experience for the undertaking upon which he enters and he will retain the entire office and field force of employees to continue the business. L. A. and P. J. A. Berckmans have been retained by several of the larger fruit growing concerns in the south as consulting horticulturists. The sale does not affect the interests of Berckmans Bros., conducting orchards at Mayfield, Ga.

SPRING PROSPECTS FINE.

"We find the demand much greater than the present supply of fruit trees and berry plants and all first-class fruit trees, especially apple and peach trees, doubtless will be cleaned up before the end of the coming spring season," writes J. E. Stoner, proprietor of the Westminster Nursery, Westminster, Md.

"On ornamental shade trees and shrubbery there is a good demand, but on most items the supply will equal the demand. Norway maple is in stronger demand than some others, such as horse chestnut, Lombardy poplar, oriental planes, etc.

"On shrubs there is a strong demand. Shrubs, in fact, show an increased demand now that the war is over, yet there seems to be a surplus on California privet, Berberis Thunbergii, Spiræa Van Houttei, althæas and Deutzia Pride of Rochester.

"The volume of our business for 1918 was double that for 1917, and the last fall season was good. The coming spring season promises to be the best in the history of our business."

A Good Meeting.

It was the twenty-ninth annual meeting and members were present from fourteen states, representing forty-nine nursery firms. The meeting was one of the most interesting held in years and the visiting members went away well satisfied with the work accomplished.

A resolution was adopted to the effect that nurserymen should discourage the practice of replacing trees that do not grow. The association also went on record as being opposed to the practice of certain newspapers of accepting advertisements of low-grade nursery stock at killing prices, and also the practice of some newspapers of offering nursery stock free to secure subscriptions. The association soon will publish a complete report of unsold stock on hand. This report will be sent to the members of the Western Association of Nurserymen and the American Association of Nurserymen.

There was a special meeting for those nurserymen who sell at retail through agents, during the evening, January 22.

Many Interesting Addresses.

There was a fine program of talks on subjects of general interest to the trade, as follows:

DENVER, COLO.

The Market.

January business has been better than in other years. A large amount of stock comes in, but is readily taken up. Easter lilies and callas are coming in good supply and orchids are conspicuous in window displays.

Small flowers also are becoming plentiful, after a long period of shortage. Good stevia is to be had. Sweet peas, calendulas, freesias, myosotis, California and home-grown violets are available. There is a good collection of pot plants, which includes cyclamens, freesias, Primula malacoides, narcissi, both yellow and white; cinerarias, heather, tulips and jonquils.

Various Notes.

One of the prettiest flower shops in Denver is the new one at 935 Fifteenth street, conducted by the Central Floral Co.

O. E. Sandberg, the Broadway florist, says trade keeps up unusually well at his place.

C. F. Maler added considerably to his already large collection of orchids by purchasing the entire collection of William Horlacher, consisting of 450 plants. This makes Mr. Maler one of the largest orchid growers in this section.

Charles F. Edgar, formerly with the Alpha Floral Co., is traveling for the McCallum Co., of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Charles Fohn was in town last week calling on his many friends in the trade.

Ben Boldt brought in the first tulips and jonquils the other day. He also has a splendid lot of heather in 5 and 6-inch pots. R. S.

CHRISTMAS GOLD

Scored 90 Points by the Chrysanthemum Society of America, December 14, 1917

Here is the most profitable Pompon to date

A seedling of the widely grown and very popular Baby Pompon, the clear, deep golden yellow of its regularly formed little blooms makes a brilliant exhibit. The habit of growth is that of the parent variety, but its greatest merit is that its season is December 15 to 20, after practically all other pompons are past. It will coin money for everyone who has it at Christmas.

What good judges say of it:

The box of flowers of Christmas Gold pompon came safely and I would be glad to get 500 rooted cuttings of this variety, and would be willing to pay $30.00 per hundred for same. Should you decide to put Christmas Gold on the market this spring, please advise whether you can let me have the number mentioned, payment to be made before shipment of cuttings.—Charles M. Weaver, Ronks, Pa., December 19, 1918.

The box of Christmas Gold pompon mum came to hand in good shape. It is a splendid flower and in my opinion a wonderful flower to have through the whole month of December and especially at Christmas. Wish we had had a thousand bunches of it this season at Christmas time. I hope you will see your way to grow a big stock and sell a lot of it to our Detroit growers, so we will have it to sell in our Detroit retail stores next Christmas.—E. A. Fetters, Detroit, Mich., January 3, 1919.

The yellow pompon chrysanthemum, Christmas Gold, reached us December 19 in perfect condition. To our mind the sale of this flower at Christmas would be limited only by the supply to be had. It has remarkable keeping qualities and at this date, January 4, it is still in a fairly good condition. We feel that you have a good thing.—Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C., January 4, 1919.

Your late blooming pompon, Christmas Gold, was received December 19. Half the bunch we kept in our icebox and the other half I took home with me. Those I took home remained in good condition until December 26, and those in the icebox until December 28, when the flowers were still good, but the foliage had shriveled. The variety, in my opinion, is a very good one for working up, not only for Christmas, but all through December, when there is a scarcity of the smaller yellow flowers. Christmas Gold seems to be a good shipper; it reached us in perfect condition.—Max Schling, New York, December 10, 1919.

Young stock will be in great demand after next season, when its merit has become known to the growers.

The Market.

Market conditions during the week have been what might be termed pleasant. The amount of stock arriving has been just enough to satisfy requirements. Prices have been good and steady, the only exception being in white carnations, but even these move at good prices. More roses of the short grades could be used, but the market does not miss them much as long as there is a good supply of carnations, lilies and sweet peas. This does not mean that sweet peas are plentiful. They are not in sufficient supply, but usually a bunch of them will take the place of a dozen roses in a design or corsage. Judging by the shipments arriving, this flower is far short of last year's supply. Expectations are, however, that the supply will improve soon from late plantings. Tulips have put in an appearance, but most of them are short-stemmed.

Various Notes.

Oliver Klingenmeier, of the William F. Kasting Co., has been ill for several days. He now is reported recovering rapidly.

Charles J. Hewson, who for many years conducted a carnation range on Abbott road, passed away January 17. The cause of his death was an attack of influenza. Burial took place from the residence, 1639 Abbott road, January 18. He is survived by his wife.

Charles Reichert left January 23 for New York, where he will undertake the task of arranging flowers in the new Hotel Pennsylvania. Mr. Reichert has had thorough preparation for his new situation and his friends wish him success and happiness. It is reported that the local orders for this hotel exceed $1,000.

A thief broke two panes of glass in L. H. Neubeck's greenhouses on Main street January 20, stole all the cut flowers in the icebox, opened the rear door and made his exit.

F. J. Baum, Kingsley street, has a fine supply of Dutch hyacinths in flower. For the Easter market several hundred roses are being brought in.

Leather Leaf Fern—Polystichum Coriaceum

I think we have the largest stock of this Fern in cultivation. A splendid house plant. The leaves are a dark, lustrous green and will keep for weeks after cutting. Now used in high-grade floral work and commended by many of the best retail florists.

Every retail grower should have plants in some corner of greenhouse for cutting. Once used, you will wonder how you ever "kept house" without it.

For a short time I offer strong divisions, ready for benching, at price asked by others for 2¼-inch pots; $10.00 per 100.

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

Roses continue scarce. Narcissi are arriving in quantities. The cut of carnations has dropped off considerably and, if it were not for the springlike weather of the last few weeks, the shortage would have been much more marked. The demand for cut flowers is not so active as it might be, but funeral work keeps stock cleaned up. After the morning rush at the wholesale market, narcissi are the only flowers left. Easter and calla lilies continue scarce. A few sweet peas are arriving. Daffodils are beginning to appear. Special and medium grades of American Beauty roses continue on the short side. Single and double violets are available in larger supply than the market absorbs. Calendulas, myosotis, wallflowers and other novelties clear readily.

Various Notes.

A. Barber has been slightly ill during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pentecost are spending the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla. W. F. B.

NEWARK, N. J.

Business continues good, though flowers are not plentiful and prices remain high. But profits on sales at times are less than normal, because the public will not purchase flowers when prices are advanced beyond certain figures. Plants and ferns are more reasonable in price and there are therefore larger profits in these lines. Many of the florists try to interest prospective purchasers in plants, if they hesitate because of the prices asked for flowers. As a result the sale of plants has been stimulated.

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the S. A. Rogers Co., which is taking over the interests of the S. A. Rogers Nursery Co., located at 453 Broad street. The authorized capital is $40,000. The purchase price of the nurseries is $19,000. Incorporators are Walter E. Pratt, of Liberty Corners, N. J., Samuel A. Rogers and G. Tracy Pierson, both of East Orange.

George Penek, of Broad street, reports business good in spite of the high prices. R. B. M.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

STEAM FOR A SOUTHERN RANGE.

Enclosed is a sketch of our range. You will note that it is located in northern Mississippi. Please tell us how to pipe it for steam, stating the right size of the main return to the boiler, the height and general location of the flow pipes, the size of trap that should be used, etc. We have a fire-box, high-pressure boiler, of sixty horsepower.

A. F. C.—Miss.

From the accompanying sketch we learn that there are seven houses, of the following sizes, beginning at the south side of the range: Three houses 18x125, one house 35x125, one 37x125, one 20x100 and one 35x80. Except on the north side of the house 35x80, where there are also three feet of glass, and on the west end of the three north houses, where there is a potting shed, there is a solid board wall four feet high on the exposed sides and ends of the houses. The only exception to this is at the east end of the third house from the south, where the boiler house is located.

We are not certain as to how low an outdoor temperature must be planned for in northern Mississippi, but judge that about 10 degrees above zero will ordinarily be a minimum temperature, although the mercury may occasionally drop a few degrees lower. Nothing is stated regarding the temperatures at which the houses are to be kept, but we shall consider, in making an estimate of the radiation, that a temperature of 60 degrees is desired, indicating also the number of return pipes that must be omitted in case 50 degrees will suffice.

The boiler mentioned will answer well for heating the range; in fact, a 50-horsepower boiler would be amply large.

Although all of the houses are connected, we would suggest the use of two main supply and return pipes, using one for the three houses that are eighteen feet wide and the other for the remaining houses.

For the three south houses we would take off a 3-inch flow at the boiler. Carrying it into the north one of the three houses, which is nearest the boiler, we would take off a 2-inch flow and then reduce to 2½-inch. Carry this into the middle house of the three, and again take off a 2-inch supply pipe for this house. Again reduce to 2-inch and carry this into the first (south) house, where it should be used as a flow.

Each house in the south group has now been supplied with a 2-inch main. These mains should be carried through to the west end of the houses and should be supported a foot or two below the ridge. If for any reason this location is not desirable, the 2-inch mains may be divided and two 1½-inch flows used in each house. These may be carried

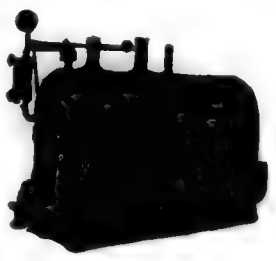
HEATED BY KROESCHELL BOILERS

The Conservatories of the President of the United States and the U. S. Propagating Gardens are located opposite the Washington monument at Washington, D. C. Over forty greenhouses are devoted to the growing of cut flowers, orchids, stove plants, tropical and decorative stock, and all bedding and ornamental plants for the U. S. Government buildings and grounds at Washington.

A No. 11 KROESCHELL BOILER was installed in 1906 for the high temperature houses. This boiler replaced a number of other makes and made a remarkable record for fuel economy.



UNCLE SAM'S IRON FRAME RANGE ERECTED IN 1910 IS HEATED BY KROESCHELL BOILERS.

The Plant Introduction Garden of the United States Department of Agriculture at Chico, California, is heated by No. 2 Kroeschell Boiler and Generator System.

In 1912 two No. 5 KROESCHELL BOILERS were installed for the new range of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, at Garret Park, Md.

The U. S. Government's new establishment, the Northern Great Plains Field Station, at Mandan, N. Dakota, ordered a No. 7 KROESCHELL BOILER for the new greenhouse range erected in 1913.

August, 1914, two more No. 11 KROESCHELL BOILERS were ordered for White House Conservatories and U. S. Propagating Gardens, Washington, D. C.

means better flowers—more naturally grown. The Morehead System maintains an even, consistent temperature throughout your growing houses by eliminating sluggish circulation and delivering every drop of the condensation, which is now allowed to clog up your steam lines, directly back to the boiler while it is hot.

You not only get better flowers, but you also save a large per cent of your fuel.

Write for Back-to-Boiler Book Today

YOU CAN EASILY do it! Hundreds of other florists—sick of the never-ending bother of antiquated steam pumps—have solved the sluggish circulation problem permanently with the

Morehead Back-to-Boiler SYSTEM

Big representative concerns like the Minneapolis Floral Company, the Memphis Floral Company, the Pittsburgh Floral Company, etc., etc., now drain their steam lines and return the pure hot condensation immediately to the boilers as feed water with the Morehead System.

Quickly and easily attached to your present apparatus, the Morehead System gives you absolute control of the temperature in every foot of your houses—and soon pays for itself in the saving of fuel.

Tell us about your present heating troubles—our engineers will give you expert information on exactly what you may expect the Morehead System to do for you—and send you a book which covers the greenhouse steam plant situation thoroughly.

on the plates. For the coils we would use five 1¼-inch returns in each house, unless the south wall of the south house is exposed or of light construction, in which case an additional pipe may be placed on the south wall. The returns may be arranged on the walls in two coils of two or three pipes each, unless bottom heat is desired under raised benches, in which case two pipes may be placed under each bench. Connect each coil with the return main at the east end of the houses, using a 1¼-inch pipe to carry the drip from the first house and increasing to 1½-inch after the second house has been connected.

For the other four houses, start at the boiler with a 4-inch main, and after entering the first house take off a 2½-inch supply pipe for that house. Carry the main into the house 37x125, after reducing it to 3½-inch. In this house, after taking off a 2-inch main to supply the wall coils, reduce to 3-inch and carry the main through the house under the ridge and then into the potting shed. After taking off a 2-inch feed to supply the middle coils in the house 37x125, run it along the ends of the two north greenhouses and take off a 2-inch and a 2½-inch main, respectively, to supply the coils in each of the other houses. In the house 35x125, run a 2-inch flow upon each plate and with it supply nine or ten 1¼-inch returns.

In the house 37x125, it will be noted that we have provided a 2-inch flow to supply the wall coils, besides running the 3-inch flow to the other two houses under the ridge and taking off a 2-inch flow from this at the west end to supply the coils in the middle of the house. We would run a 1½-inch main on each plate, and connect each of these with a wall coil of three 1¼-inch pipes. Two 1¼-inch pipes will answer for the middle coil in this house, unless a temperature of more than 60 degrees is desired. Two additional returns should give 65 to 70 degrees if desired.

We have provided a 2-inch and a 2½-inch feed pipe at the west end of the other houses, which are, respectively, 20x110 and 35x80, the latter house having three feet of glass in addition to four feet of board wall on the north side. In the house 20x100 use seven 1¼-inch returns and place thirteen returns in the north house. As the main return from this part of the range, use a 1¼-inch pipe for the drip from the north house and enlarge it to 1½-inch before connecting the third house. After reaching the boiler house, the two returns may be united and connected with the steam trap.

The steam traps listed in our advertising columns are among the best that are made. Select one that will handle the water from 3,500 square feet of radiation.

The radiation that has been suggested for 60 degrees is as follows: For each of the 18-foot houses, one 2-inch flow or two 1½-inch flows and five or six 1¼-inch returns; for 50 degrees use one or two less returns. For the long 35-foot house, two 2-inch flows and nine or ten 1¼-inch returns; for 50 degrees use two or three less returns. For the 37-foot house, two 1½-inch flows (in addition to the 3-inch main) and eight or nine 1¼-inch returns; for 50 degrees use two or three less returns. For the 20-foot house, seven 1¼-inch returns; for 50 degrees use one less return. For the house 35x80, thirteen 1¼-inch returns; for 50 degrees use two less returns.

All of the heating pipes, both flows and returns, should be given a slight fall, about one inch in twenty feet being sufficient for the flows and one inch in fifteen feet for the returns. There should be an automatic air valve near the lower end of each coil. To shut off and regulate the heat in the different houses, there should not only be shut-off valves near where the flows and returns connect with each of the coils, but one-half of the pipes in each coil should have valves at both ends.

SCRANTON, PA.

B. E. & J. T. Cokely have purchased, from the Baur Floral Co., Erie, Pa., that part of the Baur business which was connected with the manufacture and sale of carnation menders, the pliers and staples. The business will be removed to Scranton and consolidated with the Cokely interests. The Messrs. Cokely state that the manufacturing end of the business was in such shape that it was necessary for them to have the machining reëquipped, but that they expect to push the department much harder than it ever has been pushed, even before the death of A. J. Baur, who was the one of the Baur brothers who handled this part of the business at Erie.

Standard Red Pots

DEPENDABLE STOCK — PROMPT SERVICE — LOW PRICES

You want pots you can depend on—red pots, uniform in size, shape and texture. You want pots which are smooth and strong, yet porous enough to insure the healthy growth of plants. And the prices must be reasonable, of course. That's just the kind of a deal we have to offer you.

We guarantee our stock of Standard Red Pots to be made of the best pot material obtainable, scientifically ground and carefully baked in special kilns, which insures uniform porosity and extra long life. Used exclusively by thousands of progressive florists throughout the west.

Send TODAY for our Special Florists' Bulletin No. 3. It is filled with money-saving information and special quotations you can't afford to miss. Just send a postal—that's the sure way to learn about better pots at lower prices. Better do it NOW.

The Market.

Flowers have been in demand of late for weddings, table decorations, social affairs and counter trade, as well as for funeral work. The supply of roses is inadequate, especially in the high-grade stock. Shawyer, Ophelia and the Killarneys are the most plentiful. Carnations are abundant and prices have dropped accordingly.

There is a fine supply of bulbous stock, including Dutch hyacinths and tulips, which made their first appearance of the season last week. Crocus plants in the retail flower shops mark the approach of spring. Paper White narcissi and freesias are in excellent supply. Lily of the valley is scarce. Orchids are in heavy crop and prices are lower. Sweet peas are fine. Calla and Easter lilies clear daily. Violets move fairly well.

Various Notes.

R. W. Doswell's car was wrecked when it collided with two other automobiles in the downtown section last week. Mrs. Doswell sustained painful injuries, although her condition is not regarded as serious. The damage to the machine was covered by accident insurance.

Another auto accident resulted in heavy loss a week ago, when the delivery car of W. J. & M. S. Vesey was demolished. Luckily, the driver was not seriously hurt. No insurance was carried on the car. The firm has just purchased a new delivery auto to replace the one that was wrecked.

Henry Freese has recovered from a recent severe illness and is again able to be at the store of the Freese Floral Co., of which he is manager. Miss Margaret Sturm, of the same firm, is also again at her post following several weeks' absence on account of an operation for appendicitis. R. F. B.

Gladiolus: Mrs. Watt has been grown from Massachusetts to California, and has made good with every florist who has given it a trial. Resembling the American Beauty rose in color, but more brilliant, it will occupy the same place among gladioli as does the American Beauty among roses. Unexcelled for forcing, and because of its distinctive beautiful shade and strong upright growth, it meets the need of every florist.

Homer F. Chase, Wilton, N. H.

Prince of Wales is destined to be the best florists' cut flower Gladiolus ever known. Color a clear, gorgeous, glistening salmon, melting to a throat of the sweetest yellow. Extremely early, large flowered on tall, strong spike and grand multiplier. Every spike a bouquet. Excellent forcer, weeks ahead of America, in short, the one best bet on the Gladiolus horizon. I have sold all the large bulbs and planting stock that I care to dispose of, but having a surplus of bulblets, I will sell a limited quantity at $1.00 per 100, $9.00 per 1000; 250 at 1000 rate and with every order of 500 or more, will include one large bulb free. These prices are away below value and are made for a quick disposal of my surplus. All bulblets have been kept in damp sand and are of high germination. Raymond M. Champe, Walled Lake, Oakland County, Mich.

ROSES.
20,000 1-yr. old Wax Rose stock for grafting or budding. This stock is hardier than Manetti and far superior to it, so say some of the best rose growers in the U. S. Especially adapted for producing H. P. and H. T. roses of strong growth because of its strong root growth. We intended to graft these ourselves but are unable to get help to do the grafting, and will sell them at $2.50 per 100, $20.00 per 1000; 5% less in lots of 5000 or more. Write us for testimonials from experienced rose growers as to value of this stock. L. H. Read & Co., Deer Park, Ala.

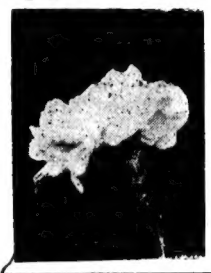
ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE TRADE:

Baur Carnation Clips and Plyers

We have purchased the sole patent rights and title of The Baur Carnation Clips and Plyers, and will continue the manufacture and distribution of same.



We are having new machinery installed for manufacturing the clips, and a large stock of plyers are being manufactured. In the course of about three weeks we expect to be able to take care of all orders, and can assure the trade from then on there will be no delay in delivering clips or furnishing repaired plyers to replace those returned defective.

Since the death of Mr. A. J. Baur, the business has not received proper attention, due to the fact that he gave the clip and plyer business his personal attention, and at the time of his death there was no one prepared to manufacture the clip and carry out the various details of this particular business.

We assure any and all customers that just as soon as we get things running, their orders for clips and plyers will be immediately filled, and all defective plyers immediately repaired and returned.

We only ask you to have a little patience, and assure you we have gone to great expense to get the business running quickly and satisfactorily.

Place your orders at once, with us or with your jobber

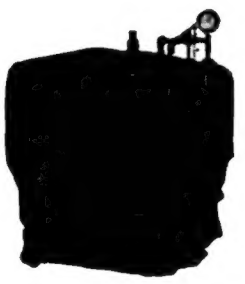
You've no right,



Mr. Grower, even if you are a busy business man, to cheat yourself out of this glorious treat.

Why, think of it! For a postage stamp, a sheet of paper, an envelope and ONE MINUTE'S time, you can have before you a blue print, specifications and estimate of any kind of an AGMCO plant you want. Suppose you don't know exactly what you want. If you have a real idea, an AGMCO estimate will give you something to tie to—something to build on. For it takes away the visionary, *un*real part of your planning and makes it a Flesh-and-Blood, Dead-in-Earnest planning, not for a substitute, but for a "surenough" greenhouse.

Grover Cleveland said: "Opportunity and accomplishment are two distant relations." Seeing the chance and seizing it are different matters. So go to it—be a force in your field, brush aside prejudice, taboo tradition, STAND FOR ENLIGHTENMENT.

THINK OF IT!
